'PROPHET' FOUND NEAR VANCOUVER

Mystery Man of the Mountain

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Province says it has discovered an 80-year-old man—the "prophet of Hollyburn Ridge"—who has lived for 20 years in a secluded mountain colony.

He was identified as Bill McFarlane, a bed-ridden but still handsome six-footer who believed he had been chosen to preach a radical religion to those who sought him out in his mountain retreat.

His existence had been known to some officials of communities on the north shore of Burrard Inlet, across from Vancouver, but had never been made public.

Province reporter Tom Hazlitt said he scrambled along miles of paths on nearby Hollyburn Mountain to get to a "fantastic, beautifully kept cabin where the prophet holds court."

The cabin, which commanded a sweeping view of Georgia Strait and Vancouver, was a "many-roomed, spotless house, well appointed but devoid of running water, telephone, electricity," the story said.

With McFarlane when the Province reporter arrived was an attractive 51-year-old woman who was introduced as the last of six "sisters" who had shared McFarlane's retreat for many years.

Told that he was described as an "old gentleman with many wives," McFarlane was quoted as saying: "That is not true in the sense that you mean it. They are my wives in spirit, but not in the physical sense."

The story added: "But the old gentleman said it was true that a child had been born there on the mountain to one of the sisters and had grown up without attending school.

"'We taught her ourselves,' he said.

"'But I want you to understand that in the physical sense I died when I was put here, and this was a virgin birth. I am her father—and there are documents in Victoria—but she is the daughter of God'."

McFarlane said the group at times consisted of 32 people, many of them young people.

He was quoted as saying he retired from business in Vancouver 20 years ago. After his wife died, he and the sisters had lived in a waterfront hotel, then in a park and were finally taken to the cabin by two surveyors.

Of the original six who followed McFarlane, only one was with him. Two died, two married and went elsewhere and they could not recall the other.

"They came, they took pity on me, and they became part of my house," he was quoted as saying. "I asked no one here."

Hazlitt said he would not presume to try to "evaluate the flow of mystic philosophy which poured in a well-modulated stream from the old man."

But he had forecast the end of the world, said there were several heavens and described his arrival at the cabin "in a strange mixture of biblical reference and prophecy."

BOMB BLAST KILLS NINE AT MYSTIC CULT RETREAT

CHATSWORTH, Calif. (AP)—A bomb demolished the main building of a religious cult in a mountain canyon today. Nine persons were killed, including two children.

Among those killed was Krishna Venta, bearded, barefoot mystic and founder of the cult, known as the Fountain of the World.

Demolition experts said a bomb apparently had been exploded.

More than 30 persons were sleeping in the building at the time, 14 of them children. Two young girls were critically burned.

First report of the blast came from a woman living near the canyon retreat, which is tucked away in mountains at the head of the San Fernando Valley, about 30 miles from Los Angeles.

The woman, Mrs. Dorothy Hamm, said she was knocked from her bed by the force of the explosion. Running outside she saw flames leaping high in the sky and heard screams for help.

Fire touched off by the explosion spread quickly to the surrounding brush. Fire officials said a major brush fire may be in the making in the canyon.

Venta, onetime San Francisco shipyard worker named Francis Pencovic, proclaimed himself a messiah when he founded the cult about 10 years ago.

A cultist identified as Brother Martin said he was in a dormitory with 11 boys when the blast blew out the walls and brought the roof crashing down. He led all 11 to safety.

The cult attracted a following of about 100 men, women and children who practiced communal living and promised a home to "all who want to live the 10 commandments, regardless of race or creed."

Venta and his followers, barefoot, bearded and robed, appeared at many brush fires, plane crashes and other disasters in the area as volunteer rescue workers and fire fighters.

BENNETT MAY APPEAR BEFORE POWER PROBE

VANCOUVER (CP)—Premier Bennett will be called to give evidence before the royal commission on public power, in his role as minister of finance, if other government financial experts cannot answer questions put to them.

Dr. Gordon Shrum, chairman of the commission, made the statement Tuesday.

The premier's aides who will testify are Dr. J. V. Fisher, his financial adviser, and deputy finance minister G. S. Bryson.

The commission will hold its first session here Thursday but will adjourn immediately until next Monday when T. H. Crosby, chairman of the B.C. Power Commission, will take the stand.

ROUGH RIDE FOR ROAD BOSS

Trail Voters Honing Up For Bennett

By PETE LOUDON, Times Political Reporter

TRAIL — Premier Bennett's smile-and-ready-answer technique will be put to a severe test in his appearance here Saturday, over 800 voters indicated here Tuesday night.

They honed their blades on four of B.C.'s top political figures and were jabbing tirelessly at the party champions when the chairman ended a peppery meeting.

Even after the Queen was sung, the chairman had to call to groups of last-minute aisle-debaters to clear the hall.

Each side had its hecklers, but most of them threw questions at Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi—and they indicated they had more for the premier.

Liberal Leader Arthur Laing, CCF Leader Robert Strachan and Tory Leader Deane Finlayson got their share of the questioning, but the chairman had to call a halt to queries to the highways minister at one point, so the other speakers could take a turn at bat.

The premier likely will be asked if highways projects promised to Rossland-Trail will be carried out as promptly if the Socreds lose the Dec. 15 by-election because Mr. Gaglardi said only, "the highways plan laid before you is a continuing one, worked out with municipal authorities. It is going ahead as planned."

But the plan was broached so long ago that former MLA, convicted bribe-taker Robert Sommers, promised part of it would be completed in 1956.

Questioners asked twice more for a direct answer concerning the spring start on a new bridge, an underpass and a railway right-of-way removal.

"I've already answered," said Mr. Gaglardi each time.

Gaglardi Challenged on Threat

But Mr. Laing reminded the audience the highways minister last Friday asked what was the point in electing an opposition member who would attack the government on one hand and then go to his department to ask highway considerations?

If this was a threat, and many people felt it was, Mr. Gaglardi didn't clarify the point, despite a challenge to do so issued by Mr. Laing. That's one the premier will likely get.

They also asked Mr. Gaglardi why two contracts for road work vital to this area were announced just before the election.

"They are being let according to project planning," said the minister.

Premier Bennett probably will be asked whether this was election project or road project planning.

The people tackled the minister on hospital insurance, Columbia hydro development, school taxation, the high incidence of royal commissions and enquiries, Mrs. Bea Zucco's denial of right to sue the Workmen's Compensation Board, PGE finances, the position of Einar Gunderson within the B.C. government, labor and federal intervention in B.C. projects.

But the question that set off the greatest explosion had to do with anti-government statements by ousted power commission general manager H. Lee Briggs.

The premier is bound to get this one.

"It has turned out Premier Bennett lied to us about Sommers. Couldn't he be doing the same thing about Mr. Briggs?" asked a man in the balcony.

Mr. Gaglardi produced the letter published earlier which was written by government financial adviser Dr. J. V. Fisher. Dr. Fisher said Mr. Briggs was wrong when he said the government planned

Leaders Urge Heavy Vote On Referendums, Bylaws

53,399 CAN VOTE—HOW MANY WILL?

Everything is ready for Thursday's civic elections in Greater Victoria. City returning officer Frank Hunter today checked the 21 ballot boxes that will be set up in the Market Building for Victoria voters. Officials of the three other municipalities also made final preparations. Some 53,399 Greater Victorians are eligible to cast their ballots between 8 a.m. and 8 p.m.

Vital Issues To Electors On Thursday

By JOHN MIKA

Mayor Percy Scurrah and Saanich Reeve George Chatterton today joined hands in strongly-worded appeals to residents to turn out for Thursday's civic elections in Greater Victoria.

Both said ratepayers of the two municipalities will be faced with historic decisions in the voting booths, overshadowing the selection of council representatives.

Both municipalities meet at the amalgamation cross roads during the 12 polling hours from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. when ratepayers cast ballots on the issue. The vote will determine whether or not the two communities take the fork leading towards a future merger.

In addition, ratepayers in both municipalities must make crucial policy decisions on whether large sums of money will be spent to improve services.

"The $1,000,000 money bylaw for the downtown improvement program with its off-street parking facilities faces ratepayers with a vital decision," said Mayor Scurrah.

"The question is whether our economy is to progress or fall behind," he said. "I strongly urge all ratepayers to get out and vote for progress by approving the parking bylaw. Our tax structure is at stake."

Reeve Chatterton said the decision on two money-bylaws for sewers in the Cadboro Bay-Gordon Head areas, totalling $1,700,000, will affect the economic expansion of Saanich.

'So We Can Get on With the Job'

"They must be passed if we are to develop our municipality economically and in pace with the tremendous expansion of the last few years," he said.

"I appeal to all ratepayers in those areas to register a solid approval of the bylaws so we can get on with the job of bringing needed services to these areas of intensive development.

"The installation of sewers is inevitable. The people might as well have them put in now while costs still are at present levels."

A total of 53,399 voters are eligible to cast ballots in the four municipalities.

No school trustee seats are at stake in Greater Victoria. All retiring trustees were elected by acclamation except Mrs. W. W. McGill, Saanich representative, who was appointed by Education Minister Leslie Peterson after she failed to file nomination papers.

Twenty-five candidates are running for 15 council seats and one reeveship in one of the quietest election campaigns on record in the area. Liveliest race is centred in Oak Bay, where voters will have a choice for reeve for the first time in more than a decade.

Full Results Known by 10 P.M.

In all municipalities, polls open at 8 a.m. and close at 8 p.m. Full results will be known by about 10 p.m.

Here's where you vote:

Victoria—20,273 persons are eligible to choose four aldermen from a field of seven candidates by marking ballots at the single polling station in the Public Market Building on Cormorant; ratepayers also will vote on the amalgamation referendum and the parking bylaw;

Saanich—21,865 persons are eligible to vote for five candidates running for three council seats by turning out at 13 polling stations; all ratepayers can vote on amalgamation and the 10 per cent living in the Cadboro Bay-Gordon Head areas can vote on the sewer bylaws;

Polling stations are at Douglas CCF Hall, Gordon Head Community Hall, Hampton Hall, Lake Hill Women's Institute Hall, Lansdowne Junior High School, McMorran's, Marigold Scout Hall, Mt. View High School, Prospect Lake School, Royal Oak Women's Institute Hall, St. George the Martyr Hall, St. Luke's Hall and St. Martin's-in-the-Fields Hall;

Oak Bay—7,647 persons are eligible to select a reeve from two candidates and five councillors from a field of seven hopefuls by casting ballots at the single polling station in the Municipal Hall;

Esquimalt — 3,614 persons are eligible to elect three councillors among the five candidates by voting at two polling stations, in the municipal hall and at 855 Craigflower.

Here Is Rundown on Candidates

Here are the candidates:

VICTORIA—

Ald. Arthur Dowell, acting mayor and finance committee chairman is running for re-election on his record during the past eight years;

Ald. Austin Curtis, completing his fourth year on council also is running on his record. He is chairman of the fire wardens and has served on the water board, library board and health board.

Ald. Hugh Ramsay, completing two years and a member of works committee, is a strong proponent of amalgamation and the off-street parking plan. He was chairman of the committee that revised the business tax last year.

Ald. Elmer McEwen, also a member of public works committee, is another in favor of amalgamation and the parking plan.

A. W. Toone, Victoria Labor Council official and only new-

MAYOR JOINS OUTCRY

Reward Boosted For Deer Slayer

Today Mayor Percy Scurrah authorized a $50 reward on behalf of the city of Victoria, and Mrs. J. S. Rigby, president of the Women's Auxiliary to the Victoria Branch, SPCA, added $75 on behalf of her group.

Said Mayor Scurrah: "It was a horrible act. We are all very upset. I hope the culprit is caught, and if he is, I hope the magistrate throws the book at him."

Mrs. Rigby said the women's auxiliary decided to contribute to the reward money because "it is terrible to think that tame animals are not safe in an enclosure in a public park.

"This has happened before, but it must not happen again," she said. "This innocent animal could be approached by anyone, it was so friendly. It's just terrible."

Reward money was offered previously by Capt. Burges Gadsden, ($25), and the Victoria Branch, SPCA ($100).

Parks administrator W. H. Warren today appealed to citizens to aid in tracking down the killer.

"I would like to hear from anyone who has seen or heard anything which might give us a clue," he said.

Mr. Warren referred to a report that a car with a deer carcass on the fender was seen near the park early Sunday morning.

"We would especially like to have further reports on this," he said.

Mr. Warren said the deer could have been killed either Friday or Saturday night.

DAPPER ARCH, SEEDY YVON SET TO GO

MONTREAL (UPI) — Light-heavyweight champion Archie Moore weighed 173¼ pounds and Canadian challenger Yvon Durelle scaled 172 for their title fight tonight in which Moore will try for a record-breaking 127th victory.

Moore, who will be 42 or 45 Saturday, arrived nattily attired in a midnight blue tuxedo with a shawl collar, black bow tie. He was carrying a gold-headed cane.

In sharp contrast, dark-haired Durelle wore an old white hackwoodsman's sweater, a dilapidated hat, and corduroys. Beneath the sweater was a T-shirt. The fight will be telecast on Channels 6, 2 and 5 at 7 p.m.

Fishboat Search Ends at Dusk

Search for a missing fishboat, last seen Saturday leaving Tofino, 125 miles north of Victoria, on the west coast of Vancouver Island, was to be called off at dusk today.

A spokesman for the Tofino lifeboat crew said the search would continue through the daylight hours, but no new wreckage had been sighted.

Some pieces of wreckage were found Monday. At that time it was established that three persons were aboard: MacPherson George, 55; his son Wilfrid, 31; and David Jacobsen.

There have been conflicting reports that one or two other persons, including a woman, might have been in the fishboat, but these were discounted today by the lifeboatmen.

Eisenhower Denies Russian A-Plane

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower said today he saw no reason to refute reports from Russia that the Soviet Union has an 8,700-mile ballistic missile.

But he sharply rejected as without evidence a recent report that Russia was test flying an atomic-powered plane.

$288 Donated in One Day

Gifts totalling $288 today sent the Victoria Times "Milk for Hungry Children Fund" to $2,310.46.

Some were small, like the $2 given by Margie, Davie, Cathie, and Jimmie, and some were anonymous, like the $2 given only "In His Name."

One group, the Treasury Staff Association of Canada, Esquimalt Branch, gave $10, but all gave with the wish of doing something for the children who will benefit from the fund.

These are the countless hungry youngsters of Korea, India, and Hong Kong who will drink milk made from powder provided by the Unitarian Service Committee, under whose auspices the Times fund is operating.

"GOD BLESS YOU"

Two of today's donors expressed their feelings this way:

"Enclosed please find a very small donation to this worthy cause. God bless you and thanks for giving us the opportunity to help a little. Merry Christmas." Signed, Lottie and Cecil Wyatt.

. . . TRAIL

to refinance power commission debt which would force up BCPC rates to meet new interest charges.

Mr. Strachan stepped forward to read a letter written by the premier mentioning a plan "for re-arrangement of the commission debt".

"There was nothing concrete," and proposals made by Dr. Fisher were merely "guides," said Mr. Gaglardi.

Mr. Laing jumped to his feet, rummaged in his brief case for another letter.

It wasn't clear in the hubub who wrote it but it mentioned "pursuant to direction of the premier".

Mr. Finlayson didn't have a letter handy, so Mr. Gaglardi tried again with a letter the premier had written to power commission chairman T. H. Crosby, saying "; . . . any formula agreeable to you three, will be agreeable to me."

Mr. Laing called for a copy of the original directive by the premier on the matter, but the chairman pounded his gavel and called for the next question—and the Trail questioners are still wondering about Mr. Briggs.

The meeting in Trail Junior High School was the biggest by far of any yet held in this campaign. Despite the flurry of questions prodding the government, the applause was about equal for each speaker. Dr. J. H. Harrigan, one of four Trail doctors taking active an part in the campaign, was chairman.

Mr. Gaglardi was first speaker. He said his colleagues are human and not above making mistakes, and all across Canada, British Columbia has a high reputation.

Every part of British Columbia must be treated alike with regard to the three essential developments: railways, power and highways.

On power: "We've been trying for six years to get the federal government to take an earnest look at the Mica Creek (Columbia) proposal."

"It seems to me the federal government, under both the Liberals and the Conservatives, has been against the government in British Columbia."

This has resulted in costs jumping on the Deas Island tunnel where it was ordered by Ottawa the tunnel be 45 feet below the surface at low tide—more than ample, he said.

He provided copies of the memo of intent and memo of agreement with Wenner-Gren interests and defied ". . . anyone to show me where the province has been guilty of giving away one five-cent piece.

'NO FAST BUCK'

"It's a long-range deal. There's no fast buck up there."

He listed gems in the government's crown — "highest old-age pensions in Canada, highest social assistance, finest health and welfare services, and best hospital scheme in Canada — or the free world." (There was laughter.)

"We pay the lowest school taxes in Canada," he ended.

Opposition Leader Strachan tied right into Mr. Gaglardi in his main address, as if he couldn't wait for the rebuttal period.

"I always remember the time in the legislature—and like you, we didn't believe him. He said, 'I never tell a lie, and if I do, it's only because I think I'm telling the truth, and that's no lie.'"

ALL BUILDING

Mr. Strachan was especially upset by Mr. Gaglardi's school tax assertions, wherein he had also mentioned a tax mill rate of 6.7 mills effective in B.C.

"I challenge him to show me any school mill rate of 6.7 mills (in B.C.). He can't do it because the Public Schools Act itself says cities must pay 12 mills and rural areas 9 mills."

Mr. Strachan reminded the audience that every province is now building new roads, not just B.C. Then he repeated the remarks made earlier by Gordon Dowding, CCF MLA for Burnaby on deterioration in the B.C. mental hospital service.

"Don't talk to me about roads when the people in B.C. are suffering needlessly," he told the highways minister.

Mr. Strachan flayed the Conservatives for tariff policies which he said would react against the men employed in Trail's lead and zinc production exports.

He quoted from the agreements already signed with Wenner-Gren interests, to contradict Mr. Gaglardi's statements that the firm held no privileges.

He noted the quotation, "The development shall be approved by the comptroller of water rights, within three months" and added, "Mr. Wenner-Gren has what he wants in the way of water power potential."

HECKLED

Mr. Strachan was heckled throughout, but ignored the voices. Not so Mr. Laing, who was next to speak.

"If your ears were as long as your tongue, you'd be exactly what I think you are," he replied to one tormentor.

Mr. Laing said the provincial government should have an independent highway commission ". . . to set out priorities on our highways." Had this been done, the Southern Trans-Provincial Highway would have been given priority over the Trans-Canada, he was sure, and a north-south highway would have been started.

Now the government has $125,000,000 in the Trans-Canada Highway which will be spectacular but won't serve to open B.C.

Deane Finlayson spoke on Canada's position in the world and how our way of life depends on "integrity and ownership of the wealth of our country."

NO MENTION

"I notice the previous speakers make no mention of integrity of government. Maybe enough has been said. We are all aware the election is being held because of a question of integrity in government."

This was almost all that was said all evening in connection with the Sommers case. But he twigged Mr. Gaglardi for saying B.C.'s government was the most honest "the world has ever known."

And he drew a laugh at expense of Attorney-General Robert Bonner, whom he quoted as saying he could not understand how Mr. Briggs could one day work for the government and the next day against it.

"He couldn't understand how Mr. Briggs got from point A to point B. Well, I can remember when Mr. Bonner was a member of the Conservatives."

'STAE OF REVOLT'

Mr. Finlayson said Mr. Briggs was not alone. "The civil service is almost in a state of revolt."

In his rebuttal period Mr. Finlayson said he had learned the B.C. government had made no attempt to participate in a federal offer mentioned in the 1957 Throne Speech, to share in Columbia River hydro financing.

Also in rebuttal:

Mr. Laing said to Mr. Gaglardi with respect to the Columbia power: "I'll tell you what you were trying to do. Four years ago you were going to give it to Kaiser. If it had not been for the Liberals in Ottawa, you would have."

He suggested the federal government might also intervene in the Wenner-Gren deal because 1,182 native Indians live in the area now under reserve for the northern development.

In his rebuttal period Mr. Strachan reviewed his party's policies. On labor, he said amendments would be asked in the act to provide "sensible, decent labor laws" but "this doesn't mean the CCF will go along with racketeers.

"If Dave Beck or any of his kind show their noses in B.C. and the CCF is in power, they'll soon know where to get off at."

comer to city politics this year, is a member of several community committees who includes in his platform promotion of secondary industries, amalgamation if approved by voters, establishment of Victoria College as a university and expansion of senior citizens' housing.

Mrs. Sally Rogers, a housewife with four children, will press for federal and provincial underwriting of school costs; establishment of a Greater Victoria better business bureau, reducing assessments on new improvements and more polling stations.

Elgin Neish, a commercial fisherman, who has been a regular candidate for five years, stands for payment of school costs by senior governments, payment of the off-street parking facilities by business taxation, abolition of fixed assessments, amalgamation, a graduated business tax and trade with China.

SAANICH

All five candidates are running on anti-amalgamation tickets. They are:

Coun. George Austin, 19-year veteran on council, seeking re-election; Coun. Harold Todd, a postman elected to a one-year term last year, trying for a full term; Coun. Ainslie Worthington; Gregory C. Cook, manual arts teacher, who advocates hiring of a municipal manager, and Reginald A. Clarke, who says bus services should be improved, especially in the Gordon Head area.

OAK BAY

Veteran councillors Patrick Birley and George Murdoch are battling for a one-year session as reeve to fill the vacancy caused by resignation of Reeve Fred Norris. Both stand for continuing the current policies in Oak Bay.

Coun. Birley, an architect, and chairman of the capital region planning board, has served five years on the council. Coun. Murdoch, a radio and television technician, has served on the council for 13 years.

None of the candidates for three two-year terms and two one-year terms on council propose any changes in municipal policies.

Seeking the full terms are: Coun. Geoffrey Ellis, a business executive with six years' service on council; Coun. Fred Robinson, a contractor trying for his fourth term; Coun. Ralph Mathews, a retired resident who was first elected seven weeks ago in a by-election, and newcomer John A. de Bourcier, a company manager.

The newcomers to Oak Bay politics are bidding for election to one-year terms. They are Allan L. Cox, 31, a lawyer; John Douglas Watts, 37, an engineer, and Gordon B. Elworthy, 32, a company director.

ESQUIMALT

Two councillors seeking re-election and two "outside" candidates trying for their first terms are running for the three seats.

Coun. James Bryant, chairman of the joint committee supervising the Gorge Park project, said he would campaign for a breakwater at Lampson Park.

Coun. Vincent Rush's platform is "sound administration."

Edward Lawrence De Costa, a VMD employee, advocates more playgrounds for children and pledges full support for the Gorge Park development.

Mrs. F. A. Browne, housewife, has no specific platform because "Esquimalt is already pretty well run. I can't see how it can be improver very much."

MINORITIES BLOCKED BY PUBLISHING COSTS

OTTAWA (CP)—The high cost of publishing is blocking minority opinions from becoming known, Rev. William P. Jenkins, Unitarian minister from Toronto, said Tuesday.

On the surface, freedom of speech and of the press appears to be well observed, he said during a panel discussion on civil liberties at the National Human Rights Conference.

"But true freedom of expression is frequently blocked by the high cost of publishing.

"Minority views are not welcomed by our newspapers and radio stations and few people can afford to start their own newspapers or radio stations. Nor can they afford to publish books."

Mr. Jenkins said book publishers "are frightened by anything really controversial, especially in the areas of politics and religion."

Reds Have Too Many A-Arms?

WASHINGTON (AP)— Premier Nikita Khrushchev claims the Soviet Union has made so many nuclear weapons it may soon begin dismantling some.

One weapon, Khrushchev told Democratic Senator Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota a week ago, is an efficient and compact five-megaton hydrogen bomb, equal to 5,000,000 tons of TNT.

In missiles development, he said, the Russians have achieved a missile with a range of 14,000 kilometres—about 8,700 miles.

These are among the highlights of the U.S. senator's eight-hour talk with Khrushchev, on which Humphrey reported to President Eisenhower in an 80-minute conversation Tuesday and to state department officials Monday.

NOT SURPRISING

The new, specific information on Soviet capabilities, or claimed capabilities, in the nuclear and rocket field was described by government authorities here as being of great interest but not surprising.

They expressed confidence that despite Russian claims, the U.S. has a substantial nuclear weapons lead over the Soviet Union in numbers, variety and quantity.

The importance of a long-range missile lies not so much in its range, officials said, as in its accuracy. There was no information available on Russian claims on that score. The U.S. last week fired an Atlas missile 6,300 miles, about three-fourths as far as the Russians claim.

Officials said it appears Khrushchev did not present his weapons information for the immediate purpose of threatening or trying to scare but rather to stress the adequacy of Russia's arsenals for a military showdown.

RUSS VETO UN SEATS FOR ASIAN COUNTRIES

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—Russia used her 86th and 87th vetoes in the United Nations Security Council on Tuesday to block the admission to the UN of South Korea and the pro-Western Indo-China state of South Viet Nam, after assenting to the admission of the former French West African colony of Guinea to the world organization.

Ottawa to Act On Rail Rates

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government has decided on a way it hopes will strike a fairer balance in distribution of railway freight rates.

Acting prime minister Green's announcement Tuesday night following a day-long cabinet meeting did not say what exactly the government plans. But he said it would alleviate discrimination.

The news was heralded by B.C. Attorney-General Bonner and other western and Atlantic provinces as a victory for them following their grim fight against the most recent freight rate increase allowed the railways, a 17-per-cent boost that went into effect Dec. 1.

FAVORED PROVINCES

Ontario and Quebec, having the advantage over the other provinces under the present freight rate arrangement, may object to a change. They were the only provinces that did not object to the 17-per-cent increase.

Mr. Green's announcement was that a proposal will be placed before parliament at the 1959 session.

He said: "We had a report today from the freight rate committee of the cabinet. As a result of the work to date we have a proposal to place before parliament for the alleviation of discrimination in freight rates."

A FIRST STEP

Mr. Green said the proposal will represent the government's first step in dealing with the country's freight rate problem.

The western and Atlantic provinces, traditional objectors to freight rate increases allowed by the board of transport commissioners, complain that horizontal or percentage increases result in their paying an unfair proportion of the cost.

DE GAULLE IN CONTROL

PARIS (Reuters) — Premier de Gaulle tightened his grip on French political life Tuesday night when the National Assembly elected Gaullist Jacques Chaban-Delmas as its Speaker.

The vigorous, 43-year-old Chaban-Delmas, an ardent follower of de Gaulle, won overwhelmingly on the second ballot as the new Fifth Republic's assembly met for the first time.

He won 355 votes to 148 for his opponents, supporting past indications that the new Gaullist party, the Union for the New Republic, is likely to dominate the assembly.

U.K. Troops Exonerated

NICOSIA (Reuters)—An official inquiry Tuesday cleared British troops of allegations that they wilfully exposed Greek Cypriot prisoners to Turkish savagery in an incident last June in which eight Greeks were killed.

But Chief Justice Sir Paget Bourke refused to endorse statements by military authorities that the orders given the troops and the action taken were "reasonable."

Exercise in Democracy

EACH YEAR AT THIS TIME the qualified adults of the community are urged to vote for representatives to the governments closest to them and to pass opinion on matters of their immediate concern.

In recent years, particularly in the city when a mayoralty contest has not occurred, pleas to use the franchise have fallen on an alarming number of deaf ears. Those who have failed to go to the polls for no reason other than apathy have provided a shocking object lesson to our younger people. They have demonstrated, in effect, that the democratic process is, to them, a matter of no importance at the municipal level.

Tomorrow there is a very live issue in Victoria and Saanich, where property owners have been asked to give their views on amalgamation. And in the city the people have an opportunity to do themselves a good turn by endorsing an advantageous downtown parking and improvement scheme.

In Oak Bay, voters may choose one of two candidates for reeve—something of a novelty in elections there. And in the city and all municipalities contests are assured for council seats.

The question for this community to ask itself on the eve of these elections is what value it places on the right to vote. The answer, encouraging or dismaying, will be revealed when the ballots are counted and checked against the total number entitled to mark them.

Birthday Greetings

TOMORROW THE DAILY Colonist celebrates its 100th birthday—an occasion of significance in a newspaper world which has recently seen the demise of a number of long-established journals.

To reach the century is, in itself, an achievement. To reach it with abundant vitality and an unblunted competitive urge is an attainment far exceeding existence over a remarkable span of years.

With others of this community we pay our respects to The Colonist for its day-by-day chronicling of events which, in sum, has recorded the history of Victoria and British Columbia almost as long as there has been a British Columbia.

For the major part of that century we of The Times have engaged in healthy competition with our rival to present the news first and accurately. We have often disagreed in editorial policy. We still do.

As we join in birthday greetings today, we wish, sincerely, that The Colonist may enjoy sustained vigor, make the contest for news and expression of opinion ever sharper, and continue to serve this community in the future as it has in the past.

Heart Attack in Saanich

His statement—"I don't like it. I won't vote for it"—is revealing. The reeve is no longer on the fence. He has come down on the side, however short-sighted it may be, of the majority of his councillors who have previously and frankly stated their opposition to union.

The "pig-in-a-poke" method of calling for the amalgamation vote in Saanich is also now explained.

Saanich had chosen to ask an expression of opinion on the issue under the clause of the Municipal Act which makes a further vote unnecessary. It seeks a commitment from the electorate which would leave the entire question of amalgamation in the council's hands. In other words, Saanich people are being asked to vote, perhaps finally, on amalgamation this week without knowing what the terms of any contract with the city would be.

While the city has phrased the referendum in a way which necessitates a vote when, or if, a contract is drawn up, Saanich is asked to walk into the proposal blind. And the reeve says "I don't like it." This may fall short of urging his constituents to vote "no", but the implications of Mr. Chatterton's words are the same.

The reeve now has the opportunity to weigh his position against his previous remarks. At an earlier date he expressed his personal reaction to amalgamation. "My head says 'yes' but my heart says 'no'," he declared.

When he adds to that "I won't vote for it," he leaves only one interpretation of his policy. That interpretation is that when intelligence and emotion conflict, emotion wins and common sense goes out of the window.

From amalgamation, he says, "we would benefit financially, but we would pay a price . . . our autonomy, the loss of our local control."

This makes strange reading in the light of the Deutsch report. Dr. Deutsch foresees the day when Saanich will have a larger population than Victoria. At that time, if either party risks the loss of control over its own affairs it will surely be Victoria. That, however, is a problem which would disappear with amalgamation. A marriage of the two would create one family whose interests would be mutual.

As the Deutsch report also points out, the trend in municipal expense is running heavily against Saanich, very much in Victoria's favor. Saanich faces mounting taxes, as Reeve Chatterton admits. The city, with its services installed and its debt being reduced, is achieving a constantly improving position.

Given amalgamation both Victoria and Saanich stand to benefit. Without it, the northern municipality faces more serious problems than the city.

It remains, of course, for the voters to make their own decisions on Thursday. But if Reeve Chatterton's opinion prevails it will be a triumph for costly parochialism.

Our Brothers' Keepers

IN SYDNEY, AUSTRALIA, Prime Minister Diefenbaker has expressed the belief that the Commonwealth cannot survive if it is "half prosperous and half starving." Each member of the Commonwealth, he said, must realize that it is its brother's keeper.

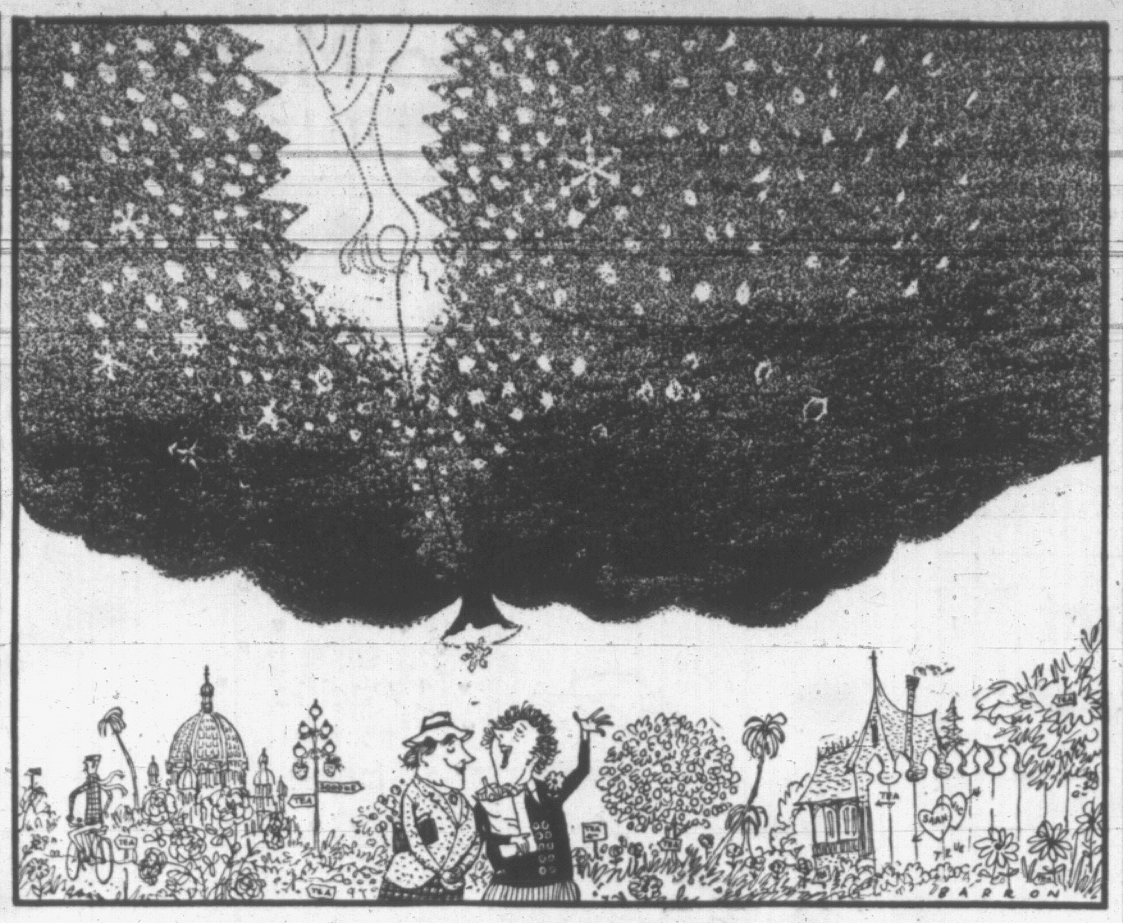
The Canadian leader says that these truths became evident at the recent Commonwealth trade conference in Montreal. But there can be no doubt that they have been greatly strengthened for him by his experiences during his current tour of south Asian countries.

In India, for instance, he would not have had to look far to find "brothers" who exist for the whole of their short lives on the thin edge of starvation—people for whom a prolonged drought or a serious crop failure literally spells death. Against such conditions—and they are not confined to India—our own affairs are prosperous indeed.

Mr. Diefenbaker was not talking about a theoretical situation. That such contrasts can continue to exist within the Commonwealth is at once a shame and a challenge. The remedy does not lie on only one side. It is a problem for the nation concerned as well as for its friends.

India, as one example, has been making efforts to improve the lot of its people. Canada, along with other members of the Commonwealth, has contributed aid through the Colombo Plan and by means of other gifts and loans. Such provisions have been small, not only in the light of the recipients' needs but also in the light of our ability to help.

Mr. Diefenbaker would find a majority of Canadians prepared to go much farther than we have to date in providing assistance to other Commonwealth countries. If he returns from his first-hand study of conditions with plans to do something more about the plight of the needy, he will find the thinking of this country not only abreast of his, but probably far ahead.



"We're so fortunate in Victoria . . . I hear Canada is smothered in snow . . . !"

LOVE THAT COURT ORDER — By B. A. TOBIN

Cruel and Unusual Punishment

A NEWS ITEM from Glendora, California, says that a judge has sentenced a woman to read one chapter of Dale Carnegie's book, "How to Win Friends and Influence People" each week and provide a written summary of it to the court. Her offence was that she hit a woman neighbor with a hose nozzle — a serious enough charge in any case. But surely she could appeal the sentence on the grounds that it constitutes a "cruel and unusual punishment" forbidden by the United States constitution. Since the days when felons were shipped off to the colonies, children were condemned to pick oakum and frail widows were given life sentences in the work house, no more fiendish reprisal than this can have been devised.

Tobin

To read such a book of one's own free will as a test of character or in a spirit of self-destructive whimsy is one thing. To be ordered to read it on pain of imprisonment is quite another.

Question of Survival

Who knows whether the woman in question is of a mental and emotional strength to endure subjection to such an ordeal? When the law orders a criminal flogged it must first obtain medical authorization certifying that the man is physically able to stand the punishment. Has any similar test been required to ascertain that this woman is mentally able to survive what is in store?

There are frequent public protests against placing first-time prisoners in jails along with hardened inmates. Yet what may be the effect of exposing this woman to what is in all likelihood her first contact with the winning-and-influencing volume?

She may, of course, believe at this point that her sentence is a light one. Offered the alternative of ten days in jail she may gladly and gratefully have chosen the reading imposition. But here some folk-song troubador may well come up with a new Ballad of Reading Gaol.

The effect of the sentence on the lady is incalculable. Although our first knowledge of her is in connection with a neighbor's being bopped on the noggin with a hose nozzle, we must assume that she has a normal approach to human relations. By that I mean that she has from time to time made friends with some people merely because she liked them and enjoyed their company. She extended friendship and received it because she was friendly (though not, it appears, with everyone.)

Rave New World

Now, however, she is about to have opened up to her a whole new world—a cosmos in which you are not friends with people because you like them but because you want to control them. You smile at them so they will like you and do what you want them to do. You present your best side to them so that they will love you and be your slaves.

This may be her first introduction to a system in which you do not make friends with people because you like them. You may even make a special effort to be friends with them because you loathe them.

The essential idea is that unless you are friends with them you cannot influence them. Once you have gained their affection, then they are in your power. You can make them buy what you have to sell.

Now it may be that the California lady has at present no urge to sell anything to anybody. But wait until she has taken this enforced course in love-with-a-purpose. Then she will burst on the world with new powers and a new ambition to fulfill them.

She will spurn the hose nozzle as an instrument of persuasion and a winner of arguments. She will reject physical violence as a means of achieving agreement. Instead she will resort to the more subtle but far more deadly weapon of deliberate and calculated friendship. What will the court have loosed upon the world?

Ordeal by Kindness

The victim of such an attack may sense what is being done, but he is almost powerless to oppose it or escape. Like some newly-discovered nerve gas the campaign of love and affection permeates the atmosphere around him, destroys his will to resist and eventually delivers him broken and trembling, and ready to sign on the dotted line.

There is only one known defence against such an onslaught, apart from abject flight. That is to retaliate in kind, to launch smile for smile, to fire compliment for compliment, to parry and thrust in a frenzy of well-wishing and comradeship.

But even here the best that can be achieved is a draw. And when one considers the risks run by adopting the opponent's methods, it is hardly worth the cost.

For what if you won? What if you found you had out-smiled, out-neighbored, out-friended the other fellow and beaten him at his own game? A hollow victory to say the least. You would have put the fire out by scuttling the ship, and your last state would be worse than the first.

As Our Readers See It

Children Come First

I would like to take this opportunity to congratulate the so-called improvement planning authorities, and their idea to build a heated swimming pool.

I am sure that the parents of children would approve of the scheme, as this would give more children a chance to learn to swim.

There aren't enough swimming pools, and, who knows, we may even have a Marilyn Bell of our own in Victoria.

As for the disreputable plots and corners being improved, I think it is up to the owner of these lots to see that they are kept in repair.

M. BATTERS.

Significant Difference

Considerable comment, pro and con, has been made about the reception Messrs. Bennett and Bonner got from the students at Victoria College recently.

It is significant that Mr. Briggs was given a quiet, dignified and appreciative hearing by the same audience.

I venture to say that the general conduct of the present B.C. government both in and out of the legislature has been conducive to an understandable pent-up frustration by the people and the legislative members against the government for its methods of handling democratic public business and for permitting so much delay in getting the facts of the Sommers case and the Wenner-Gren deal.

The Briggs revelations are the last straw in an altogether ugly situation which will continue from bad to worse as long as the men in control are still there.

FRANK H. PARTRIDGE,

A Bouquet

As a steady subscriber to the Times for fourteen years I have often felt like sending you a bouquet for some outstanding feature but let the impulse pass, but I must do so now or never for my "brief candle" is burning down to the butt.

Your recent issues have included at least three outstanding features:

First: Dec. 4th's leading article with its apt Sancho Panza caption is a notable summary of Community Chest history and the knocks and blows that have shattered it. Knowing that the Chest officials were honest and unselfish I was always glad to make my contribution and never failed them. Yet I have learnt through the years that this is a begging city and many of the beggars are not genuine mendicants.

Second: In your issue of Nov. 26 Ab. Kent achieved a journalistic triumph when he reported Malcolm MacDonald's account of the battle with the Bismarck condensed to a few vivid, telling paragraphs. One of the best reporting items I have ever read.

Third: Adlai Stevenson's articles. These gave a better description of Russia than Gunther's or any other I have read. Comprehensive, revealing, and constructively critical.

Thanks for those and many other good things from one of your many thousands of obscure, anonymous readers.

SUBSCRIBER.

Better in Camera

One thing I would like to see modified in connection with press reports of just such cases as that of the 16-year-old boy recently on trial here.

Surely much of the seamy side could be heard in camera, for whilst it furnishes a paper-selling scoop, it certainly would be better for adolescents if such details were unavailable.

Re the unemployment cure indicated in "Ardua Ad Astra's" letter in December 3 issue, we are fast reaching the point when we should ascertain who is willing to join a new order: one who will place his or her country's interest before his or her own. Why sing "Canada, we stand on guard for thee"?

Our present national attitude appears to be everyone for himself, with the devil taking the hindmost; this characteristic so noticeable in all spheres of citizenship.

H. WYER.

Defence in The North

By VIC MACKIE From Ottawa

THE group of Canadian newspapermen who were taken on a tour of NORAD headquarters recently, returned with grave misgivings about the effectiveness of the defence for this country against attack from the north. They were shown maps at Colorado Springs pinpointing the defence system. From the maps they got the impression that Canada was serving in the role of a buffer against attack over the Pole. Canada would be the battleground, not far northern Canada, but the more southerly settled areas of the country. Over that territory the invading bombers or missiles would be intercepted and some shot down.

Mackie

Penetration

The reporters were escorted on a tour of the NORAD base and the windowless blockhouse style building that serves as the nerve centre of the nation-wide defence system. They got frank answers to their frank questions.

Soviet bombers coming down from the Arctic regions, they were told, would penetrate deep into Canada before they would be engaged by NORAD interceptors.

Air Marshal C. R. Slemon, Canada's deputy commander was questioned. He was reported to have explained that with luck NORAD fighters could commence contact with the enemy as far North as Lake Winnipeg and James Bay.

Cost

It is a question of cost. General Earle Partridge, the commander of NORAD, explained that it was an economic problem, this matter of providing defence in depth. The defenders would like to have more bases built in the north so as to move the battle still farther north. But it would involve huge expenditures.

It would need several more millions of dollars to build additional serviceable bases in the far north. NORAD would like to move its bases closer to the Arctic Circle but there was a limit to the resources made available to the military planners.

Pressure

The United States now has two interceptor squadrons stationed in Canada, one at Goose Bay in Labrador and the second at Harmon Field in Newfoundland, leased by the British before Newfoundland joined Canada. Will requests be made to Canada for permission to establish additional American bases on Canadian soil? That question was not directly answered.

It was explained that at the present time Canada has not the bases to handle additional American squadrons. The reporters were left with the impression that NORAD will not be seeking to set up additional interceptor squadrons until more money becomes available.

Inevitable

But should Canada go into BOMARC and shelve permanently the supersonic Canadian-built CF-105, then the pressure will mount on Canada to allow the Americans to establish bases on Canadian soil. The Americans will want to intercept and identify aircraft as far north as possible. The farther north the contacts are made the better the chances of stopping enemy aircraft from reaching vulnerable targets.

Correspondents came away with the conviction that the time is not far distant—if Canada goes out of interceptors—when the U.S. will be anxious to locate more and more of its modern interceptors on Canadian soil. Thus if Canada stops operating its own interceptor force the United States will have to take over.

Question

If Canada decides to scrap the CF-105 project it must either purchase American-built interceptors to replace the obsolete CF-100, or disband its interceptor squadrons. The Canadian newsmen were taken aback when the Canadian deputy commander sang the praises of the CF-105. And he coupled with his praise the comment that the manned interceptor is a requirement in our defences for as long as we can see.

Clearly the deputy commander favored taking the CF-105 off the shelf and introducing it into the Canadian air defence system in addition to BOMARC.

Trespass

But for a serving Canadian officer to suggest that the government should take a second look at its defence decisions and adopt the CF-105 would be improper. That is a question of government policy, to be determined by the cabinet. Consequently the air marshal was careful to explain that any decision on the purchase of the Arrow or any other aircraft rested with the Canadian government.

Difficulties

The commander of NORAD, General Partridge, must have thought his deputy was getting into turbulent air because he intervened at this point to agree that NORAD must have interceptors in the system for the control of air space. But he stressed it was not the business of NORAD to say what kind of fighter Canada or the U.S. should purchase.

Air Marshal Slemon, taking the hint, agreed that NORAD officers must scrupulously avoid recommending to the government which aircraft they should buy.

But the damage was done. Newsmen had heard the air marshal describe the CF-105 as the best available and had heard him argue that interceptors were essential to our northern defences.

After the Stroke

Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation

Good care and then good training of the patient after a stroke can help tremendously. Expert nursing helps. If the stroke seems to have been due to the clotting of blood in an artery, an anti-coagulant, such as dicumarol, can be given so as to diminish the possibility of a return of the trouble. If the person feels short of breath, oxygen can be given. Some physicians believe in injecting what is called the stellate ganglion in the neck—anesthetizing it with procaine, with the hope that this will dilate the arteries in the brain—but so far as I can see, the theory back of this is illogical. Twenty minutes after a stroke a small amount of brain tissue is completely dead and can never be rebuilt. It is soon replaced by a little scar. If the man recovers perfectly, as he sometimes does, this is because other parts of the brain have taken over the functions of the part that was destroyed. At Mayo's the injection was tried in 60 cases, and found not to work.

Alvarez

At the time of a big stroke, if the blood pressure is found to be very high, and if it does not promptly drop—as it often does—it may help the person to remove perhaps a liter of blood. It a leg is paralyzed, a foot-board should be put in the bed, with a "cradle" to hold the bed-clothes up so that they won't push the foot down. Often the patient is more comfortable if a small pillow is put under his knee.

The patient's breathing may be much easier if he is kept half sitting up in bed. Soon after the stroke, a physical therapist should start massaging weakened muscles, and moving the limbs. Soon, also, the patient should be gotten into a wheel-chair, and out of doors. Later, he should be gotten onto crutches or walking with a cane.

The man who is most likely to recover is the one who stays bright and wide-awake and clear-headed. The man who has difficulty in talking can sometimes be trained by a speech therapist to talk fairly well again. The person with a weak arm and leg should have what are called resistance exercises. In these, the patient tries to keep the physical therapist from moving his weakened arm and leg. Sometimes a handle with a cord running over pulleys to a weight can be used by the patient to exercise his weakened arm. As soon as possible, he should sit up on the edge of his bed and dangle his legs. Many a patient can learn to walk with the help of two sturdy chairs, placed back to back near his bed.

Better yet, the family can rent a "walker," which is a light metal frame that can be ushed ahead. Sometimes the man will walk better if a knee or foot brace is put on his weakened leg. Every effort should be made to keep up his morale and some of his interests.

The mother of an 11-year-old boy wants to know if there is anything to do for his sweating feet. In the first place, the child is probably overly tense and nervous, but it would probably be hard to make any change in his temperament. One of my doctor friends says he gets good results in these cases by every night for two or three nights painting the soles of the feet and the spaces between the toes with a 2 per cent (or later perhaps stronger) solution of formaldehyde. The effect can last for a week. It is good to keep wearing alternately two pairs of shoes so that that pair can dry out while the other is being worn.

According to a statistical bulletin of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, in 1950—a year in which there was virtually full employment—only a little more than 40 per cent of men over 65 had a job. For women, the figure was barely 8 per cent.

The next question is, How were the men employed? 28 per cent of the men were in agriculture, 19 per cent in service industries, 17 per cent in wholesale and retail trade, 17 per cent in manufacturing, 7 per cent in construction, seven per cent in transportation and communication, and 5 per cent in other jobs in the U.S.

Among the women, 14 per cent were in agriculture, 60 per cent were in service industries, 14 per cent were in wholesale and retail trade, 9 per cent were in manufacturing, and 2 per cent were in other occupations.

LONDON LETTER

By WALLACE REYBURN

Cricket Falls in England

LONDON—During the long winter months the MCC, governing body of cricket, has time to think over this country's dwindling interest in the game. Scanning the balance sheets for the past season the MCC has been shocked to learn that a further half-million cash customers were lost.

Reyburn

The worst hit county was Middlesex, whose home ground is at the end of our street. More than 40,000 spectators short of the previous season, they played to very slim crowds and at certain times I was down at the ground there were almost literally more people on the playing field than in the grandstand.

The quick excuse is to say that Middlesex is going through a bad patch—rebuilding the team, no big stars in it, etc. But the sad thing about cricket in England today is that even that old platitude about sport doesn't hold good—that one about crowds always turning up to watch a winning team.

Even the champion county, Surrey, who have won the championship for eight years in a row, full of stars, the hottest county team in cricket history, contributed over 3,000 to the falling gates.

But unlike other forms of entertainment suffering from audience shortage (the movie industry, for instance) the cricket moguls have not hastened to blame TV, entertainment tax, etc. They've been realistic enough to admit that it is the show itself that's at fault.

Two years ago they introduced a batch of new rules designed to make cricket a better spectacle. The further drop in attendances is proof enough that they haven't worked.

Now the MCC announces a new plan to try to enliven the game. They are going to allow the county teams to play a full schedule of home-and-away games and championship points will now be reckoned on a percentage basis as with baseball.

There are 17 cricket counties, which means that if each team played the other at home and away it would have a schedule of 32 matches. But for some strange English reason each county plays only 28 matches per season, four games getting lost in the shuffle somewhere along the line.

Now, with a 32-game schedule, there will be more cricket to see and calculating points on percentages will mean that Lancashire and Yorkshire, where it rains so much, won't suffer unfairly. The percentages will be on matches completed, washed out matches being ignored.

All of which will make the championship race more interesting. But still the MCC haven't come up with the answer to the basic thing that's wrong with cricket—the mental approach that the players have adopted.

Rather than the exciting attitude of scoring lots of runs and winning matches, their laborious philosophy is to at all costs prevent defeat.

Plan on Paper To Plant Berries

By HILDA BEASTALL

If the different kinds of berries are your favorite summer fruits, plan your plantings now.

It may not be possible to do the actual planting until early spring, especially if the soil is of a heavy nature which holds moisture and frost, but the planning may be done on paper. Sketch the vegetable garden area roughly to scale. This facilitates the allotting of space and determines the number of plants which may be grown.

Hilda

As a first recommendation it should be said that in our opinion, strawberries in beds are not a profitable crop for a garden with only a small area given over to food production. Strawberry plants should be replaced every third year. This means two beds of equal size occupying space two years in three, in order to have producing plants ready as replacements when the old ones are discarded.

With cane and bramble fruits, as the other berries are known, replacement of canes takes place each year by natural increase from the individual rootstocks which lessens both the work and the space.

Regarding the locating of these fruits in a small area, good use may be made of them on wires between posts to divide different sections of the garden. This method will keep them out in the open, which has many advantages. Among them are plentiful sunlight, ease of picking and all round cultivation.

The last point cannot be overemphasized, for we have all seen masses of brambles in corners and on old fences.

Logans are still tops in flavor for many people, but raspberries (both the summer-bearing and the fall-bearing varieties), youngs, boysens and pacifics are gaining favor for their distinctive flavors. These require a 10-foot space between plants in a row, and no quibbling or you'll be sorry!

Blackberries to drool over may be grown in the same manner, but allow 15 feet between plants. Cultivation and watering will make this crop into the star producer of the fall garden. Rigid control must be practiced to prevent rooting of branch tips and superfluous suckers from the roots.

U.S. Cuts Forces In Formosa Area

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—The United States is reducing both its air and naval forces in the Formosa area now that the Communist threat to the offshore islands has lessened.

The U.S. command refused to say which units are going but said they could return quickly if needed.

A U.S. spokesman said those departing could leave because of what he called the improved defence capability of Nationalist armed forces, mainly because of new weapons supplied by Washington, as well as because of the comparative lull in the Communist bombardment of the Quemoy islands.

All was peaceful today on the islands near the Chinese Communist mainland as Red gunners withheld artillery fire. They have not shelled the islands on even-numbered days for more than a month.

'I Say No, But Don't Let Me Influence You'

Reeve George Chatterton Tuesday reiterated he will vote "no" on the amalgamation referendum, but urged Saanich ratepayers not to be influenced by his decision when voting Thursday.

Amalgamation, he said, had certain long-term benefits for Saanich which should be carefully considered by the voters.

Weigh carefully, he urged, the value of local autonomy against long-term financial benefits under an amalgamated area.

The reeve, speaking at an election meeting at the Lake Hill Women's Institute Hall Tuesday, said he was voting against amalgamation because he placed a higher value on local autonomy than long-term financial gain under an amalgamated Victoria and Saanich.

"That's the way I see it," he said. "I may not be necessarily right."

"I'm not saying vote 'no'," he said. "I say consider the question carefully and vote for what you think will assist in creating a better community."

HOSTILE TO MERGER

The reeve, who faced an audience mainly hostile to amalgamation, fought shy of discussing the controversial issue on an emotional basis.

"The Deutsch Report on amalgamation is not all black or white," he said. "There are many things in the report which citizens should consider."

As an example, he said, there was little commercial and industrial development in Saanich to help carry the tax burden.

In addition, the municipality's borrowing powers under provincial legislation was limited to about $5,000,000.

This is a serious problem, he said, because if Saanich was ever in a position where it could not borrow money for services, it would have to raise it by direct taxation.

He said taxes would probably go up in Saanich for the first few years after amalgamation.

LOSE $100,000

Saanich would also lose more than $100,000 in provincial grants, he said.

"I've considered this," he said, "and I still say Saanich will benefit in the long run under amalgamation."

On the other hand, the reeve said, if voters turned down amalgamation it would not mean the "ruin" of Saanich.

He recalled that Dr. Deutsch said amalgamation was only one way "to a certain end."

"He didn't say it was the only way," said the reeve.

Saanich, he said, could overcome many of its problems if careful in spending and planning.

CLOSER TO PEOPLE

He said he was voting against amalgamation because he believed that local government was closer to the people.

"The larger the unit, the farther away are the administrators from the people," he said.

He said there is a tendency in Canada to centralize power —to place all responsibilities in the hands of higher governments.

"I'm opposed to this trend," he said. "I may be accused of being parochial but I feel it is not in keeping with the theory of democracy."

The reeve concluded by asking ratepayers to make the vote for or against amalgamation decisive.

"This amalgamation issue is holding up development in Saanich," he said. "If the citizens vote no, the council will consider the issue as closed and will proceed with the development of the municipality."

70 PRESENT

The meeting sponsored by the Elk Lake Ratepayers' Association and the Saanich Voters' Association was attended by some 70 ratepayers.

Earlier, councillors Charles Nelles and Harold Todd debated the pros and cons of amalgamation.

Coun. Todd said the tax rate in Saanich will go up about five mills within the next few years if the municipality doesn't amalgamate.

"We will get a mill increase for general expenses, three mills for general school taxes, and one mill for wage increases," he said. "You can expect this."

"An independent Saanich is going to be an expensive luxury," he said. "We haven't got the industrial and commercial developments to share the costs of services."

Costs for police and fire services in Victoria are higher than in Saanich, he said, but costs for the two services were largely paid from taxes received from industry and business.

Here in Saanich taxpayers pay the whole shot for both the police and fire services.

THREE REASONS

Coun. Todd said he was opposed to amalgamation for three reasons:

"First, we would lose our local autonomy and would be controlled by a small business clique in Victoria, as Vancouver has been controlled for years.

"Secondly, it will cost us more than $300,000 in higher taxes and loss of provincial grants."

The third reason was that Saanich would receive no better services.

Court Reserves Milk Judgment

(From CP Dispatches)

VANCOUVER—The B.C. Court of Appeal reserved judgment Tuesday on a hearing to determine the validity of the Milk Industry Act of 1956.

Supporting the act were Fraser Valley Milk Producers Association, the provincial attorney-general's department and the City of Vancouver.

A number of independent milk men contended the act imposed an indirect tax and was therefore invalid.

The court will hear argument at a later date on whether the act infringes on federal powers in the matter of trade and commerce.

Man Dies in Fall

VANCOUVER — Thomas Bilous, 71, was killed Tuesday in a fall from a ladder while he was clearing snow from a roof in suburban Burnaby. He fell about 15 feet, striking his head on a cement sidewalk.

Fire in Rupert

PRINCE RUPERT — Fire raced through the top floor of a three-storey hardware and furniture store here Tuesday night. There were no injuries reported.

Concrete walls on either side of the 46-year-old wooden structure halted the flames from spreading to a three-storey power company office on one side and a department store branch on the other.

Halibut Removed

VANCOUVER—A cold storage barge with a $500,000 cargo of frozen halibut was still aground near Bella Bella Tuesday night, but much of the cargo had been removed.

The B.C. Packers Limited barge ran aground Monday night after the tug P.W. cut her tow when she had a breakdown.

9 Feet of Snow

VANCOUVER — Canadian Pacific Railway officials reported Tuesday that almost nine feet of snow has fallen this year in the Coquihalla Pass, on the CPR's Kettle Valley line.

Morals Charge

VANCOUVER—Irwin Blight, 57-year-old bakery driver, was sentenced Tuesday to four years in jail on four morals charges involving boys between 14 and 16 years of age.

The prosecution said the offences, which Blight admitted, took place early in November. Blight also admitted a similar previous conviction at Victoria in 1952.

LONDON (Reuters) — Unemploymyent has reached its highest level since March, 1947. The labor ministry said the number registered as unemployed at the last check date—Nov. 17—was 536,000 or 2.4 per cent of the work force.

'SNOW BURIED' CITY FIGHTS 20-FOOT DRIFTS

OSWEGO, N.Y. (AP) — Snow billowed over this buried city today for the fourth straight day as discouraged residents fought drifts up to 20 feet high.

Weather observers measured an overnight snowfall of nine inches, a total of about 60 inches since Sunday and an on-the-ground accumulation of nearly six feet.

22 LEAVE OVER CROWE FIRING

Students Quit in Protest

WINNIPEG (CP)—Twenty-two students of United College have announced they intend to transfer to the University of Manitoba in protest over the firing of Prof. Harry S. Crowe and what they describe as resulting "intellectual chaos" at the college.

Donald Swainson, fourth-year honor history student who acted as spokesman for the group, said he expected more of the college's 700 students to follow. He said the group's move would take effect today

Prof. Crowe was dismissed by the college board of regents in September in a dispute after a private letter he wrote to a colleague was diverted to the college principal, Dr. W. C. Lockhart.

Your Most Important Decision

On December 11th you will be asked to vote "Yes" or "No" to the proposed Parking By-Law. This may well be the most important decision ever made in Victoria—and only YOU, the taxpayer, can make it.

It is a decision of such importance that your Council feels they must make the matter clear to every voter. By voting "Yes" you open the way to a dynamic, progressive Victoria—a "No" vote condemns your City to inevitable deterioration.

Who cares about Downtown? Everyone should care. 48% of the total assessment of Victoria is in the area covered by the proposed plan. If Downtown deteriorates, its capacity to pay taxes falls—buildings become vacant, run-down, liabilities instead of assets—and residential taxes must be increased to make up the difference.

The proposed plan will be entirely paid for from parking fees. Not one penny will come out of tax revenue — and the development resulting will mean not only a better downtown area, but one more able to shoulder an even greater share of the tax load.

The choice is yours. Shall our City continue as one of the most beautiful in the world—or shall we condemn it to become a traffic-choked mass of decaying buildings, surrounded by highly-taxed residential areas? Your "Yes" vote will not cost the taxpaper one cent—a "No" vote may cost plenty in the near future.

Think of these things—make up your mind—then be sure to

Students 'Fair' After Experiment Backfires

A pair of Belmont Junior High School boys, seriously hurt in a dynamite cap explosion at Langford Tuesday, are in "fair" condition at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Allan Bosma, 13½, of 741 Goldstream, and Herbert McWilliam of 314 Goldstream, underwent two hours of surgery for multiple eye, face, hand and leg injuries after they were rushed by Langford Ambulance to hospital.

Mother of the Bosma boy, Mrs. Myrna Barker, of Langford Beauty Shop, said it would be a few days before doctors could determine whether the eye damage will be permanent.

EXPERIMENTING

According to Colwood RCMP the two boys, and a third Belmont student, Kenneth Robertson, 14, of 2921 Phipps, were "experimenting" with blasting caps in a field near a highways department explosive storage shed at Jacklin and Attree at 3.50 p.m.

The Robertson boy, who was not injured, said he had turned his back and was walking away from the others when he heard the explosion.

His companions had been bending over the cap when it went off, Robertson said.

"It's a wonder they were not killed," a constable said. "One of those things can go off with just 60 pounds pressure, according to a powder man I spoke to.

"If someone had stepped on one, his foot would have been blown off," the constable said.

The boys had two boxes of the nitroglycerine caps with them and it was considered unusual that these did not explode also.

Both boys were knocked to the ground bleeding, but the McWilliam boy got up and went for help to the home of Mrs. H. F. Cilli, 848 Attree, who called police and the ambulance.

Other Belmont students walked the injured boys to the roadway where police and ambulance found them.

They were dazed as they were placed in the ambulance, police said.

"Their faces were sure a mess," Mrs. Barker said after seeing the boys at hospital.

"They were spattered with pellets from the cap. Herbie's jacket was just full of pieces of metal. Their jackets were burned, too, and their pant legs blown up and burned."

SAME INJURIES

Mrs. Barker said her boy's eyes are the most seriously injured. Both boys have nearly identical injuries, she said, mostly to their right hands, both legs and eyes.

Police are investigating whether the caps were obtained from the explosives shed.

Mother of the McWilliam boy lives in Calgary and the boy stays with his sister and brother-in-law, Cpl. and Mrs. J. A. Pidgeon of Waldorf Trailer Camp.

Duncan 'Outside' Staff Requests 15c Hourly Boost

DUNCAN — Contract demands of outside city employees for 1959 include a wage increase of 15 cents per hour and long-service pay at the rate of 10 cents per calendar day after five years of service.

They also have asked for time and one-half pay for overtime and Saturday work, straight time for statutory holidays plus double time if they are worked, and three weeks' paid holiday each year.

Toronto Firms Fined In Pollution Case

TORONTO (CP) — Seventeen Toronto firms or individuals were fined a total of $475 on Tuesday on 18 charges of air polution involving smoke or flying ash. It was the first major crackdown in Toronto's anti-pollution drive. The Young Men's Christian Association was the only defendant to obtain a dismissal.

FICKLE WINDS DELAY OCEAN BALLOON TRIP

Today the radio, under the charge of 21-year-old Timothy Elloart, son of the expedition's leader, was back in working order. The only trouble now comes from fickle winds that refuse to co-operate.

'WHAT WE HAVE BEEN WAITING FOR'

Columbia Hydro Policy Pleases U.S.

WASHINGTON (CP)— U.S. officials Tuesday expressed delight at Canada's apparent readiness to negotiate with the United States an agreement for co-operative development of the water resources of the Columbia River.

"This is what we have been waiting for for a long time," a government spokesman said, commenting on a statement in Ottawa last Friday by Acting Prime Minister Howard Green that steps to complete such an agreement will be taken "at once."

Officials here interpreted the Green statement as indicating Canada has given up any thought of diverting some of the waters of the Columbia —which rises in British Columbia and flows through the power-hungry northwestern U.S.— into the Fraser River.

Both government officials and politicians representing the northwest states have opposed the diversion proposals first put forward by Canada because it would deprive potential power sites on the U.S. leg of the river of much-needed water.

POPE JOHN MAY INCREASE CARDINALS

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Speculation increased Tuesday that Pope John may increase the Sacred College of Cardinals to 80.

If he did this, it would be the second time since his coronation five weeks ago that the new pontiff increased the number of cardinals, fixed at 70 by Pope Sixtus V almost four centuries ago.

Ansa, Italian news agency, said Pope John probably would set the size of the college at 80 in the secret consistory Dec. 15 when he explains his reasons for having increased the number of princes of the church to 75.

Frigid Frogman Explains

QUESNEL, B.C. (CP)—Just why is Louis Lourmais, the "Frigid Frogman" from Brittany, attempting to swim the length of British Columbia's icy Fraser River?

A reporter put this question to the former French underground captain when he reached Quesnel. Replied Lourmais:

"People in this country believe that frogmen operate only in the warm seas. This is not so. It is the cold water that is best for the frogman—the British Columbia coast, Alaska—no great clouds of weed, clear water to see.

"That's what we're proving," said fellow frogman Len van Egmond, one of Lourmais' companions on the trip. "How else can we brove to the public that cold water doesn't defeat frogmen?"

"Precisely," said Louis. "Logic. We must convince the public that we can harvest abalone on the British Columbia coast like they accomplish it in California.

"We can dive and find gold-bearing sands in the Fraser River where only a frogman could go."

Meanwhile Lourmais is not swimming today. Instead, he's prospecting south to Williams Lake to see if the Fraser River is open there.

Tuesday, after swimming about 30 miles from here to the tiny settlement of Australian, he was told that an aerial survey had found the river ice-choked for miles south of Australian.

Frequently jagged ice floes have sliced holes in his rubber suit, deluging him with numbing water.

So far on this swim he has covered about 115 miles from Prince George, emerging to take a hot shower and sip his favorite mixture of port wine, egg yolks and honey. Then, perhaps, he would tackle a man-sized steak or nibble on raw hamburger mixed with soup.

Socreds Need Third Look At Bonus Says CCF Leader

CCF leader Robert Strachan today declined to apologize to Health Minister Eric Martin over his seatement that unemployed employable persons rectiving social allowances will be denied the annual Christmas bonus.

Mr. Martin had called for an apology Monday night.

Mr. Strachan said that on or about October 24 the minister's department issued to all offices in the province, Serial Letter No. 347T/276H, instructing that the Christmas bonus was not to be given to unemployed employable persons or to those in nursing homes or boarding homes.

"When, and only when, the matter became public on November 21 did the minister suddenly perform a 'second look' change from the role of Scrooge to Santa Claus," Mr. Strachan declared.

"He then issued a verbal instruction to Victoria that the bonus could be paid at the discretion of the local administrator.

"According to a press report today, this discretionary clause has resulted in 300 men being refused bonuses in the city of Victoria alone.

"I submit that Mr. Martin's press release protesting his innocence is based upon the usual half truths we have come to expect from the Social Credit government."

Mr. Strachan insisted that the government's original intention was to deny the bonus to unemployed employable persons.

"I now call on Mr. Martin to take a third look and issue further instructions ordering all administrators to issue the bonus to all on social allowance, including those in nursing and boarding homes and the unemployed employables—not leaving the matter to local discretion."

'The Scene is Brightening'

Main Doorway, Head Office Building

"Climate to induce individual effort and private investment is essential for growth", said Neil J. McKinnon, President, addressing the 92nd Annual Meeting of The Canadian Bank of Commerce.

During the year since we last met our economy has passed through a relatively mild recessive phase. A depression which many feared and more than a few expected did not materialize. Now the commercial and industrial scene is brightening, despite the indications of winter unemployment. The new year seems to hold promise for most lines of production and most regions of our country.

In many ways the events of 1958 present a noteworthy illustration of recession and recovery where over-all productivity is improving and where money incomes and prices have a tendency to rise together. In such an environment the forces of business re-adjustment produce a levelling-off of output rather than a serious decline, while the following forces of recovery manifest themselves in noticeable upward movements of most indicators.

It now seems likely that the Gross National Production will have a value fractionally above $32 billion, or about 2% higher than in 1957. Allowing for higher prices the volume of production was probably little changed. Export trade has been well maintained, consumer expenditures have increased moderately and capital investment has shown but a moderate decline. For a year which began amidst gloomy forebodings this cannot be considered as other than reassuring.

Toward the end of last year concern was expressed in some quarters about the downward trend of capital investment. Yet a level of about $8.5 billion may be achieved, a decrease of less than 3%. There have, of course, been some noticeable changes in the components. There has been a drop in capital expenditures for manufacturing offset by an increase in expenditures for housing which this year are estimated to reach an all time high of more than $1.7 billion, an increase of about $350 million over last year. Aggregate of 1958 capital investment will be somewhat less than in 1957 but is still considerably higher than the total for 1956 which we habitually refer to as a "boom" year. By the second quarter of the year corporation profits before taxes emerged from the uninterrupted decline that dated from the end of 1956 and there are signs of a steady and possibly improving trend in more recent months. There are some indications that business capital expenditures may be moderately reduced next year but an improvement in business expectations during 1959 may bring some upward revision.

Value of consumer expenditure is apparently higher than a year ago but consumer price increases would just about offset this increase in terms of volume. As the population has increased by some 460,000, per capita trade in terms of volume was slightly below last year and it is thus the increase in population which has brought about the over-all increase in dollar volume in consumer buying. The Canadian consumer spends almost two out of every three dollars paid for the nation's goods and services and this year aggregate consumer expenditures exceeded $20 billion for the first time. Through most of 1958 Canadians reduced consumer debts, built up savings, and curtailed purchases of durable goods in favour of non-durables and services. The growing liquidity of individual Canadians and many business organizations may well provide a base for further recovery during the period ahead.

There are indications that this year's aggregate exports should come close to the level of last year but here too, there have been changes in components. At the same time imports have been reduced, principally of machinery, and this trend is allied with some decline in the level of foreign investment in Canada. The over-all deficit in foreign trade on merchandise account will show a marked reduction as compared with last year. If the recovery in business activity in the United States is sustained, as is expected, the level of exports from Canada in 1959 will be well maintained.

Production

Industrial production is, of course, affected by both domestic and foreign demand. It emerged from its downward phase at the beginning of the year. Although volume has been adversely affected through industrial disputes it has, nevertheless, improved to a level which, barring further work stoppages, by now should compare well with last year.

Mineral production has been adversely affected by less favourable foreign markets and prices but there are signs of improvement in some, although not all, of its constituents. The total value of mining production for the year is expected slightly to exceed that of 1957. Neither the mining nor metallurgical industry, however, had an altogether favourable year. Iron ore output was affected until recently by the low rate of production in U.S. steel mills. A decline in price and world demand for base metals resulted in curtailed operations in that field. The export market for western oil was reduced, as was that for aluminum. On the other hand, increased shipments of uranium contributed substantially to the strength of export trade, and gold production was the highest in some years.

Farm net income this year may prove to be slightly below that of 1957 owing largely to adverse weather conditions in the Prairie Provinces. The movement of livestock into export markets and favourable price levels have been a source of support. Wheat sales in the 1957-58 crop year were considerably above those for the previous year and overseas clearances in the latter part of 1958 have continued at much the same rate. However, total Canadian supplies of wheat at the beginning of the new crop year, although below the level of the previous year, were still high and it seems clear that world supplies of wheat will be more than adequate in relation to markets in the coming year. Unfortunately there are indications that more difficult conditions may arise in commercial sales.

Resource Development

Although important natural resource projects are in the course of development we do not for the present see ahead of us programmes of the magnitude of the St. Lawrence Seaway or the intense activity in the oil and gas fields that characterized the past few years. Oil and gas developments continue but the greater emphasis for the present is in the distribution and utilization of products and by-products. Many mining programmes are under study and development and important expenditures are being made in preparing for new nickel and iron ore production. Although the work now going on is not as spectacular as that of a few years ago it is soundly based and undoubtedly we shall continue to see in the years to come a steady and important development of natural resources including the vital field of energy. The Royal Commission on Energy has recently submitted its views in a first report to the Government. This Report has attracted widespread attention among those familiar with its field of study. A further report is to be submitted soon and it is apparent that the recommendations and their implications will in due course require examination with careful consideration of their possible influences on the development of the economy.

Employment

Continued population growth through the year with an increase in the labour force represents one of the factors reflected in employment as well as unemployment. Unexpectedly for many, the number of employed Canadians has been just about the same as last year. Notwithstanding this, unemployment in 1958 continued to present a problem to Governments and private employers. The unemployment in this period was caused by a combination of circumstances which was more than seasonal in character. In 1957 our population grew exceptionally—about half a million—and the labour force by 221,000. At least three out of five of these additional working adults in that year were immigrants escaping old terrors or seeking new opportunities. It is not hard to see why unemployment was higher in 1958, a year when, temporarily, basic growth factors were weaker than they had been for some time. Population growth this year has been at a lesser rate than in 1957. It may be expected that the underlying market demand in several key sectors of the economy, partly reflected in the high level of building contracts awarded in recent months, and supported by the stability of 1958, should provide a foundation for further progress in 1959.

Housing

Residential construction this year is creating a new record with indications that completions may amount to 153,000 units compared with 117,000 last year. Of the total it now appears that 80% was financed by individuals and financial institutions and the remainder by moneys made available by the Government through Central Mortgage & Housing Corporation.

Financial Developments

For some years under expansionary forces federal revenues have been greater than rising expenditures, and surpluses have in the main been used to reduce the federal debt. This year we have seen another phase of so-called compensatory fiscal policy: the expenditure of greater sums of money than the existing tax structure could provide. Under the growth conditions which are characteristic of Canada we have had little experience with the implications of deficit financing. Under a dynamic economic system there are bound to be recurring periods of advance and rest but we do know from experience in other countries that long continued deficits can have seriously adverse effects on the price structure and on business generally. We in this country should set our sights on an equilibrium in the economy and a budget in some measure of balance.

The past year has also seen a marked increase in money supply in the banking system but with some unused productive facilities there has been only a modest movement upward in prices and one which probably would have taken place in any event. Notwithstanding this monetary expansion accompanied by substantially enlarged holdings of Government bonds by the banking system, interest rates are now moving upward. Much of this trend has been influenced by developments in the United States where at least in part there has been a disinclination on the part of investors to buy Government bonds and a trend to other types of investment.

Summary

Expenditures at all levels of governments in the economy continue to increase. Even excluding public business enterprises, government expenditures on goods and services now approach $6 billion a year. There are also those expenditures arising from transfer payments by governments to individuals which seem likely to be at a rate of $3 billion by the end of this year. In all, this represents a very substantial sum in relation to total national expenditure.

Few Canadians fully realize the extent and significance of the influence on our country of government expenditures and budgetary, fiscal and monetary policies. The magnitude of this influence and its implications raise many factors—the level of government deficits, the rate of price increases, the possibility of increasing taxation—which give pause for thought. How can a climate favourable to private investment, individual enterprise and maximum economic freedom be preserved? For example, in the period ahead there may be demands in some sectors of our economy exceeding the readily available resources which may be freely allotted to those sectors, and we must be conscious of the importance of maintaining freedom of action in the capital markets to balance requirements of production and consumption.

There are many more allied considerations. Canadians have always been resourceful in their genius for finding the means of compromise and moderation and an increasing awareness will help to solve the problems of the future. The nation has been built on sources of individual enterprise, skills, imagination and creativeness with adequate incentives and rewards. A vital part of our national development must be to preserve adequate scope for these foundations for future growth.

J. P. R. Wadsworth, Vice-President and General Manager, reviewed the balance sheet, highlights of which are summarized, and said in part:

The 92nd annual statement shows total assets to have exceeded for the first time three billion dollars and the increase from one year ago amounts to $435,097,000. This is the largest growth in one year in the history of the Bank.

The increase in money supply in the banking system during the year was greater than the demand by business and individuals for bank loans so that quick assets represented principally by Government of Canada securities have increased.

Commercial and other loans at $1,011,352,000 decreased by $48,920,000. While the number of borrowing customers increased, public financing to fund temporary loans brought about reductions which more than offset the general increase in most classifications. The Bank's activities in the Personal Loan field, which commenced over 22 years ago when the Bank pioneered this service in Canada, have continued at a steadily growing pace. Since the inception of this plan over one and a quarter million individual loans have been granted. The Bank's participation in the year's activity in the residential construction field is reflected in an increase of mortgages insured under the National Housing Act of 1954 of $43,384,000. The total of these loans now on our books stands at $140,215,000.

Deposits now total $2,818,400,000, an increase of $411,557,000. Both savings and other deposits reached new highs, while deposits from government sources in the aggregate remained about the same.

The total number of banking offices at the end of the year stood at 807. During the year 32 new branch offices were opened, in new or growing urban and rural areas.

The Annual Meeting provides the opportunity of reporting on the part played by the personnel. The figures speak for themselves and represent the combined efforts of a group of more than 10,000 men and women. However, even in banking, figures cannot tell the whole story. The day-to-day services to more than two million customers are largely of a personal nature requiring thoughtfulness, understanding and courtesy. Behind this large group of front line personnel are all those whose roles are equally important in a supporting or staff capacity. In addition, however, to the various roles played during the business day there is the role in the community in which so many of our men and women play an important part. I am sure the shareholders as well as the Chairman and the President will wish to join with me in an expression of appreciation to all the personnel of the Bank for their ready acceptance of responsibility and the faithful discharge of duties as good bankers and good citizens.

2 Officers Charged in Navy Theft

HALIFAX (CP)—A Navy spokesman said Tuesday night two Halifax-based petty officers will be brought to trial on charges arising from the disappearance of nearly $2,000 in cash from Stadacona naval base here.

The men were identified as Malcolm Caldwell, 28, of Pereau, N.S., and William O'Hearon, 32, of Loggieville, N.B. Both served in the Stadacona clothing stores.

Caldwell is charged with theft of $395. Both charges said "public property" was involved.

The navy official here said charges were laid after "discrepancies" were found in the stores. He said money was involved.

BANK TELLER PLEADS GUILTY TO HUGE THEFT

OTTAWA (UPI)—Boyne L. Johnston, 27, pleaded guilty today to the theft of $260,910.79 from a downtown bank where he had worked as a head teller. He was remanded until December 18 for sentencing.

Detective Gordon Lowry told Magistrate Glenn Strike that Johnston and his father had made complete restitution of the amount the handsome "boy genius" of local banking circles spent on a getaway spree.

Police recovered $232,000 in cash after they arrested Johnston in a Denver, Colo., nightclub, November 3.

NEVER CAUGHT WINDOW-SMASHING YOUTHS

Cleric Dies, His Last Task Undone

Rev. Ewing G. Thompson of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church had planned an all-night vigil to catch youths who smashed the windows of his church during the night.

But he died here Tuesday, aged 83, his task unaccomplished.

Disgusted by repeated window-smashing, he had hoped to catch the culprits and invite them to join his church instead of handing them over to the police.

Funeral services under the Presbytery of Victoria will be held on Friday at 2 p.m. at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

The body will lie in state at the church from 12 noon on Friday.

Born at Londonderry, Northern Ireland, Mr. Thompson came to Canada as a young minister, serving in Red Deer, Alta., Ashcroft, Marpole, New Westminster and Woodstock, Ont., which he left 15 years ago to come to Victoria.

He was active here in the Sooke, Knox and Erskine churches.

He is survived by the widow at their home at 1904 Fort. golden wedding anniversary They had celebrated their last June.

Big Boost In Jobless At Duncan

DUNCAN (CP)—There has been an increase of more than 200 since Nov. 30 in the number of people seeking work in the Duncan area.

A. E. Boyle, acting manager of the Unemployment Insurance Commission, Tuesday told the Cowichan winter employment committee that on Dec. 4 the number of job seekers was 815 compared with 606 Nov. 30.

Alderman J. J. Kerrone told the committee a meeting will be held with the B.C. government Dec. 16 in an effort to have funds released for additional employment.

"If this effort is successful," he said, "work may start soon on a new exhibition building."

NEW COURT HOUSE

Chairman J. V. Boys told the meeting the federal government should be urged to include a new Duncan court house in the winter works program.

VICTORIA'S BOB WHEATON BACK . . .

. . . FROM SUCCESSFUL SWIMMING SAFARI

Jaunt to Germany May Lead to Greater Interest

By ERNIE FEDORUK

The first Canadian amateur swimming team ever to go outside Canada in quest of international competition, apart from the Olympic, British Empire and Pan-American Games, arrived back in the country Tuesday.

The 13-day tour of Germany was, in the opinion of Victoria's Bob Wheaton, "a terrific success."

The results of the tour have been duly reported in many of the nation's newspapers, thanks to the efforts of The Canadian Press, but no mention has yet been made of why the team — assembled by Toronto's Alex Stermac — undertook such a tour.

Then, why the trip?

The question may seem out of line to some, while others may find an obvious answer. The fact remains, however, the reason for the tour has, unfortunately, been overlooked.

Young Mr. Wheaton, the king of Canada's backstrokers, was willing to supply the reason Tuesday night before returning to his study books in preparation for the forthcoming Christmas exams at Oak Bay High.

"We hope it's the start of something that Canadian swimmers can look forward to . . . international competition apart from the various games.

"The trip was arranged in order to encourage international teams to come to Canada, which is something that has never been done. There should be something big for Canadian swimmers to look forward to besides the games . . . something along the lines of the B.C. Centennial track meet that was held in Vancouver earlier this year."

If future tours of this nature were arranged regularly (and often), young Canadian swimmers would have greater incentive for training, Bob said.

"And it might also result in the building of more pools in Canada," the 16-year-old added wistfully. Canada, it might be said without pride, has only two 50-metre (Olympic regulation size) pools. There are 26 such pools in the Australian city of Melbourne alone.

"I'm perhaps more fortunate than most Canadian swimmers," he continued, "because I happen to have the largest indoor pool in Canada (Crystal Garden) in my backyard. But that's nothing to the Germans . . . they have many such pools."

Speaking of swim houses, Wheaton was particularly impressed with a three million dollar pool in Bremen, where he made an unscheduled invitational appearance.

The swim centre contained a "warm-up pool," a diving pool and, on a second floor, the "most modern" racing pool Wheaton ever saw.

"It was designed by a swimmer and built strictly for racing. It featured walls of studded tile for fast pushoffs and the water flowed over the gutter to eliminate any waves."

Wheaton turned in splendid performances in the meets at Hamburg, Gottinghen, Hanover and Bayreuth. At Bayreuth, he covered the 100-metre backstroke distances in 1.04.6, faster than any Canadian in history and two seconds better than the previous best mark which he set in the British Empire Games at Wales last summer.

As a matter of fact, the seven-member Canadian team covered itself with glory.

Other members of the team were Sara Barber of Brantford, Ont., Vancouver's Marg Iwasaki, and Lynn Scott, Sandra Scott, Diange Ferguson and Bonnie Benson, all of Toronto.

The Canadian girls, oldest of whom is 17, captured 13 firsts and won dual meets in Hamburg, Gottingham and Bayreuth.

Sandra sliced almost three full seconds off her previous best time for the 100-metre freestyle. Her 1.07.9 puts her in a world class.

Lynn Scott chopped nearly 3.5 seconds off her personal record, Marg Iwasaki was clocked in 1.05.6, Bonnie did the 200-metre breaststroke in 3.00.4 and the Canadian record is 3.01.5 held by Vancouver's Irene Service.

Miss Barber turned in a mark of 1.12.9 in the 100-metre girls' backstroke. When you compare that with the world record of 1.11.8, you can readily see why Sara is rated as one of Canada's greatest female swimmers.

Will Francis Use Script?

Emile Guards Flyer Goal Against Cougars Tonight

EMILE FRANCIS

Sports annals are loaded with stories of players who have wrecked the hopes of their former teams, and Francis, Hart and Boyce all toiled with the Cougars last season.

Francis, one of hockey's greatest competitors, appears a likely candidate to give the Cats a bushel of worry.

WOIT ON DEFENCE

"The Cat," who has seen service with Chicago Black Hawks and New York Rangers in the National Hockey League during his 12 seasons of professional puck stopping, is having one of his best seasons and the Flyers protect him with one of the most talented defence quartets in the Western Hockey League.

Lining up on the Spokane blue line will be Benny Woit, who spent seven seasons in the National League; rugged Tom Hodges, who moved up from the amateur Flyers of last season; veteran Joe Lund and Tommy Williams, perennial all-star with Cleveland and Rochester in the American Hockey League.

With a chance to move into a second-place tie with Vancouver Canucks in the WHL's Coast Division, Cougar coach Pat Egan has again shuffled the Victoria lineup.

WILSON IN ACTION

Egan plans to start Jean Marc Picard with Don McLeod, making his first appearance since suffering a knee injury, and pair Jim Hay with Ted Harris on defence in front of goalie Marcel Pelletier.

Gordie Wilson will make his first start of the season between wingers Enio Sclisizzi and Doug Macauley, Doug Anderson will centre George Ford and Murray Wilkie and Gordie Haworth will work with wingers Stan Baliuk and Al Nicholson.

Game time tonight is 8.30.

TEAR HIS ARM OFF!

Old Arch Promises To Try for Record

Moore Risks World Title At Montreal

By JACK CUDDY

MONTREAL (UPI) — Light-heavyweight champion Archie Moore, delighted with Jack Sharkey as referee, announced enthusiastically today, "I'll shoot the works tonight for the all-time knockout record in my title fight with Yvon Durelle."

Enduring Archie, who'll be 42 or 45 on Saturday, goes gunning for a record-breaking 127th kayo as he risks his 175-pound crown for the seventh time tonight against the Canadian and British Empire champion at the Montreal Forum.

Moore, favored at 3-1, said, "I'm delighted that (former heavyweight champion) Sharkey has been selected to referee my fight. It gives me the distinction of having had three ex-heavyweight champs as referees — Jim Braddock for my fight with Nino Valdes, Joe Louis for Clarence Henry, and now Sharkey. Each of them is a very capable official."

TICKETS MOVING

Promoter Eddie Quinn reported that a brisk ticket sale had put $65,000 in the till and indicated a crowd of 11,000 and a gate of $125,000 — new Montreal fight records.

The scheduled 15-rounder between Moore and the 29-year-old fisherman from Baie Ste. Anne, N.B., will be televised throughout the United States and Canada.

There'll be a blackout in the province of Quebec and in the upper portions of some U.S. border states. The bout is slated to start at 7 p.m. (P.S.T.).

Moore is guaranteed $75,000 against 40 per cent of all net receipts, and brawny, dark-haired Durelle is assured $12,000 against 20 per cent.

EXPERIENCED CHAP

Despite his age and his 23 years in the ring, Moore of San Diego, Calif., is favored because of his punch and his ringcraft. He is a deadly hitter who scored 126 knockouts while winning 174 of his 204 bouts. That 126 makes him tied with the late W. L. (Young) Stribling for the most knockouts registered during any fighter's career in ring history.

Durelle is an awkward but dangerous slugger who scored 39 kayoes while winning 76 of his 98 bouts. He usually marches in with a wild hooking attack and keeps throwing leather until someone hits the deck. Both Yvon and Archie have been stopped six times each.

LAYCOE ISSUES WARNING

Red Ink May Drown Royals

VANCOUVER (CP)—Hal Laycoe, coach of New Westminster Royals of the Western Hockey League, says the club is heading for a $50,190 loss this year and "unless fan support improves, I will be looking for a job."

He said only a 20 per cent increase in crowds for the team's remaining games at Queen's Park Arena will keep the Royals in the league next season.

"We cannot possibly go on another year unless crowds begin to respond," he said in an interview Monday. "As general manager of this club, I would have to recommend to Mr. Hume (Vancouver Mayor Fred Hume, owner of the Royals) to take severe steps.

"I don't know how much he is prepared to lose, but our financial statement presents a sorry picture right now."

The Royals are 23 per cent down on last year's attendance, when they broke even on a $123,000 budget.

Laycoe said the main reasons for gate failures this year have been Saturday competition from NHL games on television, four fewer home games against Royals' big draw, the Vancouver Canucks, and a shorter schedule — 32 home games this year against 35 last year.

He said the last two reasons meant Royals were $22,000 losers before the first puck was dropped Oct. 11.

"Mr. Hume was prepared to lose the $22,000," he said. "Now we have slipped 23 per cent at the gate and the losses are staggering."

Laycoe blamed himself and fellow WHL directors for "thoughtless scheduling."

"Travel wise, we have an NHL operation on a WHL budget. It's impossible."

Perrin Says Price Is High

WINNIPEG (CP)—Jack Perrin, general manager of the Winnipeg Warriors, intimated Tuesday night that if Toronto Maple Leafs wanted Warrior coach Alf Pike, the price would come high.

George Imlach, new general manager of the National Hockey League club, met with Pike in Vancouver, Tuesday, but nothing was settled.

Leafs have been without a full-time coach since Imlach fired Billy Reay.

"I can say that I expect the Winnipeg hockey club to get some consideration from Toronto in their dealings with Alf, be it material or monetary," Perrin said.

He added, however, that this did not mean he was standing in Pike's way if the coach decided to leave Winnipeg, but he intimated he would like to be present if and when any new contracts were signed.

"Toronto fans have made Mr. Smythe (Conny Smythe, president of Maple Leaf Gardens) a million dollars by filling his rink for years," said Perrin. "If he wants the best coach in the country for them I expect him to be businessman enough to make some concessions to the club that can provide that coach."

TEST CRICKET

New Star Shines; Scores 71

BRISBANE, Australia (Reuters)—Norman O'Neill hit 71 runs not out today to spark Australia to an easy eight-wicket victory over England in the first match of their test series.

O'Neill, a 21-year-old New South Wales star making his first appearance in a test match, took 113 minutes to compile his 71. It included seven fours.

Australia had been set to make 147 runs for victory and reached the total 50 minutes before the close of play on the fifth day of the scheduled six-day test.

The Australians had scored 186 runs in their first innings in reply to England's 134. England then made 198 runs in its second innings.

STOOD FIRM

Opening Australian batsman Jim Burke stood firm at one end throughout the day, hitting 28 runs, including one boundary, in 250 minutes.

Despite a shower that fell as Burke made the winning hit with an onside single off spin bowler Tony Lock, a big crowd stood soaked outside the dressing rooms acclaiming O'Neill.

O'Neill, going in at a critical time when Colin McDonald (15) and Neil Harvey (23) were dismissed for 58, changed the course of the game. He hit so hard that none of his strokes gave England a real chance.

Sidney Extends Victory Streak

Sidney extended its lengthy winning streak in the senior "C" men's division of Saanich Suburban Basketball League Tuesday night by whipping Chinese Students, 58-21, at Sidney.

Murray Christian and Don Norbury, with 18 and 10 points, respectively, sparked the Sidney attack. Sherman Quan topped Student snipers with 10 points.

Chinese Students will play Chew Excavating in the featured game of Friday's three-game card at Brentwood Community Hall.

In preliminaries, Brentwood and Cordova Bay midget boys meet at 7.30 and a Brentwood-Sooke bantam girls' game starts at 8.30.

Supple Stymied By Spinks' Lefts

Both fighters weighed 121.

Spinks, who won an Olympic gold medal in 1956, outboxed the Montrealer, who tried to mix it and found his British opponent too crafty and clever.

Defence Steadies Ship As Big Guns Pound Vics

Navy's three big guns are still on target and the Sailors still own a perfect record in the Commercial Hockey League.

Neil Standley, the loop's top scorer, Cliff Uhren and Joe Tanner each fired a goal at Memorial Arena Tuesday night as Navy made it five in a row with a 3-0 victory over Vics.

In the opening game of the two-game card, Army was within 13 seconds of scoring its first triumph of the season, but had to settle for a 3-3 deadlock with Shell Aces.

Although Tanner, Uhren and Standley produced the goals that kept the Navy flag at the top of the mast, it was mainly fine work by the Bluejackets' defence corps that scuttled Vics, who could have moved within a single point of the front-runners with a victory.

SOLID PROTECTION

Playing before 800 fans, the Navy defenders gave Pat Cain solid protection and the goaltender had to handle only 13 shots on the way to his shutout.

Army appeared headed for its first win of the season, but Aces gambled by lifting goalie Geordie Johnston with less than two minutes remaining and were rewarded when Orville Couter squared the count at 3-3 with only 13 seconds left on the clock.

Johnston who looks after the nets for Victoria Shamrocks in the lacrosse season, turned aside a total of 15 shots in his first hockey appearance in almost five years.

Aces levelled 34 shots at the Army goal.

MISCONDUCT PENALTY

Del Brown and Neil Sjoberg also scored for Aces and Bob Ashworth, Stan Lafonde and Pat McNeil counted for the Soldiers.

A stick-swinging flare-up marred action in the second period and Larsen of Army was banished with a game misconduct penalty after opening a five-stitch cut on the head of Archie McLean.

Next league games are slated Dec. 20, when Navy meets Aces and Army tackles Vics.

CANADA BOOSTS ENTRY FOR '59 PAN-AM MEET

VANCOUVER (CP)—Canada will have nearly four times as many persons at the Pan-American Games in Chicago next August as represented the country in the 1955 Games in Mexico City.

Members of the Pan-American Games committee Tuesday said 205 persons—including athletes, coaches, managers and other officials—will make up the Canadian team in Chicago Aug. 27 to Sept. 7.

In 1955, when Canada won four gold medals in women's swimming competition, the country had only a token representation totalling fewer than 60. 60.

Spider's Willing If Money's Right

LONDON (AP) — Middleweight contender Spider Webb today offered British boxing champion Terry Downes a return bout "any time the money's right."

Spider also said he is ready to take on any other middleweight. The offer, made after the 27-year-old Chicago fighter had stopped Downes in eight rounds of a bloody battle Tuesday night, excluded world champion Ray Robinson.

Webb, third-ranked contender for Robinson's title, claims Ray doesn't want to get into the ring.

Referee Eugene Webb stopped Tuesday night's bout after eight rounds of action that had 10,000 fans roaring in excitement. Blood was pouring from cuts above both of Downes' eyes and they were puffed, almost closed.

The 22-year-old Briton gave Webb a hard fight. Downes went down for an eight-count from a short right to the jaw in the first round. Webb weighed 158½ pounds, Downes 159½.

DETROIT (UPI)—The most points the Detroit Lions ever scored in a single game was 59 against the Cleveland Browns in the 1957 National Football League title game.

BUT IT WON'T HAPPEN

Ban Could Benefit Canadian Athletics

Canadian athletes could benefit greatly from the United States National Collegiate Athletic Association's proposed ban on foreign students.

That was the consensus of Canadian track and field officials following the announcement that Big 10 track coaches will propose the ban at the NCAA winter meet which opens in Chicago today.

But considerable doubt was expressed that the proposal would be passed.

If passed at the Chicago meet the recommendation goes to the NCAA convention in Cincinnati next month.

Canada would have to step up its track and field program if the ban was imposed, Fred Rowell of Vancouver, former chairman of the track and field committee of the AAU of Canada said.

"However," he said, "they would suffer financially if foreign athletes were forbidden to enter their national championships and, therefore, the proposal may not win support."

Bob Osborne, general manager of Canada's British Empire Games team in Wales earlier this year, said he believed that "since conference events make up 95 per cent of their competitions, being ineligible for NCAA national championships would not discourage Canadians from going to U.S. colleges."

ROBINSON HAS HOPE . . .

. . . BUT NO PREDICTIONS

Now, If He Coaches Like He Talks...

VANCOUVER (CP)—Wayne Robinson arrived here Tuesday to begin his task as head coach of British Columbia Lions, last-place finishers in the Western Football Conference last season.

He made no promises, but expressed considerable hope for 1959.

"My being here speaks for itself as to what I think the possibilities are for football in Vancouver," he said without elaboration.

His first chore was to meet members of the city's press, radio and television corps at a luncheon that followed his arrival by air from Eastern Canada by only a few minutes.

He parried questions with the agility of a Philadelphia lawyer—he played football for three seasons with the Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League—and said he wanted to set things straight from the start: "I'm not going to stick my neck out and predict the Lions will win the Grey Cup next year."

He added, however, that "if I didn't think this was basically a good football team, I frankly wouldn't be sitting here today . . . because there are places you can go as a coach and lose, you know."

Robinson, 28, a graduate of the University of Minnesota and the Eagles and an assistant coach under Bud Grant with Winnipeg Blue Bombers for the last two seasons, said he had picked two men he would like as his assistants with Lions next year.

He said he cannot name them at this time, since they are employed as college coaches as present, but he said he feels sure both will be here—one as a line coach, the other for the backfield.

He will meet club officials here and formally sign a contract, duration of which has not yet been determined. It is expected to be for two years.

ANOTHER SLANT

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—Back in 1926 a young Texas pro galloped through the final round of the Los Angeles Open in two and one-half hours with a glittering 69 which earned him top money.

It was a feat which, in these days of four and one-half-hour rounds, sounds incredible. It also earned him the nickname of "Lighthorse Harry" Cooper.

"SH-h-h-h-h-h-h!"

And it's nice to report that 32 years later, "Lighthorse Harry" still is moving as fast—and farther—than he did then.

The man who was the trail blazer for the later Texas golfing brigade even now moves in that old-time brisk and bustling manner. And this winter, as usual, he'll pile up some 35,000 more miles as a sea-going golf instructor.

While most of his fellow pros in the north are playing the 19th hole and wishing for spring, Cooper takes over as teaching pro on the luxury cruise ship Homeric. Through seven cruises on the Home Line vessel, he gets duffers out on deck and polishes their form as they drive into a net.

Then he takes them ashore at such spots as Port of Spain, Curacao, Port Au Prince, Cristobal, Martinique, San Blas, St. Thomas and San Juan and they chop up the local courses with sun-blessed fury.

"It's amazing how much a golfer can learn driving into a net," he explains. "There they don't worry about where the ball is going and they can really straighten out the kinks in their game. I have seen a man knock 10 shots off his game in the space of two weeks."

Cooper's sea-going golfers play some very unusual courses. Such as the one in Cristobal where Iguanas sport on the fairways and you never play a ball out of the rough.

"Snakes," he explains succinctly.

This plush pitch and putt routine, in which Cooper gives a daily clinic and private lessons while at sea, is a far cry from his early days on the tournament circuit. Back then, in the early 20s, there were far fewer tournaments and a $5,000 event was really something.

"I was," he moans, "actually born 30 years to soon."

Cooper was one of the best, as he proved by being the leading money winner and capturing the coveted Vardon Trophy for the lowest scoring average over an entire tournament year. "Lighthorse Harry" copped the Texas PGA title when he was only 18 and at 21 took the Los Angeles Open in that electrifying two and one-half-hour round with George Von Elm.

Von Elm, on that round, fired seven birdies in nine holes and didn't pick up a stroke. That was because he took a six on a par three hole where Cooper knocked in a birdie two. Cooper went back to Texas a hero and refereed a public links final between two unknowns named Ralph Guldahl and Ray Mangrum.

They since have come and gone.

But Cooper seems to go on in the public eye forever. He'll pass the 100,000-mile mark as a sea-going pro on the Homeric this winter and dash back to his club job at Metropolis in the spring. And "Lighthorse Harry" still does it all at the full gallop.

SOLD to Montreal Canadiens for $15,000 waiver price Tuesday was New York veteran Wally Hergesheimer. He scored only three goals for Rangers this season.

VANCOUVER GETS FRANCHISE

Major Strides Taken By Pro Rugby League

VANCOUVER (CP) — Australian rugby coach Clive Spilsted says he will operate the Vancouver entry in a proposed American Rugby League which is scheduled to start operations early next year.

Spilsted, who has lived here for two years and is coach of the North Shore All Blacks in local rugby union play, said Monday he has received the Vancouver franchise from American Rugby League commissioner Ward B. Nash of Los Angeles.

Plans for the rugby league were revealed last week. Spilsted said it will be a five-team league embracing Houston, Tex., Los Angeles, San Francisco, Vancouver and either Seattle or Portland.

He said the North American venture originated in Los Angeles, has gained the active co-operation of the National Football League, and with $100,000 in the bank, appears to be well launched.

NFL APPROVES

"The NFL has given the okay as long as the league restricts itself to a January-to-June season," said Spilsted.

He said Tom Griffiths, an official of the proposed San Francisco team, flew to Australia last Friday to get a coach.

Pro rugby, played widely throughout Britain, Australia and France, features 13 men to a side and without the scrums and lineouts of Amateur Rugby Union play, in which there are 15 to a side.

The professional game is faster, has more continuity and spectator appeal than the amateur game. In Australia, Rugby Union draws crowds of up to 20,000 while Rugby League crowds reach 80,000.

NOW IT'S INDOOR SOCCER!

TORONTO (CP) — Frank Thirkettle, secretary of the National Soccer League, says indoor soccer will be played at Maple Leaf Garedns here beginning Monday, Dec. 29.

Five teams, Italia, Ukrainia, Olympia, White Eagles and Ulster United, will compete each Monday night for 10 weeks.

The teams will be seven-a-side, four fewer than in regulation games. Basketball shoes will be used instead of regular soccer boots in the arena, 200 feet long and 85 feet wide.

Perfect Crib Hand

Rob Roy MacGregor realized a cribbage player's dream this week.

Playing against Wally Waller in a friendly game at Britannia Branch, Canadian Legion, MacGregor was dealt a jack of hearts and three fives. The cut produced the five of hearts and gave MacGregor a perfect crib hand—29 points.

IN SANFORD OPEN

Veteran Sets Pace

SANFORD, Fla. (AP) — Henry Williams of Fleetwood, Pa., 41-year-old veteran of the winter golf tour, Tuesday led the qualifying field for the Sanford Open with a 66. This is five under par for the Mayfair course and lowest score made since it had been lengthened to about 6,600 yards.

The 72-hole tournament begins Thursday and lasts until Sunday.

Tuesday's qualifying round trimmed the field to 150 and the 82 contestants who shot 78 or better made it. There were no name players among the casualties.

Previous winners in the field include Walter Burkemo of Franklin Hills, Mich., who won last year; Mike Fetchik of Yonkers, N.Y., who won in 1956, and Al Balding of Toronto, who won in 1955.

Most of the top money winners of the year also are entered, including Arnold Palmer, the Masters champ.

Italian Racing Car Builder Up In Arms

MODENA, Italy (AP) — Enzo Ferrari, builder of the famed Italian "rearing horse" racing cars, said Tuesday he will no longer enter his cars in races in Italy.

Ferrari, where cars won the 1958 world championship with Britain's Mike Hawthorn driving, said he is turning his back on Italian races because of criticism in Italy of the sport.

He said he was especially bitter at Italian newspaper criticism following the deaths during the last racing season of Italy's Luigi Musso and Britain's Peter Collins. Both were killed while driving Ferraris.

The Ferrari team, he told a news conference, will compete only "in those countries where the auto racing sport is still appreciated and supported."

"I will compete, for example, in Britain where the Queen invited the world champion (Hawthorne) to her own table, thus recognizing the value and function of auto racing."

Ferrari said his technicians looked into auto racing accidents involving Ferrari cars and had drawn "the serene conclusion that we had done all that was humanly and technically possible to prevent any accident whatsoever."

Long Legal Fight Over Beer Empire

Justice Minister Fulton said Tuesday in an interview government prosecution will be launched in January in the Ontario Supreme Court.

It will be based on a restrictive trade practices commission report made three years ago which stated there was a "danger" that Canadian Breweries Limited, headed by Mr. Taylor, might eventually dominate the beer industry unless its expansion moves were restrained.

The court will be asked to issue an order halting any company moves to expand in Western Canada and perhaps have it relinquish control over Western Canada Breweries Limited which operates on the Prairies and in British Columbia.

It will be one of the biggest anti-combines battles in the country's history. It could last several years.

U.K. Laborite MP Killed in Crash

NEW EXCHANGE SITE STUDIED

TORONTO (CP)—The Toronto Stock Exchange may move from its present Bay Street location to a 40-storey building to be constructed at downtown King and Church Streets.

The Metropolitan Toronto executive committee was told Tuesday the exchange and the Telegram Publishing Company Limited have combined to buy the property.

G. J. K. Strathy, TSE chairman, said establishment of the exchange in a new location has been planned for some time.

B.C. Has Highest Long Distance Rates

VANCOUVER (CP)—The board of transport commissioners hears final argument today on an application by the British Columbia Telephone Company to increase its rates by an average of 12½ per cent for an annual revenue increase of $5,754,000.

Tuesday C. W. Brazier, counsel for the B.C. government and municipalities which are strongly fighting the case, drew from E. R. Boyce, company general rate supervisor, the statement that the company already has the highest long-distance rates in Canada.

But Mr. Boyce said his company's local rates are still below those of Saint John, N.B., and other maritime points.

He said that was one reason why it was proposed to increase local rates by an average of 17.65 per cent to return $5,031,000 a year while only increasing long-distance rates by 6.09 per cent to return $723,000 more a year.

Chief commissioner C. T. Shepard asked Mr. Boyce if the company had made or planned a cost analysis.

He observed it could become "an important question" if those opposed to the rate increase were prepared to argue that the allocation of rate increases against local service was unfair as compared with those proposed for long-distance service.

Mr. Boyce said the company had made no such analysis.

CLASSIC NEWNESS BEYOND ITS PRICE

INTRODUCING THE NEW

METEOR Montcalm

A new adventure in motoring makes its Canadian debut. Presenting a series of cars so new—so crisp and clean—so classic in design that we had to give them a new name. We chose a name rich in the tradition of Canada—a name that whispers of an adventurous heritage.

This is the all-new Meteor Montcalm series. Classically styled for six big passengers. These indeed are the finest Meteors—made for those of you with a love of life and a desire for distinction in the low price field. And available in two and four door hardtop, four door sedan and convertible models.

Notice the swift, sculptured sweep to the roofline. The low eager stance to the profile. For pure beauty of design, the Montcalm series is unsurpassed. Behind wide opening doors are Fashion-Lounge interiors of soft fabrics and supple vinyls in colours carefully chosen for their subtle richness and look of luxury. The relaxing comfort of foam rubber cushioning in front seats is another luxury that is yours in every Montcalm.

When the wheel is in your hands—and the open road beckons, the new Montcalm treats you and your passengers to a cradled ride of silken smoothness. Up to 303 horsepower is available for safer passing, and effortless, economical cruising.

This could very well be a description of cars much higher priced because every Montcalm offers value beyond its price.

The truth is that the Montcalm costs only a few dollars more than handsome Meteor Rideau 500's. Yes, here is classic newness in the low price field.

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

What Is A Cuscus?

Andy's readers are full of curiosity about strange, out-of-the-way animals. So they will be charmed by the cuscus. He is another one of those strange animals from the out-of-the-way continent of Australia. He is also found in New Guinea, the Solomons and a few other lonely Pacific islands.

The cuscus is a furry animal whose body is about the size of a large house cat or small spaniel. His furry tail is as long as his body and it is a prehensile tail. This means he can grasp things and hold on. Sometimes he hangs down from a branch, holding on only with this prehensile tail. He has sharp claws on his furry feet, a pretty little heart-shaped face, small round ears and big bright eyes.

Altogether, the cuscus is a pretty animal but, when it comes to character, he is one of the laziest creatures on earth. He spends so much time sitting curled up in a bough that he wears a light patch on his behind. Even when he moves he is in no hurry. He climbs through the trees like a snail in slow motion.

As you might expect, this old lazy-bones hates to be disturbed. Andy was unable to find out how the cuscus got his name. But if you wake him up he chatters at you with an endless stream of cuss-words — or so it seems. If you simply stare at him his anger turns to fear. He turns around to hang down by his tail, perhaps pretending to be dead. He will hang this way until he falls to the ground from exhaustion.

Mr. Lazy-Bones always sleeps through the daylight hours, wearing away the seat of his pants. He wakes up after sunset and slow-pokes his way through the trees looking for leaves to eat. Some experts say that he sometimes catches and eats a bird. If this is so, surely the bird must have been fast asleep at the time.

Boasts Flyer as Cousin

The cuscus is classed as a phalanger, one of the smallish, furry marsupial animals. He is a cousin of the lovely flying phalanger, famous for his gliding and aerial acrobatics. All these animals nurse and cradle their babies in soft, fur-lined pouches.

Mrs. Cuscus may give birth to four tiny babies at a time. They live in her fur-lined pouch until they are large enough to leave home and make a lazy life of their own.

The cuscus is considered good to eat on certain Pacific islands. This is rather strange because the animal gives off an unpleasant odor. In fact, the natives can often smell out his hiding place. Because of his laziness he is a very easy animal to catch. The hunter may also trick him by staring him down. The little fellow then continues to hang by his tail while the hunter prepares a glowing peat fire in which to roast him.

The cuscus of Australia is grey-brown. On some of the Pacific islands the male cuscus is a spotted animal. Basically, his thick coat is any color from brown to pearly grey. The darkish brown cuscus has large white dots for his spots. The spots of the pearly grey cuscus are darker grey.

Andy sends a Hammond's Ambassador World Atlas to Russell Bultman, age 10, of Indianapolis, Indiana, for his question:

Is the falcon a native American bird?

There are about 60 members of the bird family Falconides. The sparrowhawk, alias the North American kestrel, is a true falcon found throughout the New World. It is a handsome bird with blue-grey wings and russet back. The prairie falcon is also an American. He lives in the prairies and deserts. He is sandy colored and feeds mostly on prairie dogs and jackrabbits.

Every falcon depends upon speed to catch his dinner. He is a bird of prey and, if he is to eat, he must be faster than his victim. So we are not surprised to learn that one of the falcons is the fastest of all birds. When diving for prey, we are told, this fellow can reach 180 miles an hour. He is known as a peregrine and better known as the duck hawk. Not only are falcons native to North America, but the fastest of them all chooses to make his home here.

Lumber Firms Hit Socred Forest Policy

QUESNEL, B.C. (CP)—Two Cariboo lumber companies said Tuesday the B.C. government's forest policy is forcing them to minimize production and lay off some workers.

The charges were made in a news release by C. G. Graham, president of Cariboo Enterprise Lumber Company of 150-Mile House, and David Ainsworth, president of Ainsworth Lumber Company of 100-Mile House.

Mr. Graham said his company, which employs 70 workers, has a production capacity of more than 12,000,000 board feet annually, but has sufficient timber reserves to operate for only five months in 1959.

He said the company is unable to buy more public timber for next year.

He said the forest department has indicated the company will be alloted only enough timber in 1960 to operate four months at normal capacity.

Mr. Graham said he has therefore been forced to minimize production and has already laid off 30 per cent of his labor force.

Winter Hurls New Threat At Ice-Jammed Freighters

MONTREAL (CP)—A fleet of foreign ships, its last-ditch fight to escape an icy and profitless winter berth in Canada almost won, faced fresh obstacles today as winter's cold jaws closed on the mouth of the St. Lawrence River.

The ocean freighters steadily cut and hammered their way through the narrow, ice-choked Lachine Canal, Tuesday, and moved into the comparatively open Montreal harbor.

But between them and the sea lay more ice, forming rapidly and clogging the narrower parts of the St. Lawrence River between here and Quebec City.

It had been feared the premature spell of near-zero weather that iced up the Lachine Canal would trap the ships in Canada's inland waterways until spring.

Most now have passed through the canal—their only route to the open river—but they may face an equally habardous passage on the St. Lawrence.

Thirteen salt water ships cleared the canal Tuesday and only five were left, one of them already in the canal system.

But at Quebec City, even the help of a transport department icebreaker couldn't get three freighters through pack ice as they tried to get to Montreal. The department said ice conditions are "very bad".

Despite a frozen hinge that cracked at Lachine's Cote St. Paul lock, workers moved ships through the nine-mile canal at a steady clip Tuesday. The last two foreign ships cleared into the harbor within an hour and five minutes of each other.

SANTA BINGO TO AID MANY ACTIVITIES

Optimist Club projects and Queen Alexandra Solarium will benefit from the Santa Claus bingo to be held Thursday night at Central Junior High School.

All proceeds of the Optimist sponsored bingo will go to such club activities as supporting junior football teams, Babe Ruth baseball, public speaking classes, youth appreciation, and helping with having scotchlite tape placed on children's bicycles.

During the evening refreshments will be sold by members of the Solarium Junior League in aid of the Solarium.

Play will start at 8 p.m., and there will be 60 door prizes in addition to bingo prizes. Tickets are available at the Hudson's Bay Co., B.C. Meat Market, Diggon's, and Gem Fish and Chips.

RECEIVING CHEQUES from Shriners has become regular habit with officials of Queen Alexandra Solarium. This week Gordon Holms, left, director and treasurer, accepted $1,500 from Cecil Holt, president of Victoria Shrine Club, to bring Shrine donations to total of $28,000 in past seven years. ## Steed Says Goodbye In Messiah Tonight

As his last professional appearance in Victoria, choral conductor Graham Steed will mount the podium tonight at Metropolitan United Church, to lead the Victoria Choral Society in a full performance of the "Messiah".

For the city's music lovers who understand the important contribution Mr. Steed has made to the cause of good music during his nine years' residence here, the performance will come as a welcome opportunity to acknowledge his work.

The former Christ Church organist and choirmaster will leave early in the new year to take up his duties at All Saints' Anglican Church in Windsor, Ont.

"Messiah" will be sung by full chorus, with accompaniment of the string section of Victoria Symphony Orchestra, led by Clifford Evens, and with Richard Proudman at the organ.

The performance will begin at 8 p.m.

The term "gazette" as applied to a newspaper appears to have its derivation from a coin of the same name which was the price of a paper issued by the Venetian government in medieval days.

$500 FOR 'TREES'

Emily Carr Painting Tops Auction

An Emily Carr oil painting of "Trees" fetched the top price of $500 at a crowded art sale in Lund's Auction House Tuesday night.

Art lovers paid a total of $6,404 for oils, water colors and sketches. The auction house was crowded and the bidding active and rapid.

Purchases ranged upward from $10 to $500.

An oil painting, "Tree at Wickamush, Vancouver Island, 1957," by Arthur Lismer, RCA, fetched $125.

More than a quarter of the paintings in the sale came from the estate of Judge Cecil Howard Bell; the rest from other private collections. Some dated back to the 17th century.

Canadians spent $2,872,755,000 in grocery and combination meat and grocery stores during 1957.

Navy Ship Racing For Home

Sailor Stricken While at Sea

The Pacific Command frigate HMCS New Waterford is racing for home port today to bring a sick seaman to hospital.

AB John Schultz was stricken with appendicitis while New Waterford was returning from exercises off the California coast in company with other units of the Fourth Canadian Escort Squadron.

She was due to arrive at 1.30 p.m. Thursday, but was detached from the squadron to proceed at full speed.

New Waterford's estimated time of arrival is now 6 p.m. today.

The other ships in the squadron will proceed to port at "economical cruising speed," bringing them in as originally scheduled Thursday.

With New Waterford on the squadron exercise were HMC Ships Stettler, Jonquiere, New Glasgow, and Antigonish. They left Dec. 1 for San Francisco and operational exercises with units of the U.S. fleet.

AB Schultz is being rushed home in case an operation is necessary. While frigates have well-equipped sick bays, they are not fitted out for major operations.

An ambulance will be at dockside to rush the ill seaman to HMCS Naden hospital.

FLIRTATION WITH WINTER BROKEN OFF

After a brief flirtation with winter earlier in the week, Victoria today found itself back in its usual winter weather—comparatively warm, cloudy, and shrouded in Scotch mist.

Weatherman William Mackie said the cold air that threatened the city, and gave snow everywhere else on Vancouver Island, has been pushed back up the Fraser Valley as far as Hope.

Light fog was general over the area early today, being thickest away from the waterfront.

"There is another storm due from the Pacific, but it won't bring much change," Mr. Mackie said. "We expect cloudy skies and intermittent rain tonight and Thursday, and may see the sun Thursday afternoon if the storm has passed by noon."

Winds will be southwesterly at 15 miles Thursday, and temperatures will range between 38 and 47 degrees.

Autonomy Called 'Two-Way Street'

By JOHN MIKA

An angry Mayor Percy Scurrah today aimed a blistering salvo at Saanich anti-amalgamationists and said Victoria voters should consider the question carefully before casting any "yes" votes Thursday.

At the same time, Saanich Reeve George Chatterton welcomed a statement from Coun. Charles Nelles that he would contest the reeveship next year on the amalgamation issue if Thursday's vote is not decisive.

'Half-Truths'

"I'm very much fed up with the statements that are being bandied about regarding this question . . . statements that have no basis in fact," the mayor said.

"I'm really annoyed. It's gotten to the point where I can take just so much of these half-truths and untruths."

He blasted "all this crying" by several Saanich councillors, who had asked for an amalgamation study, that their municipality would lose its autonomy through a merger.

City Loses Too

"Autonomy is a two-way street," he said. "If Saanich loses any autonomy through amalgamation, Victoria must lose an equal amount.

"I've never been impressed with that argument, but if the loss of autonomy is so precious, maybe our taxpayers should think about it too before they vote.

"If autonomy is precious to Saanich it's just as precious to Victoria."

Fair to Both

Mayor Scurrah said the "plan proposed is a partnership of the two municipalities and a partnership means being fair to both sides."

Singling out Coun. Passmore's claim that Victoria is not paying a fair share of Greater Victoria school costs, the mayor snapped:

"For years Saanich was notorious for its low assessment and consequent low school taxes until finally in 1957 the provincial government stepped in and slapped $80,000 more taxes on Saanich to bring them in line with the other three municipalities.

Asked For It

He wound up his charge that Saanich had been riding on the backs of the other municipalities in school costs with an angry: "You asked for it Mr. Passmore."

Mayor Scurrah also accused Saanich council candidate Reginald A. Clarke of stating "an absolute untruth" when he claimed the major had said the city needed amalgamation to prevent the downtown section rotting away.

The mayor relied that the parking plan was intended to maintain the downtown values "and the parking problem has absolutely no connection with amalgamation."

The mayor heatedly repeated his earlier observations that city countil did not initiate the amalgamation study.

Saanich Origin

"I want to point out again that the amalgamation question originated with the reeve and council of Saanich, not city council.

"Our council only went along with th erequest of Saanich for a study."

Coun. Nelles, a leading proponent of amalgamation on Saanich council, said he would run for Reeve Chatterton's seat if Thursday's vote does not produce a clear cut decision or does not reject amalgamation out of hand.

'Let's Negotiate

"My platform will be 'let's talk terms — let's negotiate and agreement with Victoria," he said. "I believe it is in the interest of the municipality to amalgamate."

"I will certainly welcome such a contest."

MONTE ROBERTS

But I have a friend who says he wouldn't object if his daily newspaper were delivered 10 years late.

In fact, he rathers favors the idea, which came to him while he was clearing out the attic the other day.

In the attic he found some fairly ancient daily newspapers, and—as one does when one is cleaning out an attic—he began to glance at said newspapers.

And, naturally, the glance led to more thorough reading. Which was when my friend was stricken by his idea.

My friend says it is much more comforting, and easier on the blood pressure, to read the news when it is old rather than the news when it is new.

"The trouble with newspapers," he said, 'is they are so up to date, it is frightening."

Alarms and excursions, wars and threats of wars, dire forecasts for the future (if any) of the human race, are much pleasanter (my friend maintains) when read several years after the fact.

Also, he maintains, news mellowed by time is much easier to digest, and actually more interesting, in retrospect.

He says this is especially true of promises made during political campaigns.

The thinking voter is invariably frightened by political promises because the thinking voter is well aware that he (the thinking voter) will be the one who has to pay for the promises if they are implemented.

However, there is nothing frightening about a political promise if you read about it 10 years later, and know very well nothing was ever done about the political promise, and there was no need for the thinking voter to worry about paying for the implementation of the political promise.

My friend also says threats of strikes, forecasts of blizzards, analysis of power plays in international affairs, and predictions that Hamilton will beat Winnipeg, are much more palatable much, much later.

Well, I am not sure whether or not I agree with my friend.

I go along with many of his arguments.

But I don't see how I could wait 10 years to see the next episode of Peanuts.

Ruling Near On Important Trial Evidence

Case is tied up by a "trial within a trial" which began Monday afternoon, a situation which arises when the court listens to certain evidence which has not been ruled admissible to hearing in open court.

Evidence in question concerns two statements said to have been made to city detectives Norman Bath and Deans Blackstock by the accused and a friend. Mr. Justice J. G. Ruttan was expected to rule on the admissibility of the evidence later today.

PUBLIC STAYS

Meanwhile the jury stays out of the courtroom and details of the proceedings may not be published. The public is allowed to remain.

Jenkins died from stab wounds shortly after being attacked with a knife in cabin 150 of the Nelles Block's B deck at Naden.

A sparsely-filled public gallery contained 17 men, one woman. About a dozen uniformed sailors from Naden chatted and smoked outside the court. Several started a game of crib as they waited for open court to resume.

Well-Clothed Thief Gets Six Months

James Mohr, 305 Gorge, who pleaded guilty Tuesday to theft of $150 worth of clothing from two city stores, was sentenced in city police court today to six months in jail.

The accused, who has a criminal record, pleaded for a suspended sentence to allow him to work and stay out of further trouble.

"If I go to jail I'll get worse," he told Magistrate H. C. Hall.

The thefts were of a $135 topcoat from Hudson's Bay Co. Dec. 4 and two shirts totalling $15.90 from O. H. Dorman Ltd. on Monday.

PUT IT ON

Police said Mohr put the topcoat on under his own coat and left the department store. When checked four days later on a downtown street, the two shirts fell from under his coat, court was told.

Magistrate Hall ordered the same sentence on each charge, to run concurrently.

Prosecutor T. P. O'Grady read a criminal record in B.C., Saskatchewan and Ontario.

Month in Jail For Leaving Accident Scene

Marty Tapaninen, 661 Beacon, was sentenced in city police court today to 30 days in jail when he pleaded guilty to a charge of failing to remain at the scene of an accident.

A second charge of driving without a licence drew a $25 fine or five days in jail, concurrent with the heavier sentence.

Magistrate H. C. Hall dismissed a charge of taking a car without the owner's consent on application of prosecutor T. P. O'Grady when confusion arose as to the correct licence number of the car, owned by John J. Matthews, 661 Beacon.

NATIONAL FILM BOARD repreesntative for Vancouver Island since 1943, Ernest Belton has now retired. He was formerly secretary of the Teamsters' union here, also secretary of the Victoria Trades and Labor Council and delegate to the Provincial Labor Conciliation Board. He was awarded the military medal for distinguished service during the First World War.

Motorcycle Meet Here Next May

Plans are underway for a large Pacific Northwest motorcycle meet here in May, it was disclosed at a meeting of the Victoria Motorcycle Club Tuesday.

Entries will include motorcyclists from Oregon, Wash., and British Columbia.

The club will hold its annual prize-winning banquet at Holyrood House on Dec. 27.

Poetess' Funeral Set for Thursday

Funeral services for Miss Eugenie M. Perry, well-known Canadian poetess who died here Sunday, will be held Thursday at 3.30 p.m. at Hayward's chapel, and will be followed by cremation.

THURSDAY MEETINGS

Rotary: 12.10 p.m., Empress Hotel. Carol singing, turkey draw, and entertainment.

Oak Bay Kiwanis: 6.15 p.m., Oak Bay Beach Hotel. Dr. Beattie McLean will speak on "Christmas in Vienna."

Cosmopolitan: 6.45 p.m., James Bay Hotel.

B.C. Indian Arts & Welfare Society: 8 p.m., Public Library music room. G. E. Mortimore will speak on Indian affairs. Open to the public.

Y's Men: 6.30 p.m., YMCA club room.

Optimists: 12.10 p.m., Pacific Club.

Sertoma: 12.10 p.m., Pacific Club.

'IT'S THE HUMAN INTEREST'

He's Fascinated By Murder Trials

JOHN DAVIES
. . . always a spectator.

By DAVID COWLISHAW

Man with a fascination for criminal law and a philosophy to match is John Edward Davies, 76, of the Beverly Hotel, a day-by-day visitor to Victoria's Assize Court on Bastion Street.

"It's the human interest I come for," he will tell you. "And the murder cases, especially when there's something interesting in them."

ALWAYS FAIR

Retired Saskatchewan farmer Davies looks on the dispensing of justice as "sometimes exciting, always fair," but "I wouldn't like to be a lawyer, thank you."

"Too involved, that job is," he said after a thoughtful look at the ceiling. "No, if I had to go through life again I'd still be a farmer. More satisfying, somehow."

Davies is currently a spectator at the Mantha murder trial. Last week it was the Till case. When Assize Court has cases of lesser severity on its hands, he sits in on city police court.

"Makes a bit of a change to see someone getting fined for a parking offence."

Do you always agree with the courts' decisions, Mr. Davies?

"No, not always. But I do, most of them. Pretty fair, these courts are. Fair as you can get, taking it all round, I say. Be horrible to hang a man by mistake, wouldn't it?"

A bachelor, grey-haired Mr. Davies said he has never appeared in court—on the other side of the public gallery, that is—"although I got into lots of trouble as a kid. Watching these cases helps me stay on the right side of the law, you see."

Then he straightened his neat brown suit and placed the tips of his fingers together.

NOT FOR LONG

"I have a philosophy about life now. It's this—if you do something wrong, you might get away with it. But not for long. You'll get caught one way or another. They'll catch up with you.

"And eventually you'll have to pay for what you did. That's the way I look at it."

And with that, former farmer John Davies (whose only other hobbies besides watching murder cases are curling and walking) stood up as Mr. Justice J. G. Ruttan came into the courtroom and, watched by a pair of keen old eyes, the business of justice started all over again.

CHECK YOUR MAILING DATES

Postal 'Countdown' Starts

Unless you've already mailed them, your Cousin Lucy in Lunenberg and your Uncle Harry in Halifax will get their Christmas presents sometime after Boxing Day.

Even local mail, Mr. Reid urges, should be in the post office by next Wednesday, Dec. 17.

LOUISE DAVIS

On Etiquette

Paper Napkins or Linen:

At an indoor buffet supper, is it all right to use paper napkins?

Louise Davis Answers:

Using paper napkins at a buffet dinner or supper depends on the degree of formality or informality. It would be incongruous to use paper if you are planning to have your buffet table a work of art when you would be using your "best everything." In that case, washing and ironing a dozen or so linen table napkins would be worth it for the sake of elegance. But if your party is to be casual or informal, you wouldn't have any qualms in passing up your linen. Have you seen the disposable table napkins on the market which don't look or feel like paper, but which are probably a combination of pressed (or felted) cotton and/or rayon lint? They are often the answer to a hostess' prayer when her buffet dinner isn't extra formal in its appointments.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Your Feet—and Children's Should Have Proper Care

Christmas is fun but it is tough on mother's feet. From the minute she makes out her Christmas list until she slides the remains of the turkey into the icebox, the average woman gives her feet a beating which would weaken the arches of a Missouri mule. And, some authorities say that the mule's feet are more appropriately shod for the task at hand than the average woman's.

If you do not have a comfortable well-fitted, comparatively low-heeled pair of shoes, by all means buy a pair before you enter the holiday fray. Foot doctors recommend a heel no higher than two-and-a-half inches with a fairly broad base. The shoes should have closed toes and leather uppers and soles because these are flexible and give support without binding.

The days when it seemed necessary to "break in shoes" are no more. Today when you buy a pair of shoes you should be able to walk out of the store with them on and be comfortable for the rest of the day.

Speaking of feet reminds me of the great emphasis which is being placed on the importance of care of children's feet.

Many experts feel that the habit of driving children everywhere rather than having them walk is leading to much foot trouble. This may not show up until later in life. The main function of the foot is locomotion. Walking is by far one of the best exercises the human body can indulge in."

Often when a child has a foot problem the parents do not know about it because in the majority of cases there is no pain. The parents have no warning signal. Later in life these undiscovered foot problems may manifest themselves in pain and deformity.

If you would like to have my leaflet "Take Care of Your Feet" send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 14 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

TODAY'S RECIPE

COFFEE CAKE SUPREME

Three-quarter cup light or dark raisins, ¾ cup scalded milk, 1 cake or package yeast, 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour, ¼ cup butter or margarine, ¼ cup sugar, 1 egg, 1 teaspoon salt.

Topping: ½ cup sugar, 2 tablespoons flour, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, 2 tablespoons butter or margarine.

Rinse and drain raisins. Cool milk to lukewarm, and stir in crumbled yeast. Add 1 cup flour and beat until smooth. Cover and let stand in warm place until very light, about one hour. Cream together butter and sugar, and blend in egg and salt. Add yeast mixture and beat thoroughly. Beat in remaining flour and raisins. Turn into greased 8-inch square pan. Cover and let rise until doubled in bulk (about ½ hour). Sprinkle topping over dough. Bake in moderately hot oven (375 degrees F.) 35 to 40 minutes. Serve hot.

Birthday Remembered At YWCA

This evening, in the YWCA, the traditional ceremony of "Hanging of the Green" will be held.

Residence girls, assisted by members of special "Y" groups, will decorate the various rooms in the building for the Christmas season. Carols will be led by the Twilight Singers, and a special program has been arranged. Mrs. F. Bliss, president of the board of directors, will give the Christmas message.

Combined with this Christmas tradition will be a special ceremony in which "Y" groups will commemorate the signing of the Declaration of Human Rights, December 10, 1948.

The executive secretary, Mrs. P. M. Graveley, will address the gathering on the significance of the Declaration.

"It seems fitting that the YWCA — which plays an important role in improving the lot of women and consequently people in general — should pause for a moment in the midst of preparing our building for the birthday of Christ to give thought to the moral force of this Declaration which is a standard of achievement," Mrs. Graveley said earlier today.

The United Nations Declaration grew out of public demand.

In 1945, people of many nations spoke up at the San Francisco Conference, to insist that human rights safeguards be written into the new UN charter.

Let this be made clear, they said, once and for all; governments that uphold human rights are strengthening the foundations of peace; governments that allow human rights to be threatened or destroyed are threatening those foundations.

Groups assisting with decorations include Chatelaine Club, Day-Outs, Y-Teens, Y-Ettes and Empire Social Club.

Rev. Laura Butler Guest Speaker at Holiday Tea

In colorful word pictures she recreated the scene in the manger, the shepherds on the hills, the Wise Men, and the innkeeper. The hopes and the fears were the same now, as then, she said, and the need for the Christmas story just as great.

A centennial theme with a Christmas motif was used in decorations. The ballroom dais was banked with potted poinsettias from the hotel greenhouses and the tables were centred with colorful centennial folders based in Christmas greenery interspersed with holly and dogwood flowers. Centennial flags gently fluttered at the back of the dais.

The honorary president of the club, Mrs. Frank Mackenzie Ross was unable to attend but sent a telegram of Christmas greetings which was read during the afternoon.

Carols were sung under leadership of Mrs. H. H. Youson. Accompanists were Mrs. W. Ireland and Miss Ashworth.

Presiding at the tables, where more than 400 members were seated, were Mrs. S. J. Willis, Mrs. T. H. Johns, Mrs. F. G. Aldous, Mrs. K. C. Drury, Mrs. W. D. McDougall, Mrs. W. H. Wilson, Mrs. Gordon Wismer, Miss J. E. M. Bruce, Mrs. R. W. Mayhew, Dr. Margaret Newton, Mrs. K. O. Wright, Mrs. Eber Crummy, Mrs. Alex Young, Mrs. H. G. Ellis, Mrs. W. Trenholme, Mrs. Fergus Reid, Mrs. Bruce Hutchison, Mrs. Stuart K. Kenning, Dr. Olga Jardine and Mrs. A. J. Butterfield.

Arrangements for the party were convened by Dr. Jardine and Mrs. F. F. Corbett, assisted by all members of the executive.

Pen Friend Program in Japan Interests Many Housewives

By ELIZABETH FORBES

The appealing story of the young Japanese boy who slipped a letter in a box of Mandarin oranges with Christmas greetings to the unknown person he visioned buying the oranges and a polite request for a pen friend in Canada, sharpened my memories of a visit to Japan five years ago.

Elizabeth

I talked to many young boys and girls in my two-month-stay in the land of the chrysanthemum. All were eager to know more about Canada and its peoples.

I discovered at the time that the pen friend program of exchanging letters among young peoples of the world had enjoyed a long history in Japan. It was just being revived again after the war.

Today, the Japanese chapter of the International Pen Friend Society numbers some 10,000 members, mostly high school and older students.

Letters are written in English regardless of country of origin, emphasizing the point that English is fast becoming an international language. Acceptance of this fact is wiping out the language barrier which so often prevented correspondence between people of different nationalities.

Exchange Ideas on Many Subjects

In the past year the Japanese chapter of the pen friend society has been augmented by an increasing number of housewives—and through their exchange of letters with women in other countries on common problems of maintaining a household, raising a family and other day-to-day activities—a mutual bond of friendship and understanding is being established.

A Tokyo housewife, Mrs. Kiku Yamada, the mother of two adult sons, has developed a close friendship with Miss Winnifred Tarala, a young Malayan woman living in Kuala Lumpur.

In one letter, Mrs. Kiku Yamada said that a Japanese newspaper reported that hostile feelings toward the Japanese still existed in Malaya. She expressed the hope that their friendship would last despite such a situation.

In response to this letter, Miss Tarala denied that there were such sentiments in Malaya and reminded her Japanese pen friend that one opinion does not always represent that of the whole.

Another example is the correspondence between Mrs. Megumi Tazoe, a Tokyo housewife, and a young Swedish woman. Their latest letters contain an exchange of views on the question of women working after marriage, and of earth satellites and the latest advances in science.

The fact that women of the world are actively engaged in exchanging ideas and opinions is a strong guarantee that they are determined to widen their horizons and to develop an international outlook.

Their letters add one more link in the chain of world understanding.

For, it is only as we recognize the basic hopes and aspirations of peoples everywhere have a common quality that the universality of man will be realized and a foundation for friendship and mutual trust established.

Pasadena Festival

Mrs. Gerald A. R. Stelck and Mr. George E. Willis entertained recently in the Willis Travel Service auditorium in honor of a number of Victorians who will leave Dec. 28 to attend the Rose Festival Parade in Pasadena, Calif. Miss Carole Cook and Miss Aletha Stelck served tea from a table gaily decorated in a Christmas theme. A travel picture and music by Lance Whitakers' Victorian Quintette were enjoyed. Among those planning to travel south for the festival are Mr. and Mrs. G. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Forrester, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Moore, Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Stockhill, Mr. and Mrs. J. Reid, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Lockett, Mrs. J. Roushorn, Mrs. L. Clayton, Mrs. B. Plimley, Mrs. A. Tuck, Mrs. A. Miller, Mrs. R. Gillies, Mrs. C. Thomson, Mrs. L. Opheim, Mrs. S. Stanners, Mrs. M. Gould, Miss Bonnie Lockett, Miss Julie Lockett, Miss Pat Langton, Miss M. Devine, Mr. Sidney Smart, Mr. R. H. Hancox, Capt. F. Higgins, Mrs. J. W. Garlick. Mrs. Stelck will act as conductor.

Teachers' Party

The Exchange Teachers' Club, Victoria Branch, League of Empire, held a Christmas dinner and party recently in Oak Bay United Church parlor. At the head table, which was gay with Christmas decorations, were: Miss Jean Cornell, club president; Mrs. Gwen Downes; exchange teachers from England, Mr. and Mrs. L. Hazeldine and Miss Pamela Nash, and executive members, Miss Nellie Styan and Miss Jessie Fleming.

After dinner, Mrs. Downes gave a lecture-demonstration on puppets. She was introduced by Miss Evelyn MacQueen and thanked by Miss Joyce Applegate.

Carol singing, led by Miss Ronni Hutchings, and an exchange of Christmas gifts concluded the evening.

Gallery Dance

Many parties have been arranged for the gala affair. Among them are the following:

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Wade, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Jackson and Mr. and Mrs. Howard J. Damaske.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hawkins, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Whittington, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Walters, Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Trenholme and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Robinson.

Mr. and Mrs. R. T. McKean, Mr. and Mrs. T. M. McMartin, Dr. and Mrs. C. B. Jameson and Mr. and Mrs. Ian Taylor.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Phillips and Mr. and Mrs. L. Lindholm.

Mr. and Mrs. F. T. Fitzpatrick, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Gonnason, Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Stone and Dr. and Mrs. H. Gaddes.

Mothers Appear in Poor Light

TORONTO (CP)—Advertising directed solely at children is the ultimate in unfair advertising, Ruth Harding, consumer information officer of the Ontario department of agriculture, said Monday, at the annual meeting of the Ontario Food Processors' Association.

She said such advertising made mothers look like "dimwits and heels" if they did not cede to children's pressures.

She added housewives are beginnnig to resent expensive packaging and gimmicks and now wonder what a trip to Hawaii by someone else costs them. She was quoting from results of consumer surveys she had made.

DEAR ABBY . . .

A 'Linguist' at 8!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Our grandson is the smartest eight-year-old anybody has ever seen but the dirty words he uses would simply knock your hat off! We thought at first he didn't know what he was saying, but he uses all the words in the right places and it's a shame for one and all to hear. My husband refuses to let the child in our house and this is causing a big problem because we love our son and his wife dearly. We love our grandson, too, but my husband feels we must teach him a lesson. The child's parents say he picked it up at school and they were advised by their pediatrician to ignore it. Are they right or is my husband? —NANA.

DEAR NANA: Your husband should do a little growing up himself and ignore this scheme to get attention. The child is simply using those words because he enjoys the excitement it creates. When he discovers he can no longer shock and upset his listeners, he'll give up.

DEAR ABBY: My mother passed away three months ago after a lingering illness. I know it will be a very sad Christmas for us, but my question is this: Should I send out Christmas cards this year? MRS. A.

DEAR MRS. A: Certainly. Your own sadness should not prevent you from wishing your friends a happy holiday.

DEAR ABBY: I am a woman of 65, look 45 and feel 25! I am twice married. Lost one husband in the First World War and one in the divorce court. I'm keeping company with a bachelor who is 50. He's bald and looks older. He wants to marry me but there is a doubt in my mind. He's so tight he cuts his own hair (I do the back). He drives a sedan that is so old and funny looking that people turn around and laugh. I had to hide his hat so he'd buy a new one. He keeps talking about having a family but I can't help him there. Do you think if I married him I could change him?—GEN.

DEAR GEN: Take him as he is, or leave him alone. If you attempt to re-mold this bachelor, instead of looking 45 and feeling 25—you'll look 85 and feel 130!

DEAR ABBY: I am 15 years old and have been dating since I was 12 and I just started going steady with a real dreamy guy. He is 16 and a real doll. On our second date I let him kiss me and, Abby, this fellow doesn't know how to kiss! I can't come right out and tell him that he doesn't know how to kiss a girl, can I? What do you think I should do? Pretend I don't know how to kiss either or tell him he could use a few lessons?

—DISAPPOINTED.

DEAR DISAPPOINTED: Don't tell this boy that he needs kissing lessons unless you want to tell him where you got all your experience. Take your time and be patient. You'll be amazed how quickly he'll learn.

For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of this paper. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Note: Corresponding Can Be Fun

The season of correspondence is upon us. The approaching holidays and the revival of old ties prod the most-reluctant letter-writer to set aside several evenings to "catch up" on correspondence she's postponed for six months.

The dear friends and relatives, who have been waiting patiently for news, will heartily appreciate the letters.

It isn't easy to turn a procrastinating correspondent into a faithful reporter of family news.

One step in the right direction is to have adequate supplies at hand so that when the mood is right, penning a letter is not preceded by a frantic search for a pen, a piece of paper and a stamp of the right denomination.

And when you choose your letter paper, recall: it should reflect something of the type of letter you're writing.

When sorting stationery supplies, put the orphaned envelopes or sheets of paper to one side. Many papers today are available in open stock as well as in boxes, making it possible to buy extra supplies to match the leftovers.

Etiquette experts okay the use of a typewriter for all but formal letters. If you like to type, your stationery wardrobe should perhaps include paper specifically designed for typing, in white, grey, blue or green.

Letter-typing paper is smaller than standard typewriter papers, is better looking and is erasable.

White letter paper is always proper and definitely indicated for formal correspondence. Both folded and single-sheet writing papers are correct for formal correspondence. Business letters from home require simple stationery, too.

ON SALT SPRING

Fire Service Report Ready Next Month

GANGES — A report on ways and means of improving fire protection on Salt Spring Island will be ready for taxpayers next month, it was learned at a regular meeting of the Salt Spring Island Chamber of Commerce.

A preliminary report on establishing a fire protection area was given the chamber by Henry McGill, services committee chairman.

He told members of visits made to several Vancouver Island fire departments to study equipment and arrangements.

Members of the volunteer fire department here, who accompanied Mr. McGill to the meeting, said the present situation is "desperate." Fire protection, they said, depends on a truck that is both unsafe on the road and difficult to start.

The chamber decided to ask the superintendent of motor-vehicles to make drivers' tests available on the island for two consecutive days each month.

NEW LOG GRAPPLE FINAL CHAPTER IN 'REVOLUTION'

It's Speedy, Safe and Economical

By DON INGHAM
Times Island Editor

An uncomplicated looking grapple, combined with a loading machine on rubber tires, has improved the handling of logs more than anything brought into the woods since 1940.

There was a perfect system waiting for the introduction of one more step forward. Now it appears the grapple is the final part that made a revolution complete.

Since appreciation of the new requires some familiarity with the old, here is an outline of the older method of truck logging.

Logs were pulled by a wire cable running from the top of a spar tree to a "landing" beside the truck road. A small loading winch, operating a swinging boom on the tree and a tong line, was used to load the logging trucks.

It made for a sound, positive system, but the drawbacks were that incoming logs interfered with the loaders, loaders were constantly in a certain amount of danger, and breakdowns in one part of the operation invariably affected the other.

By gradual steps a system was worked out whereby logging crews with their spar trees or portable spars, or with tractors, would leave the logs in windrows beside the logging road, then move on to another setting.

When the logging crews were far, far away, along would come the loaders with their big mobile loader, or "jammer", and their logging trucks. This technique divorced yarding and loading, but it still required a man on the ground setting the one tong, and a man on the truck to release the tong. Both were exposed to danger.

Then came the grapple, and away went the loaders. Now the engineer operating the jammer selects his log, tosses the big steel grapple as he would a fishing weight, and drops it on the log. He then lifts the log, drops it on the truck and, most important, releases the grapple himself to repeat the operation.

A chaser on the ground helps unload the truck trailer, tallies the logs, and signals the engineer for positioning the logs. He is well in the clear at all times.

The modern setup was seen at work recently by a small group of newspapermen at Nanaimo River camp of MacMillan and Bloedel Ltd.

The company has a reputation for pioneering new methods, yet refuses to make needless changes.

For instance, only two hours previously the same group had seen a skidder at work at the company's Copper Canyon operation.

The steam skidder, with four running cables and countless static lines, blocks, shackles, and other gadgets, is remembered as the villain of the woods.

The Copper Canyon skidder, now powered by two 300-horsepower diesel engines, is working today because it is the logging machine best suited to the surrounding terrain, according to camp superintendent Ed McLean.

"The newer system is ideal where roads can be built," he said. "But right here the ground is steep, rough and rocky, and roads can't always be put where it would be most convenient. A skidder, though, will give you full production every hour of the day, no matter how rough the country."

LEGAL OPINION ON FLUORIDES

B.C. Government Lacks Authority

PORT ALBERNI (CP)—The provincial government has no power to confer on municipalities the right to fluoridate their water supplies, city solicitor E. A. Dinsmore said.

He expressed his legal opinion in a report read at the annual stewardship meeting of city council, which has authorized a referendum on fluoridation during Thursday's municipal election.

Referring to the Health Act of B.C., Mr. Dinsmore said: "It seems clear to me that treatment by chemical or other means can only be carried out as an operation for the purification of a water system or water supply."

Later in his lengthy report he questioned provincial authority to deal with the matter and stated: "I am of the opinion, after considering all aspects of the case, that the matter falls within the jurisdiction of national parliament as contained in the Food and Drug Act."

Before Mr. Dinsmore cited his opinion, meeting chairman Irving Wilson announced that there would be no debate on the pros and cons of fluoridation.

City works superintendent Len Crowshaw, reporting on the cost of installing fluoridation equipment, said the expense would be approximately $10,000 while materials would cost about $4,000 a year, or 30 to 40 cents per capita.

10,000 CHRISTMAS TREES CUT BUT 'QUITE A SHORTAGE' FELT

NANAIMO (CP)—A harvest of 10,000 Christmas trees—about half that of 1957—has been scaled through the B.C. Forest Service office here in the last few weeks.

"There is quite a shortage," a forester said Tuesday, although the department could find no reason.

Most of the harvest has been taken for export to the U.S. and the B.C. mainland, with cutting for the local market in progress now.

FINAL ANTIQUE AUCTION OF 1958 AT MAYNARD'S

An interesting collection of English and Chinese antiques and china, Italian oil paintings, grand piano, rugs and jewellery, including two diamond and emerald bracelets set in platinum, valued at $5,750 and $3,500, form the background for Thursday and Friday evenings.

The auction commences tonight at 7.30 with a good collection of Canadian and London-made modern furnishings, de luxe appliances, television sets, contemporary oil paintings, and a 1957 MGA sports car and 1958 Chevrolet station wagon, plus the close-out of an exclusive gift shop.

Seating will be provided for 250 in Maynard's well-heated salesrooms, and free parking for 80 cars.

Viewing continues today. ***

Odeon Theatre Saturday Movie Club

"Canned Food" Morning Matinee

The 700 Block Yates Street merchants have donated the Odeon Theatre this Saturday, Dec. 13, for the morning show of the Saturday Movie Club. Admission will be one or more cans of food, which will go into the Food Stall Christmas Hampers to help the needy.

Food will be distributed at Mrs. Harper's Food Stall next Saturday, Dec. 20, to persons showing Welfare Cards. Mrs. Harper has a list of 225 needy families, so make this matinee a well-attended event with lots of donations for the Food Stall Hampers.

A crowd of 1,400 children is expected to come to the Odeon Theatre Saturday at 10 a.m. The feature attraction will be "Forbidden Planet," an adventure in outer space, in Technicolor, plus a colored cartoon.

Campsite Program To Employ 100

At least 100 Vancouver Islanders will be employed this winter on the construction of campsites and picnic areas along the Island route of the Trans-Canada Highway.

Recreation Minister Earle Westwood announced Tuesday that the federal government will spend $270,000 in B.C. towards a two-year construction program of seven campsites and 13 picnic areas along the highway route.

This is a share of the $2,000,000 which Prime Minister John Diefenbaker promised would be made available to the provinces on a share basis to build a chain of Trans-Canada camping parks and roadside parks.

MAY GET MORE

"We originally asked for $1,000,000 of the $2,000,000 federal grant," Mr. Westwood said, "and it is possible B.C. may get a bigger share if other Canadian provinces do not use their full allocation."

He said British Columbia will spend far more than the $27,000 dollar-for-dollar share plan. Eighteen areas are planned along B.C. Trans-Canada route and seven will be selected to be built with federal aid on the two-year plan.

"The others will be developed by our provincial recreation department," he said.

Work is now underway at Goldstream on the construction of a 147-unit campsite and a picnic ground.

After the Goldstream project is completed, park workers will move on to build a new 50-unit campsite at Bamberton Park, Sandy Beach.

They will then tackle a 50 to 60-unit campsite at Chemainus Pool, and Ivy Green Park, near Ladysmith will be expanded to 50 units.

The Trans-Canada camping park and roadside park program was originated by Mr. Westwood and his deputy, Dr. David Turner.

"It will do more to stimulate travel in Canada than anything else," the minister said.

A chain of campsites, spaced about 100 miles apart, will be built across the country and the picnic grounds will be spaced every 50 miles.

Design of the camping parks will follow the usual style for British Columbia with 50 units on a minimum of 15 acres.

The picnic sites will have 10 tables and space for 15 cars.

MAPLE LEAF SYMBOL

Across Canada there will be 50 campsites and 95 picnic areas in all.

"All the parks will be marked with a maple leaf—the most truly Canadian symbol there is," said Mr. Westwood.

No charge will be made for the use of campsites or picnic grounds.

9 IN MEMORIAM

GREVES—In loving memory of my dear husband, Joseph Gagen Greves, who departed this life Dec. 10, 1957.

Tonight the silent stars look down,
On a grave not far from here,
Where sleeps the one I can't forget,
And always loved so dear.

I am, O Lord, deprived of one,
who was to me most dear,
Teach me to say Thy will be done,
While I on earth wait here.

—Sadly missed by your loving wife, Lilian.

GREVES—In loving memory of our dear brother, Joseph Gagen Greves, who passed away Dec. 10, 1957.

What would I give to clasp his hand,
His happy face to see,
To hear his voice and see his smile
That meant so much to me.

One Million Dollar Blunder?

CITIZENS OF VICTORIA DON'T BE MISLED BY STATEMENTS THAT YOU PAY NOTHING

—VOTE— —NO!— ON THE Parking By-Law

CONSIDER

1. Why should the city buy expensive downtown property for parking when the centrally city-owned market is available?
2. Why should the city subsidize private companies who badly need parking facilities and have failed to provide them for their customers?
3. Why should the citizens of Victoria be expected to shoulder the costs of a million dollar loan, plus ($673,000 in interest charges)?

WHY NOT

1. Put increased parking meter revenue into a sinking fund NOW to provide INTEREST - FREE funds for future development.
2. Improve your city where it needs it most. Clean up lower Broad Street and develop it into a first-class shopping mall joining the town together and improving the whole, rather than creating islands of commerce.

Consider and VOTE NO on the Parking By-Law

For THOUGHT!

These long winter evenings would be a good time to start on that Rumpus Room you have been planning for so long. With all the lovely decorative plywoods and wallboards on the market now anyone can convert waste basement space into a rumpus room to be truly proud of. At Moore-Whittington will be found many suggestions and plans to help you decide what to use and how to go about it. You will find our friendly salesmen are experienced in the use of these materials and only too happy to offer their help. Ask for our free booklets and plans.

If you already have a rumpus room in your basement, maybe you would like to purchase a Ping-Pong Table. We stock ping-pong tables in regulation sizes, painted or unpainted, with or without trestles. Think of the many happy hours you and your youngsters will have during the long winter nights.

Christmas is just around the corner now, but there is still time to do a little painting up before the holiday season. With B-H One-Coat Velvet Finish you can transform that drab-appearing room into a room sparkling with life and color. Price, per quart, $1.80; per gallon, $3.95.

We are continuing our sale of 1x6 T & G Common shorts: 4-ft. lengths, 6c ea.; 5-ft. lengths, 8c ea.; 6-ft. lengths, 10c ea.

OUR BARGAIN ALLEY

is just loaded with real bargains in damaged and odd sized doors, for plywood cuttings, wallboards, flooring, oak panelling, scratched hardwood plywoods, sylvacord and welditex plywood precision cut squares, cold-frame sash, etc., etc. Drop in and look them over, then have one of our salesmen price them for you. We also have a few 16x24 Hudee type sink rims left at $3.50 each; also 4 pieces of Monotop moulded plastic counter topping at the very special price of $2.25 per running foot.

Decorate the outside of your home this Christmas with colorful cut-outs. Simply paste these cut-outs on plywood and cut out with a saw. Choose from our selection of Santa Claus, Reindeer, Angels, Sleighs or the complete Nativity Scene.

THE "COMET" RADIAL ARM SAW

Several models, with or without floor stands, priced from $298.50 to $337.00. All rated at 1 H.P. and if you are planning to build your own home this spring, then this is for you. Plan to drop in for a demonstration.

Thank you.

Canada's Yvon Durelle Fights Archie Moore for Title at 7 on 6, 2, 5

By PHIL LEE, Times TV Editor

ABOUT THE SHOWS—Once again the east-west All-Star football game on behalf of Shrine charity was a washout as far as an exciting contest was concerned.

Last year we wrote in this space: ". . . no matter how you look at it, as a game or a charity benefit, it was a disappointing affair. The reason for this, of course, is that the East-West game is anti-climatic, following as it does on the heels of the Grey Cup game the week before when millions of Canadians had been whipped up to the boiling point of anticipation for weeks . . . then why don't Canada's football fathers take a leaf out of the gridiron book of our American cousins and hold an All-Star game sometime in August, as possibly an official kick-off for the autumn sport?"

Now it looks as though our grid officials are going to do just that. However, I still think the contest should feature the Grey Cup champions facing an all-star aggregation from that section of the country which lost the cup.

For instance, next August the champion Winnipeg Blue Bombers should be pitted against an all-star aggregation from eastern Canada.

No matter. Any change will be a change for the better.

I HOPE MY OPERATIC FRIENDS who claim that the lowest common denominator of theatre is the action western were tuned in on Sid Caesar's show Sunday night. His take off on the TV horse-opera, though a trifle on the long side, was devastating.

As is the case in most of Caesar's satires it was sharply clever. The opening gambit showed a hand switching on a TV set. The program in progress was an oater not unlike "Gunsmoke." There was the marshal (Caesar), the saloon gal (Audrey Meadows) the deputy (Cliff Norton) and the fire-eating, gun-totin' villain (Paul Douglas).

The play was progressing nicely when the hand turned the dial to another western, later to another and yet another. In each the dialogue was the same, the plot was the same and the characters were the same only dressed in slightly different costume.

At the end of the skit the hand flipped from one channel to another. And there they were in each instance, the hero and the villain slowly walking towards one another, gun hands arched. It was "the big showdown."

It was also a wonderful laugh, not only the anti-western skit but most of the others, a spoof at science-fiction movies and at what constitutes "Success." May those who rule TV see that we get this excellent humorist at least once every three or four weeks. He's a joy.

AS MUCH AS I ENJOY SPORT I have one big beef, that's when all-American teams are foisted on us by the Ed Sullivans and Steve Allens of this world. They may be magnificent to watch in action in the sports arena but on the TV stage they look like so many inanimate tailor dummies togged up in sports apparel. Therefore thanks to Perry Como Saturday night who used a bushel or two of all-American football heroes as a singing chorus. The experiment turned out surprisingly well. As a matter of fact Como's entire show was a dandy.

67 STOVES AND FURNACES

TEACHERS AGREE!

A bloodhound-type Sir Vaye recently carried out on a rebuilt mattress, dramatically revealed today that teachers attend school longer than any other profession. Most people will readily agree. Most, too, will agree that $35.00 trade-in allowance for ANYTHING in the house, or $50 for their old heater when traded in on a shiny, new Quaker Oil Heater, complete with oil saver and fan—is truly a bargain—especially when the terms are so easy.
P.S.: One trade-in item per heater; one heater per customer.

TRIANGLE TRAILER SALES LTD.

We are celebrating our 3rd anniversary in the mobile home business. To celebrate this occasion and help make it possible for customers wanting to get into a trailer for Xmas, we will give a on any trailer on our lot up to Dec 20th.

10% REDUCTION

WE WILL ALSO HAND ANY BUYER A $50 BILL FOR A HAPPY CHRISTMAS

Satisfied customers are our best advertising and we have lots of them. Our customers are our friends and many have had repeat dealings with us. We can't help but notice also that we are selling many mobile homes to purchasers who bought their first one elsewhere. We sincerely appreciate this customer confidence.

WE HAVE BEEN OFFERING 1959 MODELS FOR THE PAST 2 MONTHS. ALL 1958 NEW MODELS GONE LONG AGO!

OUR 7th YEAR CLEARANCE SALE

Is nearly over. We've moved 7 units in the last two weeks. Hurry if you want to buy on a near-wholesale level! Yes, buy low and buy where the age of used mobile homes is correctly stated, where legitimate business principles are adhered to, where courteous people receive courteous treatment with, as far as we know, in 7 years of selling mobile homes, only 2 of our repeat customers have bought elsewhere locally. Here you won't get a rush act, and you will be able to see our prices plainly marked in paint on the windows of our units. We have several new 1958 models which we are discounting. We have some 1958 used models, trade-ins on big 10' wides. We have them priced around what 1950 models have been sold for. We are still offering a mobile-home site to a ½ cash buyer of a 10' wide Henslee High Style or an Imperial Rex — this month only.

OUTSTANDING VALUE

50'x10' wide, 3-bedroom Spacemaster with Westinghouse washer and dryer, stack model, included, only $5,950—½ down cash money.

13' SILVERSTREAK

Oil heater, double floors, brakes. $950 cash. Approximately 2 years used.

MAKE A START

Clean aluminum, 1952 model 27' Columbia, has bathroom, fridge, new bed. Very nicely kept by adults. First $1,695 takes it. Your used furniture or $500 cash will make down payment $48 monthly.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 11, 1958

ARIES (March 21 to April 19)—If you handle your duties with utmost exactitude and efficient performance, you stand to gain both financially and morally. Many important matters come to the fore now, so be wise, especially where patriotic expressions are concerned.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20)—Step out of the dull routine into which you have fallen and meet new people, put a spring in your step, find out about things that are important to your future, progress and prosper. You can start uptrend now. Read your paper!

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21)—The future can be infinitely more successful if you go after the expert advice which higher ups and especially those connected with government are willing to properly place before you today. P.M. get the true picture with relatives.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21)—Take time to know what your true position is with any whom you consider to be associates. Let your charm work on them so that you get your just wishes and reach your goals. Take them out socially and be most friendly, understanding.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21)—A day for diligent labor, whether at home, in the garden, out shopping for much needed items, selling, buying, desk work, research, etc. Get a wiggle on and really feel satisfied in p.m. for a fine day's accomplishment.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)—In the mood for having fun today, eh? Well, why not? The time is ideal, if you first get your appearance at its level best, a smile on your lips and a spring in your walk. Then, off to mix business with pleasure most admirably.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)—Get your fundamental affairs so arranged today that they bring back the greatest returns. Put abode in charming order. Give closest ties proof of devotion and affection. Be smart.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)—See that you finish your Christmas shopping early this year, think of those persons who have been especially good to you and show appreciation by buying what they need and would like most. Read your paper for best suggestions.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)—Get your head out of the clouds today and be practical, especially in financial matters so that you know real security and abundance in the early future. Then set up fine budget that will help you to learn to economize.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)—Here is a day when you can come out of your shell, as it were, and be very pleasing to others, so make the most of this fine day's aspects. You will be benefited in almost any sphere you most covet and in which you become active.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)—Impress others with your ability to be most practical in affairs even while seeming to be going about socially. Let your true genius be noted and appreciated. Then make your plans for the future to the minutest detail.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20)—You can today get the co-operation of worthwhile and serious higher ups if you co-operate in a sense of justice and fair play, giving the best of your really remarkable abilities toward mutual aims and goals. Be kind and good.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN THURSDAY . . .

The wonderful child born Thursday is the rare youngster who will always be at your elbow to give a really intelligent helping hand. The devotion and filial love here is very strong. See that you appreciate and thank God for this rarest of gifts. The horoscope is especially fine. Any professions dealing with finances, property, voice are good here.

Briggs Notes Mistake In Figures

H. Lee Briggs, former general manager of B.C. Power Commission, who is campaigning against the government's attitude on public power, today drew attention to an error in figures in a report of his speech at Chilliwack last week.

He was quoted as saying the people of Fort St. James contribute only $15,000 toward distribution expenses of $90,000. The figure should have been $50,000, not $15,000.

Mr. Briggs had used this illustration in noting that the main centres in the B.C. Power setup help to carry the higher costs of stretched-out rural areas. In other parts of Canada which have public power, the government subsidizes the higher costs for rural electricity, he said.

Kelowna Firm Lowest Bidder

A low bid of $640,966 for construction of nearly six miles of Trans-Canada Highway from Topaz Creek to Summit Creek in the Nelson-Creston riding adjacent to the Rossland-Trail riding has been submitted by W. C. Arnett and Co., Kelowna.

Eleven other bids were opened by the B.C. Highways department for the same construction. They will be studied by the department before contracts are awarded.

Tame the 'Jokers'

I believe the Saanich taxpayer will go to the polls with a sound mind; but if you are swaying like a weed in a wind storm, then stop and ask yourself a few questions.

1. Is your council 100% for it?
2. What would happen to the Saanich "born" administrators after this marriage for life?
3. What type of a voice would Saanich have?
4. Who is pushing amalgamation?

The Mayor of Victoria said the former Saanich reeve started all this, but remember he also was a former city businessman.

From time to time both parties will have problems. At the present time Saanich is expanding its services, while the city is having traffic problems. The city businessman is thinking in terms of the future, that Saanich might someday put up signs reading "free parking space." Seeing that the heart of the city pays 46% of the tax dollar, the businessman is for the merger. Sitting around this table of thought should be four parties, and all the cards should be placed on the table, and maybe the "jokers" could be tamed.

Worked in Edmonton

Amalgamation has to come some day. So why delay? I was a resident of Edmonton when the amalgamation with Strathcona took place. It has worked there, as the following letter from Mayor Hawrelak explains:

R. GILLIES,
1131 Pandora Avenue,

Dear Mr. Gillies:

Replying to your letter of Nov. 28, enquiring as to the success of the amalgamation of the former cities of Edmonton and Strathcona, since amalgamation took place so long ago, it is a little difficult to cite at this time specific advantages that have accrued. However, there are certain general advantages which have been gained which I do not think anyone will dispute.

For instance, the central administration over the larger area has undoubtedly resulted in lower administration costs, i.e. there is now one Police Department, one Fire Department and other single central departments for the whole area instead of two.

Amalgamation has resulted in a more efficiently planned city. The problem of cross-river traffic has also been dealt with by one administration instead of requiring the attention of two bodies to the problem. The servicing of South Edmonton with public utilities such as power, telephone and light which are owned by Edmonton would not have been so easy a problem if the two cities had continued their separate identities.

I trust that these remarks may be of some help to you although I must reiterate it is a little difficult now to do other than generalize on the subject of the advantages of the original amalgamation.

WM. HAWRELAK,
Mayor.

Real Crisis

Most Saanich residents are proud of their local autonomy, but this pride will not last unless Saanich taxpayers wake up to the real crisis in their midst, which is weak and uncoordinated control of new subdivision growth sprawling all over the municipality.

Truly, much of the new development is paid for by local improvement, but this does not take care of the cost of more labor, administration, extra and special services, more fire and police protection, more transport, equipment and other charges. From all this the established residents derive little or no benefit.

The burden of costs currently being expended by Saanich will, unless firmly controlled, soon exceed the cost of amalgamation with the City of Victoria.

Certainly, the wisest and most economical course is for Saanich taxpayers to vote for amalgamation unless, before the date of election, the Saanich Reeve and Council clearly prove they possess the strength to exert their power under the new Municipal Act to carefully regulate new subdivision growth in the garden of Vancouver Island.

Too Early

Until Oak Bay and Esquimalt are included in amalgamation there is no use pressing the matter. Saanich is too sprawling to be any good to the city and the city is too thickly settled for it to be practical.

Best thing to do is stop the starting of subdivisions all over the place until all the vacant lots are built on. Maybe by then Oak Bay and Esquimalt will be ready.

Times Change

DENIS H. BESLEY.

With the publication and space given in the Times in recent weeks to the much discussed subject of amalgamation between the city of Victoria and the Saanich municipality, many taxpayers, confused with the subject in the past, now have a clearer understanding of the advantages.

With all due respect to Councillor L. Passmore and his sincerity for the welfare of Saanich, his words against amalgamation are not in keeping with the immense progress and rapid changes that have taken place in recent years within the municipality.

Keep Open Mind

The announcement that not one of the five Saanich Council candidates believed that amalgamation would be in the public interest is most disturbing. This situation is perhaps the strongest of all arguments for amalgamation.

Victoria council showed good sense by asking their voters for permission to continue their study through the use of Section 210. Our council forces us to make a decision before we have sufficient evidence to make a wise choice. Selfishness alone could have directed this action by Saanich councillors who insisted on an irrevocable decision under Section 25, knowing that by this move there would be little chance of amalgamation now being requested.

Common sense should have made our "leaders" realize that by advising our voters to reject this opportunity for further co-operative effort, they could well be criticized for any of their future actions between this and other municipalities. Minds must be kept open if solutions to problems are to be found and our elected representatives should not forget that the immensity of municipal problems are beyond the power of part-time and inexperienced people to solve without the help of the experts. Dr. Deutsch is one of the most able consultants with no axe to grind. There is no doubt that we will pay dearly for ignoring his warnings.

Most of the opposing members of the council tell us what increased taxes we will pay under amalgamation—perhaps they can tell us what taxes will be if we remain isolated. The ridiculous thing is that none of the cities seem to be able to keep away from the many attractions — concerts, shows, churches, hotels, stores, arena, parks, tennis courts and harbors of Victoria. The attitude is perhaps "why pay for something we can get for nothing."

It is quite likely that Victorians will reject the idea of amalgamation — then we in Saanich had better do some worrying because our real problems will be just beginning.

J. BARRACLOUGH.

Royal Oak, B.C.

City Not Anxious?

Many statements have been made, pro and con, about a possible amalgamation of Saanich and Victoria. Now, for a change, here are a few questions which the voters of Saanich might well consider before voting on the matter on Thursday next:

1. Why does the mayor of Victoria state that the city is not anxious to amalgamate Saanich and Victoria when he is willing to give Saanich a share of Victoria's assets and at the same time offers to have the city alone pay off its entire outstanding debt? Are you willing to give a neighbor a legal interest in your home while paying off the mortgage yourself? Would you make such an offer unless you were anxious to gain some highly profitable offsetting advantage?

2. Why does this same public figure say he wants amalgamation "just so that Victoria will have elbow room to grow" when he and the rest of the city council almost came down to the level of "naming names" to force certain Victoria property owners to sell so that Woodwards Stores could build in the middle of the city? Remember their desperation over the possibility that Saanich might get the development? Is that attitude likely to be conducive to an orderly and balanced development of the Saanich area which is one of the benefits amalgamation is alleged to promise us?

3. How (or why) did the experts determine that per capita costs of municipal government decrease as populations increase when the facts by the official record show the reverse to be true?

4. Why did the experts completely ignore the fact that mayor and council indemnities, municipal manager salaries, police chief salaries, fire chief salaries and the salaries of all other "top brass" (of which there are many) are always substantially increased with substantially increased responsibilities? Just how did the experts estimate savings of "several hundreds of thousands of dollars"?

5. So we amalgamate: Where is the united city hall to be located? At Lake Hill? On North Douglas Street? At Tolmie Avenue? On McRae Park? No! It's to be high in the centre of the city at Blanshard and Burdett Streets—very convenient for the tourists and the business area but not so far the vast majority of those who pay for it!

6. Does the city require new sources of revenue to help offset the fact that it now collects $34,000 per year on the city's largest hotel property when it appears that it might collect, if that property were taxed as the ordinary taxpayer's home is taxed, a half to three-quarters of a million dollars per year?

7. If amalgamation is so beneficial, why do not the two local radio stations unite? Why not dispense with one of the two daily newspapers and publish only one? Why not consolidate all the dress shops and department stores? Why not?

8. Why should Saanich taxpayers carry any share of Victoria's tax burden when obviously they will have plenty of their own taxes to pay?

9. Are Saanich taxpayers likely to receive any better treatment from City Hall as a part of Victoria than many parts of the city are now receiving? Consider much of James Bay, Victoria West, the area between Cook Street and Victoria High School, or many other parts of the city which are "off the beaten track."

10. Do you remember when the city council, a few years ago, actually passed a bylaw (and presented it to the legislature which naturally refused to sanction it) which would have charged a poll tax on Saanich residents working in the city? Had they actually forgotten how anxious they were and still are to have us spend our incomes in city stores and thus pay for our use of city services? Has that attitude changed? If not, what effect will it have on the treatment we will receive from a united city hall?

11. Why, do you suppose, do Oak Bay and Esquimalt prefer independence?

You ask me how I will vote? I shall vote "no" to amalgamation.

GORDON H. CAMPBELL,
1515 Oakcrest Drive.

Always 'My Town'

I have thus lived 48 years in Greater Victoria.

In the process of growing up with my family, marriage, two wars and so forth I have lived in Esquimalt, Victoria (three different homes), Oak Bay (two), View Royal and Saanich.

Whether an improvement has taken place in downtown Victoria, at the Gorge, on the Oak Bay waterfront or at Gordon Head I have always felt it took place in "my town."

In the early years a trip to Mount Douglas, or to Elk Lake was a real venture into the wilds of Saanich. As late as the 1920s our neighbor on Howe Street in Fairfield kept several cows and supplied us with milk. There were vacant lots on every street and we never lacked for a football or a baseball ground, or a place to pitch a tent if we wanted to sleep out near home.

It is easily understandable why the sensible way of developing the area then was under four separate municipalities.

Over the years I have closely followed civic and municipal affairs, and watched the whole area grow beyond recognition.

One thing that has always rankled has been that whenever a major improvement for the area as a whole was proposed it has set off the most ridiculous series of negotiation, back-biting and fruitless argument between the different municipal representatives.

Men who have tried earnestly to do things have found so many road blocks in their way that they finally lose enthusiasm and let their projects drop. So often these road blocks have been set up because one or other of the municipalities would not go along.

Once again we have the spectacle of the Saanich reeve and most of the councillors throwing a deliberate block into the proposal for union of Victoria and Saanich.

And what is their sole argument? They fear for the "local autonomy" of Saanich. Just how parochial can they really get?

They do not even know what the terms of union may be. All they know is that Dr. Deutsch has said that in principle it would be a good thing.

But the Saanich-antis, as they have so often done, won't wait until a detailed agreement can be worked out. Like "old maid aunties" in every family their ways are set and they refuse to even consider any change.

It might be a good thing for little Johnny to stage a youthful revolt at the polls Thursday and tell "aunty" to at least listen to the case.

LESLIE FOX.

Vital to Saanich

I feel as election day nears, and the all-important referendum on the integration of the municipalities of Saanich and Victoria will soon be before the voters, that it is time for some calm and intelligent appraisal of the conclusions in the Deutsch report.

These are the main points I wish to enlarge on concerning the integration of the two municipalities:

1. This vote is not the final say the voters will have. If this referendum is passed it is merely the approval for both councils to proceed with negotiations of the details which will be put to the people for a final approval.

2. The City of Victoria has a potential borrowing power of $8,220,000 and anticipates about $2,000,000 worth of housing in the next five years whereas, and this is vitally important to Saanich residents, Saanich's borrowing power is $4,700,000 and anticipated borrowing in the next five years is $5,000,000. I think the point here is obvious to anyone with an elementary knowledge of arithmetic.

3. If the fanatics against amalgamation in Saanich think the benefits to integrating the two municipalities are all for Victoria then consider this one for awhile. While the debt per $1,000 net assessment is greater in Victoria now, in five years Victoria's net debt will be reduced to $70 per $1,000 of net assessment and that of Saanich will be increased to $85 per $1,000 net assessment even without amalgamation!

On top of that, many of the services in Saanich will still leave a lot to be desired when compared to Victoria.

4. Victoria's tax load is divided 54 per cent residential and 46 per cent business and industry. Saanich's tax load is divided 95 per cent residential and 5 per cent business and industry. I don't think Saanich residents want their multi-million-dollar expansion costs paid for on that basis.

5. It has been said that "city council" will run Saanich. Do you mean to say the Saanich people cannot support and elect the people to office they want to represent them on an amalgamated council? I think this is an insult to the people of that area. I know they will elect the people they want or, if they don't, it will not be because they will not have had every opportunity to do so.

6. It also has been intimated that Saanich municipality will not get a fair deal in amalgamation. Here again I can only interpret this as an admission that Saanich council feels they are no match for city council at the bargaining table. Here again I cannot agree if past experience is any criterion. Time and time again I have seen Saanich come out ahead, slight as it may be nevertheless ahead, because of a broader outlook by Victoria's representatives, their political maturity and their over-all interest in the community.

7. Even if the Saanich council can't negotiate the way their people would want them to, the electorate of that municipality will still have the opportunity of accepting or rejecting their efforts when final negotiations are concluded and put to the voters at the polls.

8. If amalgamation is turned down this year, that will be it for some time to come. In five to 10 years' time, Victoria's position will be such that there will be little or no initiative on the part of Victoria to amalgamate but I feel sure by then the Saanich residents will see the benefits of amalgamation, after some very sad and costly lessons, all too clearly but too late.

In conclusion, I ask everyone to join hands and put our collective shoulders to the wheel. Let's work as a team and bring sound, economical development to this area not only for our own sake but for our children and the generations yet to come so they can look back on our accomplishments with pride in the foresight and intelligence of their ancestors.

ALD. HUGH RAMSAY.

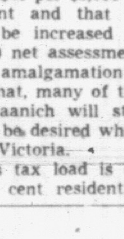
"What? Give an extension telephone for Christmas?"



An extension phone is the kind of gift everyone loves to get, but few people think of giving. This Christmas, give the gift that gives so much pleasure — an extension phone. Only $1.20 a month, even less in some communities. Order in black or glamorous color. Just phone the Telephone Company and ask for "Gift Phones".

Rehiring Urged For Electrician Who Struck Boss

DUNCAN—A recommendation for the rehiring of A. N. Davidson, Western Forest Industries Ltd. electrician, who was discharged for assaulting his foreman, was made here by an arbitration board dealing with the case.

The company refuses to reinstate Davidson, while his union argues that his action was brought about by an "unjust accusation" on the part of the foreman.

More about Eaton's

Glancing over the rest of this page, one thinks—how nice to be given a typewriter or a mink stole, but how devastating to have to buy one! 'Tis true that 'tis more blessed to give than to receive, but it's also far more expensive, isn't it? Never mind—we at Eaton's have one or two smart ways to make giving as painless as possible, and these we show below.

Down Payment—Up Spirits

By which we mean than an Eaton Budget Plan, with a 10% down payment, can make your outlook a good deal more cheerful. On anything other than foods, costing $15.00 or over, you may open a Budget Account. You pay a modest 10% down, and your monthly payments may be spread over as few as 10 months or as many as 36, depending upon the total amount budgeted.

* This advertisement is not published or displayed by . . . but you know the rest!

For Smaller Amounts

Suppose you're buying a number of things, each costing less than $15.00? There are two ways of budgeting these purchases — Budget Coupons or Revolving Credit. With Budget Coupons, you purchase handy books of coupons, each book costing either $15 or $25, depending on the number of coupons contained, and you use the coupons just like cash. Payment for the books (with a small service charge added) is made over a period of months.

Six Times Your Money

Not quite correct, but that's the general effect of a Revolving Credit account. You decide how much you wish to pay each month, and as soon as your account is opened, you may charge up to six times this amount. Thus an agreement to pay $10.00 a month gives you $60.00 worth of credit — and every $10.00 payment you make renews your credit by $10.00. No down payment needed here, but there is a small service charge.

Charge It, Please

Old faithful — the Charge Account. This isn't a method of spreading payments, but one which makes shopping easier. An account at Eaton's means you won't need to carry money with you, you won't need to stay at home waiting for C.O.D. parcels to come, and one payment a month will take care of all your shopping.

Where, oh Where?

We can't hope to do justice to our many convenient accounts services in this small space—so we'll have to leave you with this good word. Full information on each and every buying method is to be had at our 3rd floor Accounts Office — or you may ask for more details either by mail or phone.

'PROPHET' FOUND NEAR VANCOUVER

Mystery Man of the Mountain

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Province says it has discovered an 80-year-old man—the "prophet of Hollyburn Ridge"—who has lived for 20 years in a secluded mountain colony.

He was identified as Bill McFarlane, a bed-ridden but still handsome six-footer who believed he had been chosen to preach a radical religion to those who sought him out in his mountain retreat.

His existence had been known to some officials of communities on the north shore of Burrard Inlet, across from Vancouver, but had never been made public.

Province reporter Tom Hazlitt said he scrambled along miles of paths on nearby Hollyburn Mountain to get to a "fantastic, beautifully kept cabin where the prophet holds court."

The cabin, which commanded a sweeping view of Georgia Strait and Vancouver, was a "many-roomed, spotless house, well appointed but devoid of running water, telephone, electricity," the story said.

With McFarlane when the Province reporter arrived was an attractive 51-year-old woman who was introduced as the last of six "sisters" who had shared McFarlane's retreat for many years.

Told that he was described as an "old gentleman with many wives," McFarlane was quoted as saying: "That is not true in the sense that you mean it. They are my wives in spirit, but not in the physical sense."

The story added: "But the old gentleman said it was true that a child had been born there on the mountain to one of the sisters and had grown up without attending school.

"'We taught her ourselves,' he said.

"'But I want you to understand that in the physical sense I died when I was put here, and this was a virgin birth. I am her father—and there are documents in Victoria—but she is the daughter of God'."

McFarlane said the group at times consisted of 32 people, many of them young people.

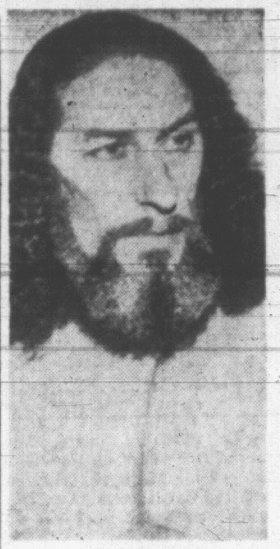
He was quoted as saying he retired from business in Vancouver 20 years ago. After his wife died, he and the sisters had lived in a waterfront hotel, then in a park and were finally taken to the cabin by two surveyors.

Of the original six who followed McFarlane, only one was with him. Two died, two married and went elsewhere and they could not recall the other.

"They came, they took pity on me, and they became part of my house," he was quoted as saying. "I asked no one here."

Hazlitt said he would not presume to try to "evaluate the flow of mystic philosophy which poured in a well-modulated stream from the old man."

But he had forecast the end of the world, said there were several heavens and described his arrival at the cabin "in a strange mixture of biblical reference and prophecy."



'MESSIAH'

Krishna Venta, bearded, barefoot mystic and founder of cult known as the Fountain of the World, was among those killed when a blast rocked the cult in a California mountain canyon today.

BOMB BLAST KILLS NINE AT MYSTIC CULT RETREAT

CHATSWORTH, Calif. (AP)—A bomb demolished the main building of a religious cult in a mountain canyon today. Nine persons were killed, including two children.

Among those killed was Krishna Venta, bearded, barefoot mystic and founder of the cult, known as the Fountain of the World.

Demolition experts said a bomb apparently had been exploded.

More than 30 persons were sleeping in the building at the time, 14 of them children. Two young girls were critically burned.

First report of the blast came from a woman living near the canyon retreat, which is tucked away in mountains at the head of the San Fernando Valley, about 30 miles from Los Angeles.

The woman, Mrs. Dorothy Hamm, said she was knocked from her bed by the force of the explosion. Running outside she saw flames leaping high in the sky and heard screams for help.

Fire touched off by the explosion spread quickly to the surrounding brush. Fire officials said a major brush fire may be in the making in the canyon.

Venta, onetime San Francisco shipyard worker named Francis Pencovic, proclaimed himself a messiah when he founded the cult about 10 years ago.

A cultist identified as Brother Martin said he was in a dormitory with 11 boys when the blast blew out the walls and brought the roof crashing down. He led all 11 to safety.

The cult attracted a following of about 100 men, women and children whod practised communal living and promised a home to "all who want to live the 10 commandments, regardless of race or creed."

Venta and his followers, barefoot, bearded and robed, appeared at many brush fires, plane crashes and other disasters in the area as volunteer rescue workers and fire fighters.

Leaders Urge Heavy Vote On Referendums, Bylaws

53,399 CAN VOTE—HOW MANY WILL?

Everything is ready for Thursday's civic elections in Greater Victoria. City returning officer Frank Hunter today checked the 21 ballot boxes that will be set up in the Market Building for Victoria voters. Officials of the three other municipalities also made final preparations. Some 53,399 Greater Victorians are eligible to cast their ballots between 8 a.m. and 8 p.m.

Vital Issues To Electors On Thursday

By JOHN MIKA

Mayor Percy Scurrah and Saanich Reeve George Chatterton today joined hands in strongly-worded appeals to residents to turn out for Thursday's civic elections in Greater Victoria.

Both said ratepayers of the two municipalities will be faced with historic decisions in the voting booths, overshadowing the selection of council representatives.

Both municipalities meet at the amalgamation cross roads during the 12 polling hours from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. when ratepayers cast ballots on the issue. The vote will determine whether or not the two communities take the fork leading towards a future merger.

In addition, ratepayers in both municipalities must make crucial policy decisions on whether large sums of money will be spent to improve services.

"The $1,000,000 money bylaw for the downtown improvement program with its off-street parking facilities faces ratepayers with a vital decision," said Mayor Scurrah.

"The question is whether our economy is to progress or fall behind," he said. "I strongly urge all ratepayers to get out and vote for progress by approving the parking bylaw. Our tax structure is at stake."

Reeve Chatterton said the decision on two money-bylaws for sewers in the Cadboro Bay-Gordon Head areas, totalling $1,700,000, will affect the economic expansion of Saanich.

'So We Can Get on With the Job'

"They must be passed if we are to develop our municipality economically and in pace with the tremendous expansion of the last few years," he said.

"I appeal to all ratepayers in those areas to register a solid approval of the bylaws so we can get on with the job of bringing needed services to these areas of intensive development.

"The installation of sewers is inevitable. The people might as well have them put in now while costs still are at present levels."

A total of 53,399 voters are eligible to cast ballots in the four municipalities.

No school trustee seats are at stake in Greater Victoria. All retiring trustees were elected by acclamation except Mrs. W. W. McGill, Saanich representative, who was appointed by Education Minister Leslie Peterson after she failed to file nomination papers.

Twenty-five candidates are running for 15 council seats and one reeveship in one of the quietest election campaigns on record in the area. Liveliest race is centred in Oak Bay, where voters will have a choice for reeve for the first time in more than a decade.

Full Results Known by 10 P.M.

In all municipalities, polls open at 8 a.m. and close at 8 p.m. Full results will be known by about 10 p.m.

Here's where you vote:

Victoria—20,273 persons are eligible to choose four aldermen from a field of seven candidates by marking ballots at the single polling station in the Public Market Building on Cormorant; ratepayers also [illegible] referendum and the parking bylaw;

Saanich—21,865 persons are eligible to vote for five candidates running for three council seats by turning out at 13 polling stations; all ratepayers can vote on amalgamation and the 10 per cent living in the Cadboro Bay-Gordon Head areas can vote on the sewer bylaws;

Polling stations are at Douglas CCF Hall, Gordon Head Community Hall, Hampton Hall, Lake Hill Women's Institute Hall, Lansdowne Junior High School, McMorran's, Marigold Scout Hall, Mt. View High School, Prospect Lake School, Royal Oak Women's Institute Hall, St. George the Martyr Hall, St. Luke's Hall and St. Martin's-in-the-Fields Hall;

Oak Bay—7,617 persons are eligible to select a reeve from two candidates and five councillors from a field of seven hopefuls by casting ballots at the single polling station in the Municipal Hall;

Esquimalt — 3,614 persons are eligible to elect three councillors among the five candidates by voting at two polling stations, in the municipal hall and at 855 Craigflower.

Here Is Rundown on Candidates

Here are the candidates:

VICTORIA—

Ald. Arthur Dowell, acting mayor and finance committee chairman is running for re-election on his record during the past eight years;

Ald. Austin Curtis, completing his fourth year on council also is running on his record. He is chairman of the fire wardens and has served on the water board, library board and health board.

Ald. Hugh Ramsay, completing two years and a member of works committee, is a strong proponent of amalgamation and the off-street parking plan. He was chairman of the committee that revised the business tax last year.

Ald. Elmer McEwen, also a member of public works committee, is another in favor of amalgamation and the parking plan.

BENNETT MAY APPEAR BEFORE POWER PROBE

VANCOUVER (CP)—Premier Bennett will be called to give evidence before the royal commission on public power, in his role as minister of finance, if other government financial experts cannot answer questions put to them.

Dr. Gordon Shrum, chairman of the commission, made the statement Tuesday.

The premier's aides who will testify are Dr. J. V. Fisher, his financial adviser, and deputy finance minister G. S. Bryson.

The commission will hold its first session here Thursday but will adjourn immediately until next Monday when T. H. Crosby, chairman of the B.C. Power Commission, will take the stand.

ROUGH RIDE FOR ROAD BOSS

Trail Voters Honing Up For Bennett

By PETE LOUDON, Times Political Reporter

TRAIL — Premier Bennett's smile-and-ready-answer technique will be put to a severe test in his appearance here Saturday, over 800 voters indicated here Tuesday night.

They honed their blades on four of B.C.'s top political figures and were jabbing tirelessly at the party champions when the chairman ended a peppery meeting.

Even after the Queen was sung, the chairman had to call to groups of last-minute aisle-debaters to clear the hall.

Each side had its hecklers, but most of them threw questions at Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi—and they indicated they had more for the premier.

Liberal Leader Arthur Laing, CCF Leader Robert Strachan and Tory Leader Deane Finlayson got their share of the questioning, but the chairman had to call a halt to queries to the highways minister at one point, so the other speakers could take a turn at bat.

The premier likely will be asked if highways projects promised to Rossland-Trail will be carried out as promptly if the Socreds lose the Dec. 15 by-election because Mr. Gaglardi said only, "the highways plan laid before you is a continuing one, worked out with municipal authorities. It is going ahead as planned."

But the plan was broached so long ago that former MLA, convicted bribe-taker Robert Sommers, promised part of it would be completed in 1956.

"I've already answered," said Mr. Gaglardi each time.

Gaglardi Challenged on Threat

But Mr. Laing reminded the audience the highways minister last Friday asked what was the point in electing an opposition member who would attack the government on one hand and then go to his department to ask highway considerations?

If this was a threat, and many people felt it was, Mr. Gaglardi didn't clarify the point, despite a challenge to do so issued by Mr. Laing. That's one the premier will likely get.

They also asked Mr. Gaglardi why two contracts for road work vital to this area were announced just before the election.

"They are being let according to project planning," said the minister.

Premier Bennett probably will be asked whether this was election project or road project planning.

The people tackled the minister on hospital insurance, Columbia hydro development, school taxation, the high incidence of royal commissions and enquiries, Mrs. Bea Zucco's denial of right to sue the Workmen's Compensation Board, PGE finances, the position of Einar Gunderson within the B.C. government, labor, and federal intervention in B.C. projects.

But the question that set off the greatest explosion had to do with anti-government statements by ousted power commission general manager H. Lee Briggs.

"It has turned out Premier Bennett lied to us about Sommers. Couldn't he be doing the same thing about Mr. Briggs?" asked a man in the balcony.

Mr. Gaglardi produced the letter published earlier which was written by government financial adviser Dr. J. V. Fisher. Dr. Fisher said Mr. Briggs was wrong when he said the government planned

MAYOR JOINS OUTCRY

Reward Boosted For Deer Slayer

Today Mayor Percy Scurrah authorized a $50 reward on behalf of the city of Victoria, and Mrs. J. S. Rigby, president of the Women's Auxiliary to the Victoria Branch, SPCA, added $75 on behalf of her group.

Said Mayor Scurrah: "It was a horrible act. We are all very upset. I hope the culprit is caught, and if he is, I hope the magistrate throws the book at him."

Mrs. Rigby said the women's auxiliary decided to contribute to the reward money because "it is terrible to think that tame animals are not safe in an enclosure in a public park.

"This has happened before, but it must not happen again," she said. "This innocent animal could be approached by anyone, it was so friendly. It's just terrible."

Reward money was offered previously by Capt. Burges Gadsden, ($25), and the Victoria Branch, SPCA ($100).

Parks administrator W. H. Warren today appealed to citizens to aid in tracking down the killer.

"I would like to hear from anyone who has seen or heard anything which might give us a clue," he said.

Mr. Warren referred to a report that a car with a deer carcass on the fender was seen near the park early Sunday morning.

"We would especially like to have further reports on this," he said.

Mr. Warren said the deer could have been killed either Friday or Saturday night.

WIRE BRIEFS

Judgment Reserved

See Page 18

VANCOUVER (CP) — The board of transport commissioners reserved judgment today on an application by B.C. Telephone Company for an average 12½ per cent rate increase.

Inquiry Called

See Page 7

WINNIPEG (CP)—Twenty-four members of the faculty of United College today called for an independent judicial inquiry into a controversy over the firing of history professor Harry S. Crowe.

Eisenhower Denies Russian A-Plane

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower said today he saw no reason to refute reports from Russia that the Soviet Union has an 8,700-mile ballistic missile.

But he sharply rejected as without evidence a recent report from Russia that it was testing an atomic-powered plane.

DAPPER ARCH, SEEDY YVON SET TO GO

MONTREAL (UPI) — Light-heavyweight champion Archie Moore weighed 173¼ pounds and Canadian challenger Yvon Durelle scaled 172 for their title fight tonight in which Moore will try for a record-breaking 127th victory.

Moore, who will be 42 or 45 Saturday, arrived nattily attired in a midnight blue tuxedo with a shawl collar, black bow tie. He was carrying a gold-headed cane.

In sharp contrast, dark-haired Durelle wore an old white backwoodsman's sweater, a dilapidated hat, and corduroys. Beneath the sweater was a T-shirt. The fight will be telecast on Channels 6, 2 and 5 at 7 p.m.

Fishboat Search Ends at Dusk

Search for a missing fishboat, last seen Saturday leaving Tofino, 125 miles north of Victoria, on the west coast of Vancouver Island, was to be called off at dusk today.

A spokesman for the Tofino lifeboat crew said the search would continue through the daylight hours, but no new wreckage had been sighted.

Some pieces of wreckage were found Monday. At that time it was established that three persons were aboard: MacPherson George, 55; his son Wilfrid, 31; and David Jacobsen.

There have been conflicting reports that one or two other persons, including a woman, might have been in the fishboat, but these were discounted today by the lifeboatmen.

'MILK FOR HUNGRY CHILDREN'

$288 Donated in One Day

Gifts totalling $288 today sent the Victoria Times "Milk for Hungry Children Fund" to $2,310.46.

Some were small, like the $2 given by Margie, Davie, Cathie, and Jimmie, and some were anonymous, like the $2 given only "In His Name."

One group, the Treasury Staff Association of Canada, Esquimalt Branch, gave $10, but all gave with the wish of doing something for the children who will benefit from the fund.

These are the countless hungry youngsters of Korea, India, and Hong Kong who will drink milk made from powder provided by the Unitarian Service Committee, under whose auspices the Times fund is operating.

"GOD BLESS YOU"

Two of today's donors expressed their feelings this way:

"Enclosed please find a very small donation to this worthy cause. God bless you and thanks for giving us the opportunity to help a little. Merry Christmas." Signed, Lottie and Cecil Wyatt.

to refinance power commission debt which would force up BCPC rates to meet new interest charges.

Mr. Strachan stepped forward to read a letter written by the premier mentioning a plan "for re-arrangement of the commission debt".

"There was nothing concrete," and proposals made by Dr. Fisher were merely "guides" said Mr. Gaglardi.

Mr. Laing jumped to his feet, rummaged in his brief case for another letter.

It wasn't clear in the hubub who wrote it but it mentioned "pursuant to direction of the premier".

Mr. Finlayson didn't have a letter handy, so Mr. Gaglardi tried again with a letter the premier had written to power commission chairman T. H. Crosby, saying ". . . . any formula agreeable to you three, will be agreeable to me."

Mr. Laing called for a copy of the original directive by the premier on the matter, but the chairman pounded his gavel and called for the next question—and the Trail questioners are still wondering about Mr. Briggs.

The meeting in Trail Junior High School was the biggest by far of any yet held in this campaign. Despite the flurry of questions prodding the government, the applause was about equal for each speaker. Dr. J. H. Harrigan, one of four Trail doctors taking active an part in the campaign, was chairman.

Mr. Gaglardi was first speaker. He said his colleagues are human and not above making mistakes, and all across Canada, British Columbia has a high reputation.

Every part of British Columbia must be treated alike with regard to the three essential developments: railways, power and highways.

On power: "We've been trying for six years to get the federal government to take an earnest look at the Mica Creek (Columbia) proposal."

"It seems to me the federal government, under both the Liberals and the Conservatives, has been against the government in British Columbia."

This has resulted in costs jumping on the Deas Island tunnel where it was ordered by Ottawa the tunnel be 45 feet below the surface at low tide—more than ample, he said.

He provided copies of the memo of intent and memo of agreement with Wenner-Gren interests and defied ". . . anyone to show me where the province has been guilty of giving away one five-cent piece.

'NO FAST BUCK'

"It's a long-range deal. There's no fast buck up there."

He listed gems in the government's crown — "highest old-age pensions in Canada, highest social assistance, finest health and welfare services, and best hospital scheme in Canada — or the free world." (There was laughter.)

"We pay the lowest school taxes in Canada," he ended.

Opposition Leader Strachan tied right into Mr. Gaglardi in his main address, as if he couldn't wait for the rebuttal period.

"I always remember the time in the legislature—and like you, we didn't believe him. He said, 'I never tell a lie, and if I do, it's only because I think I'm telling the truth, and that's no lie.'"

ALL BUILDING

Mr. Strachan was especially upset by Mr. Gaglardi's school tax assertions, wherein he had also mentioned a tax mill rate of 6.7 mills effective in B.C.

"I challenge him to show me any school mill rate of 6.7 mills (in B.C.). He can't do it because the Public Schools Act itself says cities must pay 12 mills and rural areas 9 mills."

Mr. Strachan reminded the audience that every province is now building new roads, not just B.C. Then he repeated the remarks made earlier by Gordon Dowding, CCF MLA for Burnaby on deterioration in the B.C. mental hospital service.

"Don't talk to me about roads when the people in B.C. are suffering needlessly," he told the highways minister.

Mr. Strachan flayed the Conservatives for tariff policies which he said would react against the men employed in Trail's lead and zinc production exports.

He quoted from the agreements already signed with Wenner-Gren interests, to contradict Mr. Gaglardi's statements that the firm held no privileges.

He noted the quotation, "The development shall be approved by the comptroller of water rights, within three months" and added, "Mr. Wenner-Gren has what he wants in the way of water power potential."

HECKLED

Mr. Strachan was heckled throughout, but ignored the voices. Not so Mr. Laing, who was next to speak.

"If your ears were as long as your tongue, you'd be exactly what I think you are," he replied to one tormentor.

Mr. Laing said the provincial government should have an independent highway commission ". . . to set out priorities on our highways." Had this been done, the Southern Trans-Provincial Highway would have been given priority over the Trans-Canada, he was sure, and a north-south highway would have been started.

Now the government has $125,000,000 in the Trans-Canada Highway which will be spectacular but won't serve to open B.C.

Deane Finlayson spoke on Canada's position in the world and how our way of life depends on "integrity and ownership of the wealth of our country."

NO MENTION

"I notice the previous speakers make no mention of integrity of government. Maybe enough has been said. We are all aware the election is being held because of a question of integrity in government."

This was almost all that was said all evening in connection with the Sommers case. But he twigged Mr. Gaglardi for saying B.C.'s government was the most honest "the world has ever known."

And he drew a laugh at expense of Attorney-General Robert Bonner, whom he quoted as saying he could not understand how Mr. Briggs could one day work for the government and the next day against it.

"He couldn't understand how Mr. Briggs got from point A to point B. Well, I can remember when Mr. Bonner was a member of the Conservatives."

'STAE OF REVOLT'

Mr. Finlayson said Mr. Briggs was not alone. "The civil service is almost in a state of revolt."

In his rebuttal period Mr. Finlayson said he had learned the B.C. government had made no attempt to participate in a federal offer mentioned in the 1957 Throne Speech, to share in Columbia River hydro financing.

Also in rebuttal:

Mr. Laing said to Mr. Gaglardi with respect to the Columbia power: "I'll tell you what you were trying to do. Four years ago you were going to give it to Kaiser. If it had not been for the Liberals in Ottawa, you would have."

He suggested the federal government might also intervene in the Wenner-Gren deal because 1,182 native Indians live in the area now under reserve for the northern development.

In his rebuttal period Mr. Strachan reviewed his party's policies. On labor, he said amendments would be asked in the act to provide "sensible, decent labor laws" but "this doesn't mean the CCF will go along with racketeers.

. . . ELECTIONS

comer to city politics this year, is a member of several community committees who includes in his platform promotion of secondary industries, amalgamation if approved by voters, establishment of Victoria College as a university and expansion of senior citizens' housing.

Mrs. Sally Rogers, a housewife with four children, will press for federal and provincial underwriting of school costs, establishment of a Greater Victoria better business bureau, reducing assessments on new improvements and more polling stations.

Elgin Neish, a commercial fisherman, who has been a regular candidate for five years, stands for payment of school costs by senior governments, payment of the off-street parking facilities by business taxation, abolition of fixed assessments, amalgamation, a graduated business tax and trade with China.

SAANICH

All five candidates are running on anti-amalgamation tickets. They are:

Coun. George Austin, 19-year veteran on council, seeking re-election; Coun. Harold Todd, a postman elected to a one-year term last year, trying for a full term; Coun. Ainslie Worthington; Gregory C. Cook, manual arts teacher, who advocates hiring of a municipal manager, and Reginald A. Clarke, who says bus services should be improved, especially in the Gordon Head area.

OAK BAY

Veteran councillors Patrick Birley and George Murdoch are battling for a one-year session as reeve to fill the vacancy caused by resignation of Reeve Fred Norris. Both stand for continuing the current policies in Oak Bay.

Coun. Birley, an architect, and chairman of the capital region planning board, has served five years on the council. Coun. Murdoch, a radio and television technician, has served on the council for 13 years.

None of the candidates for three two-year terms and two one-year terms on council propose any changes in municipal policies.

Seeking the full terms are: Coun. Geoffrey Ellis, a business executive with six years' service on council; Coun. Fred Robinson, a contractor trying for his fourth term; Coun. Ralph Mathews, a retired resident who was first elected seven weeks ago in a by-election, and newcomer John A. de Bourcier, a company manager.

The newcomers to Oak Bay politics are bidding for election to one-year terms. They are Allan L. Cox, 31, a lawyer; John Douglas Watts, 37, an engineer, and Gordon B. Elworthy, 32, a company director

ESQUIMALT

Two councillors seeking re-election and two "outside" candidates trying for their first terms are running for the three seats.

Coun. James Bryant, chairman of the joint committee supervising the Gorge Park project, said he would campaign for a breakwater at Lampson Park.

Coun. Vincent Rush's platform is "sound administration."

Edward Lawrence De Costa, a VMD employee, advocates more playgrounds for children and pledges full support for the Gorge Park development.

Mrs. F. A. Browne, housewife, has no specific platform because "Esquimalt is already pretty well run. I can't see how it can be improver very much."

Canada's newsprint industry has a production which is four times that of any other country.

After the Stroke

Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation

Good care and then good training of the patient after a stroke can help tremendously. Expert nursing helps. If the stroke seems to have been due to the clotting of blood in an artery, an anti-coagulant, such as dicumarol, can be given so as to diminish the possibility of a return of the trouble. If the person feels short of breath, oxygen can be given. Some physicians believe in injecting what is called the stellate ganglion in the neck—anesthetizing it with procaine, with the hope that this will dilate the arteries in the brain—but so far as I can see, the theory back of this is illogical. Twenty minutes after a stroke a small amount of brain tissue is completely dead and can never be rebuilt. It is soon replaced by a little scar. If the man recovers perfectly, as he sometimes does, this is because other parts of the brain have taken over the functions of the part that was destroyed. At Mayo's the injection was tried in 60 cases, and found not to work.

Alvarez

At the time of a big stroke, if the blood pressure is found to be very high, and if it does not promptly drop—as it often does—it may help the person to remove perhaps a liter of blood. If a leg is paralyzed, a foot-board should be put in the bed, with a "cradle" to hold the bed-clothes up so that they won't push the foot down. Often the patient is more comfortable if a small pillow is put under his knee.

The patient's breathing may be much easier if he is kept half sitting-up in bed. Soon after the stroke, a physical therapist should start massaging weakened muscles, and moving the limbs. Soon, also, the patient should be gotten into a wheel-chair, and out of doors. Later, he should be gotten onto crutches or walking with a cane.

The man who is most likely to recover is the one who stays bright and wide-awake and clear-headed. The man who has difficulty in talking can sometimes be trained by a speech therapist to talk fairly well again. The person with a weak arm and leg should have what are called resistance exercises. In these, the patient tries to keep the physical therapist from moving his weakened arm and leg. Sometimes a handle with a cord running over pulleys to a weight can be used by the patient to exercise his weakened arm. As soon as possible, he should sit up on the edge of his bed and dangle his legs. Many a patient can learn to walk with the help of two sturdy chairs, placed back to back near his bed.

Better yet, the family can rent a "walker," which is a light metal frame that can be ushed ahead. Sometimes the man will walk better if a knee or foot brace is put on his weakened leg. Every effort should be made to keep up his morale and some of his interests.

The mother of an 11-year-old boy wants to know if there is anything to do for his sweating feet. In the first place, the child is probably overly tense and nervous, but it would probably be hard to make any change in his temperament. One of my doctor friends says he gets good results in these cases by every night for two or three nights painting the soles of the feet and the spaces between the toes with a 2 per cent (or later perhaps stronger) solution of formaldehyde. The effect can last for a week. It is good to keep wearing alternately two pairs of shoes so that that pair can dry out while the other is being worn.

According to a statistical bulletin of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, in 1950—a year in which there was virtually full employment—only a little more than 40 per cent of men over 65 had a job. For women, the figure was barely 8 per cent.

The next question is, How were the men employed? 28 per cent of the men were in agriculture, 19 per cent in service industries, 17 per cent in wholesale and retail trade, 17 per cent in manufacturing, 7 per cent in construction, seven per cent in transportation and communication, and 5 per cent in other jobs in the U.S.

Among the women, 14 per cent were in agriculture, 60 per cent were in service industries, 14 per cent were in wholesale and retail trade, 9 per cent were in manufacturing, and 2 per cent were in other occupations.

LONDON LETTER

By WALLACE REYBURN

Cricket Falls in England

LONDON—During the long winter months the MCC, governing body of cricket, has time to think over this country's dwindling interest in the game. Scanning the balance sheets for the past season the MCC has been shocked to learn that a further half-million cash customers were lost.

Reyburn

The worst hit county was Middlesex, whose home ground is at the end of our street. More than 40,000 spectators short of the previous season, they played to very slim crowds and at certain times I was down at the ground there were almost literally more people on the playing field than in the grandstand.

The quick excuse is to say that Middlesex is going through a bad patch—rebuilding the team, no big stars in it, etc. But the sad thing about cricket in England today is that even that old platitude about sport doesn't hold good—that one about crowds always turning up to watch a winning team.

Even the champion county, Surrey, who have won the championship for eight years in a row, full of stars, the hottest county team in cricket history, contributed over 3,000 to the falling gates.

But unlike other forms of entertainment suffering from audience shortage (the movie industry, for instance) the cricket moguls have not hastened to blame TV, entertainment tax, etc. They've been realistic enough to admit that it is the show itself that's at fault.

Two years ago they introduced a batch of new rules designed to make cricket a better spectacle. The further drop in attendances is proof enough that they haven't worked.

Now the MCC announces a new plan to try to enliven the game. They are going to allow the county teams to play a full schedule of home-and-away games and championship points will now be reckoned on a percentage basis as with baseball.

There are 17 cricket counties, which means that if each team played the other at home and away it would have a schedule of 32 matches. But for some strange English reason each county plays only 28 matches per season, four games getting lost in the shuffle somewhere along the line.

Now, with a 32-game schedule, there will be more cricket to see and calculating points on percentages will mean that Lancashire and Yorkshire, where it rains so much, won't suffer unfairly. The percentages will be on matches completed, washed out matches being ignored.

All of which will make the championship race more interesting. But still the MCC haven't come up with the answer to the basic thing that's wrong with cricket—the mental approach that the players have adopted.

Rather than the exciting attitude of scoring lots of runs and winning matches, their laborious philosophy is to at all costs prevent defeat.

U.S. Cuts Forces In Formosa Area

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—The United States is reducing both its air and naval forces in the Formosa area now that the Communist threat to the offshore islands has lessened.

The U.S. command refused to say which units are going but said they could return quickly if needed.

A U.S. spokesman said those departing could leave because of what he called the improved defence capability of Nationalist armed forces, mainly because of new weapons supplied by Washington, as well as because of the comparative lull in the Communist bombardment of the Quemoy islands.

All was peaceful today on the islands near the Chinese Communist mainland as Red gunners withheld artillery fire. They have not shelled the islands on even-numbered days for more than a month.

HOME GARDEN

Plan on Paper To Plant Berries

By HILDA BEASTALL

Hilda

It may not be possible to do the actual planting until early spring, especially if the soil is of a heavy nature which holds moisture and frost, but the planning may be done on paper. Sketch the vegetable garden area roughly to scale. This facilitates the allotting of space and determines the number of plants which may be grown.

As a first recommendation it should be said that in our opinion, strawberries in beds are not a profitable crop for a garden with only a small area given over to food production. Strawberry plants should be replaced every third year. This means two beds of equal size occupying space two years in three, in order to have producing plants ready as replacements when the old ones are discarded.

With cane and bramble fruits, as the other berries are known, replacement of canes takes place each year by natural increase from the individual rootstocks which lessens both the work and the space.

Regarding the locating of these fruits in a small area, good use may be made of them on wires between posts to divide different sections of the garden. This method will keep them out in the open, which has many advantages. Among them are plentiful sunlight, ease of picking and all round cultivation.

The last point cannot be overemphasized, for we have all seen masses of brambles in corners and on old fences.

Logans are still tops in flavor for many people, but raspberries (both the summer-bearing and the fall-bearing varieties), youngs, boysens and pacifics are gaining favor for their distinctive flavors. These require a 10-foot space between plants in a row, and no quibbling or you'll be sorry!

Blackberries to drool over may be grown in the same manner, but allow 15 feet between plants. Cultivation and watering will make this crop into the star producer of the fall garden. Rigid control must be practiced to prevent rooting of branch tips and superfluous suckers from the roots.

'I Say No, But Don't Let Me Influence You'

Reeve George Chatterton Tuesday reiterated he will vote "no" on the amalgamation referendum, but urged Saanich ratepayers not to be influenced by his decision when voting Thursday.

Amalgamation, he said, had certain long-term benefits for Saanich which should be carefully considered by the voters.

Weigh carefully, he urged, the value of local autonomy against long-term financial benefits under an amalgamated area.

The reeve, speaking at an election meeting at the Lake Hill Women's Institute Hall Tuesday, said he was voting against amalgamation because he placed a higher value on local autonomy than long-term financial gain under an amalgamated Victoria and Saanich.

"That's the way I see it," he said. "I may not be necessarily right."

"I'm not saying vote 'no'," he said. "I say consider the question carefully and vote for what you think will assist in creating a better community."

HOSTILE TO MERGER

The reeve, who faced an audience mainly hostile to amalgamation, fought shy of discussing the controversial issue on an emotional basis.

"The Deutsch Report on amalgamation is not all black or white," he said. "There are many things in the report which citizens should consider."

As an example, he said, there was little commercial and industrial development in Saanich to help carry the tax burden.

In addition, the municipality's borrowing powers under provincial legislation was limited to about $5,000,000.

This is a serious problem, he said, because if Saanich was ever in a position where it could not borrow money for services, it would have to raise it by direct taxation.

He said taxes would probably go up in Saanich for the first few years after amalgamation.

LOSE $100,000

Saanich would also lose more than $100,000 in provincial grants, he said.

"I've considered this," he said, "and I still say Saanich will benefit in the long run under amalgamation."

On the other hand, the reeve said, if voters turned down amalgamation it would not mean the "ruin" of Saanich.

He recalled that Dr. Deutsch said amalgamation was only one way "to a certain end."

"He didn't say it was the only way," said the reeve.

Saanich, he said, could overcome many of its problems if careful in spending and planning.

CLOSER TO PEOPLE

He said he was voting against amalgamation because he believed that local government was closer to the people.

"The larger the unit, the farther away are the administrators from the people," he said.

He said there is a tendency in Canada to centralize power —to place all responsibilities in the hands of higher governments.

"I'm opposed to this trend," he said. "I may be accused of being parochial but I feel it is not in keeping with the theory of democracy."

The reeve concluded by asking ratepayers to make the vote for or against amalgamation decisive.

"This amalgamation issue is holding up development in Saanich," he said. "If the citizens vote no, the council will consider the issue as closed and will proceed with the development of the municipality."

70 PRESENT

The meeting sponsored by the Elk Lake Ratepayers' Association and the Saanich Voters' Association was attended by some 70 ratepayers.

Earlier, councillors Charles Nelles and Harold Todd debated the pros and cons of amalgamation.

Coun. Nelles said the tax rate in Saanich will go up about five mills within the next few years if the municipality doesn't amalgamate.

"We will get a mill increase for general expenses, three mills for general school taxes, and one mill for wage increases," he said. "You can expect this."

"An independent Saanich is going to be an expensive luxury," he said. "We haven't got the industrial and commercial developments to share the costs of services."

Costs for police and fire services in Victoria are higher than in Saanich, he said, but costs for the two services were largely paid from taxes received from industry and business.

Here in Saanich taxpayers pay the whole shot for both the police and fire services.

THREE REASONS

Coun. Todd said he was opposed to amalgamation for three reasons:

"First, we would lose our local autonomy and would be controlled by a small business clique in Victoria, as Vancouver has been controlled for years.

"Secondly, it will cost us more than $300,000 in higher taxes and loss of provincial grants."

The third reason was that Saanich would receive no better services.

8 Die in Jet Bomber Crash

ALTUS, Okla. (AP) — A Strategic Air Command stratofortress, trailing long fingers of flame, crashed six miles north of here early today. One survivor was found.

The eight-jet bomber, on a training mission from Altus Air Force Base, had nine men aboard.

Long Legal Fight Over Beer Empire

Justice Minister Fulton said Tuesday in an interview government prosecution will be launched in January in the Ontario Supreme Court.

It will be based on a restrictive trade-practices commission report made three years ago which stated there was a "danger" that Canadian Breweries Limited, headed by Mr. Taylor, might eventually dominate the beer industry unless its expansion moves were restrained.

The court will be asked to issue an order halting any company moves to expand in Western Canada and perhaps have it relinquish control over Western Canada Breweries Limited which operates on the Prairies and in British Columbia.

It will be one of the biggest anti-combines battles in the country's history. It could last several years.

U.K. Laborite MP Killed in Crash

NEW EXCHANGE SITE STUDIED

TORONTO (CP) — The Toronto Stock Exchange may move from its present Bay Street location to a 40-storey building to be constructed at downtown King and Church Streets.

The Metropolitan Toronto executive committee was told Tuesday the exchange and the Telegram Publishing Company Limited have combined to buy the property.

G. J. K. Strathy, TSE chairman, said establishment of the exchange in a new location has been planned for some time.

B.C. Has Highest Long Distance Rates

VANCOUVER (CP) — The board of transport commissioners hears final argument today on an application by the British Columbia Telephone Company to increase its rates by an average of 12½ per cent for an annual revenue increase of $5,754,000.

Tuesday C. W. Brazier, counsel for the B.C. government and municipalities which are strongly fighting the case, drew from E. R. Boyce, company general rate supervisor, the statement that the company already has the highest long-distance rates in Canada.

But Mr. Boyce said his company's local rates are still below those of Saint John, N.B., and other maritime points.

He said that was one reason why it was proposed to increase local rates by an average of 17.65 per cent to return $5,031,000 a year while only increasing long-distance rates by 6.09 per cent to return $723,000 more a year.

Chief commissioner C. T. Shepard asked Mr. Boyce if the company had made or planned a cost analysis.

He observed it could become "an important question" if those opposed to the rate increase were prepared to argue that the allocation of rate increases against local service was unfair as compared with those proposed for long-distance service.

Mr. Boyce said the company had made no such analysis.

CLASSIC NEWNESS BEYOND ITS PRICE

INTRODUCING THE NEW

METEOR Montcalm

A new adventure in motoring makes its Canadian debut. Presenting a series of cars so new—so crisp and clean—so classic in design that we had to give them a new name. We chose a name rich in the tradition of Canada—a name that whispers of an adventurous heritage.

This is the all-new Meteor Montcalm series. Classically styled for six big passengers. These indeed are the finest Meteors—made for those of you with a love of life and a desire for distinction in the low price field. And available in two and four door hardtop, four door sedan and convertible models.

Notice the swift, sculptured sweep to the roofline. The low eager stance to the profile. For pure beauty of design, the Montcalm series is unsurpassed. Behind wide opening doors are Fashion-Lounge interiors of soft fabrics and supple vinyls in colours carefully chosen for their subtle richness and look of luxury. The relaxing comfort of foam rubber cushioning in front seats is another luxury that is yours in every Montcalm.

When the wheel is in your hands—and the open road beckons, the new Montcalm treats you and your passengers to a cradled ride of silken smoothness. Up to 303 horsepower is available for safer passing, and effortless, economical cruising.

This could very well be a description of cars much higher priced because every Montcalm offers value beyond its price.

The truth is that the Montcalm costs only a few dollars more than handsome Meteor Rideau 500's. Yes, here is classic newness in the low price field.

Sailor Stricken While at Sea

The Pacific Command frigate HMCS New Waterford is racing for home port today to bring a sick seaman to hospital.

AB John Schultz was stricken with appendicitis while New Waterford was returning from exercises off the California coast in company with other units of the Fourth Canadian Escort Squadron.

She was due to arrive at 1.30 p.m. Thursday, but was detached from the squadron to proceed at full speed.

New Waterford's estimated time of arrival is now 6 p.m. today.

The other ships in the squadron will proceed to port at "economical cruising speed," bringing them in as originally scheduled Thursday.

With New Waterford on the squadron exercise were HMC Ships Stettler, Jonquiere, New Glasgow, and Antigonish. They left Dec. 1 for San Francisco and operational exercises with units of the U.S. fleet.

AB Schultz is being rushed home in case an operation is necessary. While frigates have well-equipped sick bays, they are not fitted out for major operations.

An ambulance will be at dockside to rush the ill seaman to HMCS Naden hospital.

FLIRTATION WITH WINTER BROKEN OFF

After a brief flirtation with winter earlier in the week, Victoria today found itself back in its usual winter weather—comparatively warm, cloudy, and shrouded in Scotch mist.

Weatherman William Mackie said the cold air that threatened the city, and gave snow everywhere else on Vancouver Island, has been pushed back up the Fraser Valley as far as Hope.

Light fog was general over the area early today, being thickest away from the waterfront.

"There is another storm due from the Pacific, but it won't bring much change," Mr. Mackie said. "We expect cloudy skies and intermittent rain tonight and Thursday, and may see the sun Thursday afternoon if the storm has passed by noon."

Winds will be southwesterly at 15 miles Thursday, and temperatures will range between 38 and 47 degrees.

Autonomy Called 'Two-Way Street'

By JOHN MIKA

An angry Mayor Percy Scurrah today aimed a blistering salvo at Saanich anti-amalgamationists and said Victoria voters should consider the question carefully before casting any "yes" votes Thursday.

At the same time, Saanich Reeve George Chatterton welcomed a statement from Coun. Charles Nelles that he would contest the reeveship next year on the amalgamation issue if Thursday's vote is not decisive.

'Half-Truths'

"I'm very much fed up with the statements that are being bandied about regarding this question . . . statements that have no basis in fact," the mayor said.

"I'm really annoyed. It's gotten to the point where I can take just so much of these half-truths and untruths."

He blasted "all this crying" by several Saanich councillors, who had asked for an amalgamation study, that their municipality would lose its autonomy through a merger.

City Loses Too

"Autonomy is a two-way street," he said. "If Saanich loses any autonomy through amalgamation, Victoria must lose an equal amount.

"I've never been impressed with that argument, but if the loss of autonomy is so precious, maybe our taxpayers should think about it too before they vote.

"If autonomy is precious to Saanich it's just as precious to Victoria."

Fair to Both

Mayor Scurrah said the "plan proposed is a partnership of the two municipalities and a partnership means being fair to both sides."

Singling out Coun. Passmore's claim that Victoria is not paying a fair share of Greater Victoria school costs, the mayor snapped:

"For years Saanich was notorious for its low assessment and consequent low school taxes until finally in 1957 the provincial government stepped in and slapped $80,000 more taxes on Saanich to bring them in line with the other three municipalities.

Asked For It

He wound up his charge that Saanich had been riding on the backs of the other municipalities in school costs with an angry: "You asked for it Mr. Passmore."

Mayor Scurrah also accused Saanich council candidate Reginald A. Clarke of stating "an absolute untruth" when he claimed the mayor had said the city needed amalgamation to prevent the downtown section rotting away.

The mayor replied that the parking plan was intended to maintain the downtown values "and the parking problem has absolutely no connection with amalgamation."

The mayor heatedly repeated his earlier observations that city council did not initiate the amalgamation study.

Saanich Origin

"I want to point out again that the amalgamation question originated with the reeve and council of Saanich, not city council.

"Our council only went along with the request of Saanich for a study."

Coun. Nelles, a leading proponent of amalgamation on Saanich council, said he would run for Reeve Chatterton's seat if Thursday's vote does not produce a clear-cut decision or does not reject amalgamation out of hand.

'Let's Negotiate'

"My platform will be 'let's talk terms—let's negotiate an agreement with Victoria," he said. "I believe it is in the interest of the municipality to amalgamate."

"I will certainly welcome such a contest."

Coun. Nelles said Reeve Chatterton had a right to his opinion on amalgamation "but I don't think his views are in the financial interest of the municipality."

COUN. NELLES
. . . 'Let's talk terms'

MONTE ROBERTS

Some people complain if their newspaper is delivered 10 minutes late.

But I have a friend who says he wouldn't object if his daily newspaper were delivered 10 years late.

In fact, he rathers favors the idea, which came to him while he was clearing out the attic the other day.

In the attic he found some fairly ancient daily newspapers, and—as one does when one is cleaning out an attic—he began to glance at said newspapers.

And, naturally, the glance led to more thorough reading. Which was when my friend was stricken by his idea.

My friend says it is much more comforting, and easier on the blood pressure, to read the news when it is old rather than the news when it is new.

"The trouble with newspapers," he said, 'is they are so up to date, it is frightening."

Alarms and excursions, wars and threats of wars, dire forecasts for the future (if any) of the human race, are much pleasanter (my friend maintains) when read several years after the fact.

Also, he maintains, news mellowed by time is much easier to digest, and actually more interesting, in retrospect.

He says this is especially true of promises made during political campaigns.

The thinking voter is invariably frightened by political promises because the thinking voter is well aware that he (the thinking voter) will be the one who has to pay for the promises if they are implemented.

However, there is nothing frightening about a political promise if you read about it 10 years later, and know very well nothing was ever done about the political promise, and there was no need for the thinking voter to worry about paying for the implementation of the political promise.

My friend also says threats of strikes, forecasts of blizzards, analysis of power plays in international affairs, and predictions that Hamilton will beat Winnipeg, are much more palatable much, much later.

Well, I am not sure whether or not I agree with my friend.

I go along with many of his arguments.

But I don't see how I could wait 10 years to see the next episode of Peanuts.

Ruling Near On Important Trial Evidence

Case is tied up by a "trial within a trial" which began Monday afternoon, a situation which arises when the court listens to certain evidence which has not been ruled admissible to hearing in open court.

Evidence in question concerns two statements said to have been made to city detectives Norman Bath and Deans Blackstock by the accused and a friend. Mr. Justice J. G. Ruttan was expected to rule on the admissibility of the evidence later today.

PUBLIC STAYS

Meanwhile the jury stays out of the courtroom and details of the proceedings may not be published. The public is allowed to remain.

Jenkins died from stab wounds shortly after being attacked with a knife in cabin 150 of the Nelles Block's B deck at Naden.

A sparsely-filled public gallery contained 17 men, one woman. About a dozen uniformed sailors from Naden chatted and smoked outside the court. Several started a game of crib as they waited for open court to resume.

Well-Clothed Thief Gets Six Months

James Mohr, 305 Gorge, who pleaded guilty Tuesday to theft of $150 worth of clothing from two city stores, was sentenced in city police court today to six months in jail.

The accused, who has a criminal record, pleaded for a suspended sentence to allow him to work and stay out of further trouble.

"If I go to jail I'll get worse," he told Magistrate H. C. Hall.

The thefts were of a $135 topcoat from Hudson's Bay Co. Dec. 4 and two shirts totalling $15.90 from O. H. Dorman Ltd. on Monday.

PUT IT ON

Police said Mohr put the topcoat on under his own coat and left the department store. When checked four days later on a downtown street the two shirts fell from under his coat, court was told.

Magistrate Hall ordered the same sentence on each charge, to run concurrently.

Month in Jail For Leaving Accident Scene

Marty Tapaninen, 661 Beacon, was sentenced in city police court today to 30 days in jail when he pleaded guilty to a charge of failing to remain at the scene of an accident.

A second charge of driving without a licence drew a $25 fine or five days in jail, concurrent with the heavier sentence.

Magistrate H. C. Hall dismissed a charge of taking a car without the owner's consent on application of prosecutor T. P. O'Grady when confusion arose as to the correct licence number of the car, owned by John J. Matthews, 661 Beacon.

NATIONAL FILM BOARD representative for Vancouver Island since 1943, Ernest Belton has now retired. He was formerly secretary of the Teamsters' union here, also secretary of the Victoria Trades and Labor Council and delegate to the Provincial Labor Conciliation Board. He was awarded the military medal for distinguished service during the First World War.

Motorcycle Meet Here Next May

Plans are underway for a large Pacific Northwest motorcycle meet here in May, it was disclosed at a meeting of the Victoria Motorcycle Club Tuesday.

Entries will include motorcyclists from Oregon, Wash., and British Columbia.

The club will hold its annual prize-winning banquet at Holyrood House on Dec. 27.

Poetess' Funeral Set for Thursday

Funeral services for Miss Eugenie M. Perry, well-known Canadian poetess who died here Sunday, will be held Thursday at 3.30 p.m. at Hayward's chapel, and will be followed by cremation.

THURSDAY MEETINGS

Rotary: 12.10 p.m., Empress Hotel. Carol singing, turkey draw, and entertainment.

Oak Bay Kiwanis: 6.15 p.m., Oak Bay Beach Hotel. Dr. Beattie McLean will speak on "Christmas in Vienna."

Cosmopolitan: 6.45 p.m., James Bay Hotel.

B.C. Indian Arts & Welfare Society: 8 p.m., Public Library music room. G. E. Mortimore will speak on Indian affairs. Open to the public.

Y's Men: 6.30 p.m., YMCA club room.

Optimists: 12.10 p.m., Pacific Club.

Sertoma: 12.10 p.m., Pacific Club.

He's Fascinated By Murder Trials

JOHN DAVIES
. . . always a spectator.

By DAVID COWLISHAW

Man with a fascination for criminal law and a philosophy to match is John Edward Davies, 76, of the Beverly Hotel, a day-by-day visitor to Victoria's Assize Court on Bastion Street.

"It's the human interest I come for," he will tell you. "And the murder cases, especially when there's something interesting in them."

ALWAYS FAIR

Retired Saskatchewan farmer Davies looks on the dispensing of justice as "sometimes exciting, always fair," but "I wouldn't like to be a lawyer, thank you."

"Too involved, that job is," he said after a thoughtful look at the ceiling. "No, if I had to go through life again I'd still be a farmer. More satisfying, somehow."

Davies is currently a spectator at the Mantha murder trial. Last week it was the Till case. When Assize Court has cases of lesser severity on its hands, he sits in on city police court.

"Makes a bit of a change to see someone getting fined for a parking offence."

Do you always agree with the courts' decisions, Mr. Davies?

"No, not always. But I do, most of them. Pretty fair, these courts are. Fair as you can get, taking it all round, I say. Be horrible to hang a man by mistake, wouldn't it?"

A bachelor, grey-haired Mr. Davies said he has never appeared in court—on the other side of the public gallery, that is—"although I got into lots of trouble as a kid. Watching these cases helps me stay on the right side of the law, you see."

Then he straightened his neat brown suit and placed the tips of his fingers together.

NOT FOR LONG

"I have a philosophy about life now. It's this—if you do something wrong, you might get away with it. But not for long. You'll get caught one way or another. They'll catch up with you.

"And eventually you'll have to pay for what you did. That's the way I look at it."

And with that, former farmer John Davies (whose only other hobbies besides watching murder cases are curling and walking) stood up as Mr. Justice J. G. Ruttan came into the courtroom and, watched by a pair of keen old eyes, the business of justice started all over again.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

CHECK YOUR MAILING DATES

Postal 'Countdown' Starts

Unless you've already mailed them, your Cousin Lucy in Lunenberg and your Uncle Harry in Halifax will get their Christmas presents sometime after Boxing Day.

Even local mail, Mr. Reid urges, should be in the post office by next Wednesday, Dec. 17.

LOUISE DAVIS

On Etiquette

Paper Napkins or Linen:

At an indoor buffet supper, is it all right to use paper napkins?

Louise Davis Answers:

Using paper napkins at a buffet dinner or supper depends on the degree of formality or informality. It would be incongruous to use paper if you are planning to have your buffet table a work of art when you would be using your "best everything." In that case, washing and ironing a dozen or so linen table napkins would be worth it for the sake of elegance. But if your party is to be casual or informal, you wouldn't have any qualms in passing up your linen. Have you seen the disposable table napkins on the market which don't look or feel like paper, but which are probably a combination of pressed (or felted) cotton and/or rayon lint? They are often the answer to a hostess' prayer when her buffet dinner isn't extra formal in its appointments.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Your Feet—and Children's Should Have Proper Care

Christmas is fun but it is tough on mother's feet. From the minute she makes out her Christmas list until she slides the remains of the turkey into the icebox, the average woman gives her feet a beating which would weaken the arches of a Missouri mule. And, some authorities say that the mule's feet are more appropriately shod for the task at hand than the average woman's.

If you do not have a comfortable well-fitted, comparatively low-heeled pair of shoes, by all means buy a pair before you enter the holiday fray. Foot doctors recommend a heel no higher than two-and-a-half inches with a fairly broad base. The shoes should have closed toes and leather uppers and soles because these are flexible and give support without binding.

The days when it seemed necessary to "break in shoes" are no more. Today when you buy a pair of shoes you should be able to walk out of the store with them on and be comfortable for the rest of the day.

Speaking of feet reminds me of the great emphasis which is being placed on the importance of care of children's feet.

Many experts feel that the habit of driving children everywhere rather than having them walk is leading to much foot trouble. This may not show up until later in life. The main function of the foot is locomotion. Walking is by far one of the best exercises the human body can indulge in."

Often when a child has a foot problem the parents do not know about it because in the majority of cases there is no pain. The parents have no warning signal. Later in life these undiscovered foot problems may manifest themselves in pain and deformity.

If you would like to have my leaflet "Take Care of Your Feet" send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 14 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

TODAY'S RECIPE

COFFEE CAKE SUPREME

Three-quarter cup light or dark raisins, ¾ cup scalded milk, 1 cake or package yeast, 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour, ¼ cup butter or margarine, ¼ cup sugar, 1 egg, 1 teaspoon salt.

Topping: ½ cup sugar, 2 tablespoons flour, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, 2 tablespoons butter or margarine.

Rinse and drain raisins. Cool milk to lukewarm, and stir in crumbled yeast. Add 1 cup flour and beat until smooth. Cover and let stand in warm place until very light, about one hour. Cream together butter and sugar, and blend in egg and salt. Add yeast mixture and beat thoroughly. Beat in remaining flour and raisins. Turn into greased 8-inch square pan. Cover and let rise until doubled in bulk (about ½ hour). Sprinkle topping over dough. Bake in moderately hot oven (375 degrees F.) 35 to 40 minutes. Serve hot.

Birthday Remembered At YWCA

This evening, in the YWCA, the traditional ceremony of "Hanging of the Green" will be held.

Residence girls, assisted by members of special "Y" groups, will decorate the various rooms in the building for the Christmas season. Carols will be led by the Twilight Singers, and a special program has been arranged. Mrs. F. Bliss, president of the board of directors, will give the Christmas message.

Combined with this Christmas tradition will be a special ceremony in which "Y" groups will commemorate the signing of the Declaration of Human Rights, December 10, 1948.

The executive secretary, Mrs. P. M. Graveley, will address the gathering on the significance of the Declaration.

"It seems fitting that the YWCA — which plays an important role in improving the lot of women and consequently people in general — should pause for a moment in the midst of preparing our building for the birthday of Christ to give thought to the moral force of this Declaration which is a standard of achievement," Mrs. Graveley said earlier today.

The United Nations Declaration grew out of public demand.

In 1945, people of many nations spoke up at the San Francisco Conference, to insist that human rights safeguards be written into the new UN charter.

Let this be made clear, they said, once and for all; governments that uphold human rights are strengthening the foundations of peace; governments that allow human rights to be threatened or destroyed are threatening those foundations.

Groups assisting with decorations include Chatelaine Club, Day-Outs, Y-Teens, Y-Ettes and Empire Social Club.

Rev. Laura Butler Guest Speaker at Holiday Tea

In colorful word pictures she recreated the scene in the manger, the shepherds on the hills, the Wise Men, and the innkeeper. The hopes and the fears were the same now, as then, she said, and the need for the Christmas story just as great.

A centennial theme with a Christmas motif was used in decorations. The ballroom dais was banked with potted poinsettias from the hotel greenhouses and the tables were centred with colorful centennial folders based in Christmas greenery interspersed with holly and dogwood flowers. Centennial flags gently fluttered at the back of the dais.

The honorary president of the club, Mrs. Frank Mackenzie Ross was unable to attend but sent a telegram of Christmas greetings which was read during the afternoon.

Carols were sung under leadership of Mrs. H. H. Youson. Accompanists were Mrs. W. Ireland and Miss Ashworth.

Presiding at the tables, where more than 400 members were seated, were Mrs. S. J. Willis, Mrs. T. H. Johns, Mrs. F. G. Aldous, Mrs. K. C. Drury, Mrs. W. D. McDougall, Mrs. W. H. Wilson, Mrs. Gordon Wismer, Miss J. E. M. Bruce, Mrs. R. W. Mayhew, Dr. Margaret Newton, Mrs. K. O. Wright, Mrs. Eber Crummy, Mrs. Alex Young, Mrs. H. G. Ellis, Mrs. W. Trenholme, Mrs. Fergus Reid, Mrs. Bruce Hutchison, Mrs. Stuart K. Kenning, Dr. Olga Jardine and Mrs. A. J. Butterfield.

Pen Friend Program in Japan Interests Many Housewives

By ELIZABETH FORBES

The appealing story of the young Japanese boy who slipped a letter in a box of Mandarin oranges with Christmas greetings to the unknown person he visioned buying the oranges and a polite request for a pen friend in Canada, sharpened my memories of a visit to Japan five years ago.

Elizabeth

I talked to many young boys and girls in my two-month-stay in the land of the chrysanthemum. All were eager to know more about Canada and its peoples.

I discovered at the time that the pen friend program of exchanging letters among young peoples of the world had enjoyed a long history in Japan. It was just being revived again after the war.

Today, the Japanese chapter of the International Pen Friend Society numbers some 10,000 members, mostly high school and older students.

Letters are written in English regardless of country of origin, emphasizing the point that English is fast becoming an international language. Acceptance of this fact is wiping out the language barrier which so often prevented correspondence between people of different nationalities.

Exchange Ideas on Many Subjects

In the past year the Japanese chapter of the pen friend society has been augmented by an increasing number of housewives—and through their exchange of letters with women in other countries on common problems of maintaining a household, raising a family and other day-to-day activities—a mutual bond of friendship and understanding is being established.

A Tokyo housewife, Mrs. Kiku Yamada, the mother of two adult sons, has developed a close friendship with Miss Winnifred Tarala, a young Malayan woman living in Kuala Lumpur.

In one letter, Mrs. Kiku Yamada said that a Japanese newspaper reported that hostile feelings toward the Japanese still existed in Malaya. She expressed the hope that their friendship would last despite such a situation.

In response to this letter, Miss Tarala denied that there were such sentiments in Malaya and reminded her Japanese pen friend that one opinion does not always represent that of the whole.

Another example is the correspondence between Mrs. Megumi Tazoe, a Tokyo housewife, and a young Swedish woman. Their latest letters contain an exchange of views on the question of women working after marriage, and of earth satellites and the latest advances in science.

The fact that women of the world are actively engaged in exchanging ideas and opinions is a strong guarantee that they are determined to widen their horizons and to develop an international outlook.

Their letters add one more link in the chain of world understanding.

For, it is only as we recognize the basic hopes and aspirations of peoples everywhere have a common quality that the universality of man will be realized and a foundation for friendship and mutual trust established.

Teachers' Party

The Exchange Teachers' Club, Victoria Branch, League of Empire, held a Christmas dinner and party recently in Oak Bay United Church parlor. At the head table, which was gay with Christmas decorations, were: Miss Jean Cornell, club president; Mrs. Gwen Downes; exchange teachers from England, Mr. and Mrs. L. Hazeldine and Miss Pamela Nash, and executive members, Miss Nellie Styan and Miss Jessie Fleming.

After dinner, Mrs. Downes gave a lecture-demonstration on puppets. She was introduced by Miss Evelyn MacQueen and thanked by Miss Joyce Applegate.

Carol singing, led by Miss Ronni Hutchings, and an exchange of Christmas gifts concluded the evening.

Gallery Dance

Many parties have been arranged for the gala affair. Among them are the following:

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Wade, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Jackson and Mr. and Mrs. Howard J. Damaske.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hawkins, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Whittington, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Walters, Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Trenholme and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Robinson.

Mr. and Mrs. R. T. McKean, Mr. and Mrs. T. M. McMartin, Dr. and Mrs. C. B. Jameson and Mr. and Mrs. Ian Taylor.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Phillips and Mr. and Mrs. L. Lindholm.

Mr. and Mrs. F. T. Fitzpatrick, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Gonnason, Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Stone and Dr. and Mrs. H. Gaddes.

Mothers Appear in Poor Light

TORONTO (CP)—Advertising directed solely at children is the ultimate in unfair advertising, Ruth Harding, consumer information officer of the Ontario department of agriculture, said Monday, at the annual meeting of the Ontario Food Processors' Association.

She said such advertising made mothers look like "dimwits and heels" if they did not cede to children's pressures.

She added housewives are beginnnig to resent expensive packaging and gimmicks and now wonder what a trip to Hawaii by someone else costs them. She was quoting from results of consumer surveys she had made.

Of Personal Interest

DEAR ABBY . . .

A 'Linguist' at 8!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Our grandson is the smartest eight-year-old anybody has ever seen but the dirty words he uses would simply knock your hat off! We thought at first he didn't know what he was saying, but he uses all the words in the right places and it's a shame. for one and all to hear. My husband refuses to let the child in our house and this is causing a big problem because we love our son and his wife dearly. We love our grandson, too, but my husband feels we must teach him a lesson. The child's parents say he picked it up at school and they were advised by their pediatrician to ignore it. Are they right or is my husband? —NANA.

DEAR NANA: Your husband should do a little growing up himself and ignore this scheme to get attention. The child is simply using those words because he enjoys the excitement it creates. When he discovers he can no longer shock and upset his listeners, he'll give up.

DEAR ABBY: My mother passed away three months ago after a lingering illness. I know it will be a very sad Christmas for us, but my question is this: Should I send out Christmas cards this year? MRS. A.

DEAR MRS. A: Certainly. Your own sadness should not prevent you from wishing your friends a happy holiday.

DEAR ABBY: I am a woman of 65, look 45 and feel 25! I am twice married. Lost one husband in the First World War and one in the divorce court. I'm keeping company with a bachelor who is 50. He's bald and looks older. He wants to marry me but there is a doubt in my mind. He's so tight he cuts his own hair (I do the back). He drives a sedan that is so old and funny looking that people turn around and laugh. I had to hide his hat so he'd buy a new one. He keeps talking about having a family but I can't help him there. Do you think if I married him I could change him?—GEN.

DEAR GEN: Take him as he is, or leave him alone. If you attempt to re-mold this bachelor, instead of looking 45 and feeling 25—you'll look 85 and feel 130!

DEAR ABBY: I am 15 years old and have been dating since I was 12 and I just started going steady with a real dreamy guy. He is 16 and a real doll. On our second date I let him kiss me and, Abby, this fellow doesn't know how to kiss! I can't come right out and tell him that he doesn't know how to kiss a girl, can I? What do you think I should do? Pretend I don't know how to kiss either or tell him he could use a few lessons?
—DISAPPOINTED.

DEAR DISAPPOINTED: Don't tell this boy that he needs kissing lessons unless you want to tell him where you got all your experience. Take your time and be patient. You'll be amazed how quickly he'll learn.

For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of this paper. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Aldyn Hamber Chapter, IODE, at home of Mrs. Esther Pitkethley, Apt. 2, 1462 Rockland Avenue, Thursday at 8 p.m.

Note: Corresponding Can Be Fun

The season of correspondence is upon us. The approaching holidays and the revival of old ties prod the most-reluctant letter-writer to set aside several evenings to "catch up" on correspondence she's postponed for six months.

The dear friends and relatives, who have been waiting patiently for news, will heartily appreciate the letters.

It isn't easy to turn a procrastinating correspondent into a faithful reporter of family news.

One step in the right direction is to have adequate supplies at hand so that when the mood is right, penning a letter is not preceded by a frantic search for a pen, a piece of paper and a stamp of the right denomination.

And when you choose your letter paper, recall: it should reflect something of the type of letter you're writing.

When sorting stationery supplies, put the orphaned envelopes or sheets of paper to one side. Many papers today are available in open stock as well as in boxes, making it possible to buy extra supplies to match the leftovers.

Etiquette experts okay the use of a typewriter for all but formal letters. If you like to type, your stationery wardrobe should perhaps include paper specifically designed for typing, in white, grey, blue or green.

Letter-typing paper is smaller than standard typewriter papers, is better looking and is erasable.

White letter paper is always proper and definitely indicated for formal correspondence. Both folded and single-sheet writing papers are correct for formal correspondence. Business letters from home require simple stationery, too.

A white or subdued colo in a linenlike weave an matching, unlined envelope carry the message in an ap propriately business - lik manner.

Fire Service Report Ready Next Month

GANGES — A report on ways and means of improving fire protection on Salt Spring Island will be ready for taxpayers next month, it was learned at a regular meeting of the Salt Spring Island Chamber of Commerce.

A preliminary report on establishing a fire protection area was given the chamber by Henry McGill, services committee chairman.

He told members of visits made to several Vancouver Island fire departments to study equipment and arrangements.

Members of the volunteer fire department here, who accompanied Mr. McGill to the meeting, said the present situation is "desperate." Fire protection, they said, depends on a truck that is both unsafe on the road and difficult to start.

The chamber decided to ask the superintendent of motor-vehicles to make drivers' tests available on the island for two consecutive days each month.

NEW LOG GRAPPLE FINAL CHAPTER IN 'REVOLUTION'

It's Speedy, Safe and Economical

By DON INGHAM
Times Island Editor

An uncomplicated looking grapple, combined with a loading machine on rubber tires, has improved the handling of logs more than anything brought into the woods since 1940.

There was a perfect system waiting for the introduction of one more step forward. Now it appears the grapple is the final part that made a revolution complete.

Logs were pulled by a wire cable running from the top of a spar tree to a "landing" beside the truck road. A small loading winch, operating a swinging boom on the tree and a tong line, was used to load the logging trucks.

It made for a sound, positive system, but the drawbacks were that incoming logs interfered with the loaders, loaders were constantly in a certain amount of danger, and breakdowns in one part of the operation invariably affected the other.

By gradual steps a system was worked out whereby logging crews with their spar trees or portable spars, or with tractors, would leave the logs in windrows beside the logging road, then move on to another setting.

When the logging crews were far, far away, along would come the loaders with their big mobile loader, or "jammer", and their logging trucks. This technique divorced yarding and loading, but it still required a man on the ground setting the one tong, and a man on the truck to release the tong. Both were exposed to danger.

Then came the grapple, and away went the loaders. Now the engineer operating the jammer selects his log, tosses the big steel grapple as he would a fishing weight, and drops it on the log. He then lifts the log, drops it on the truck and, most important, releases the grapple himself to repeat the operation.

A chaser on the ground helps unload the truck trailer, tallies the logs, and signals the engineer for positioning the logs. He is well in the clear at all times.

The modern setup was seen at work recently by a small group of newspapermen at Nanaimo River camp of MacMillan and Bloedel Ltd.

The company has a reputation for pioneering new methods, yet refuses to make needless changes.

For instance, only two hours previously the same group had seen a skidder at work at the company's Copper Canyon operation.

The steam skidder, with four running cables and countless static lines, blocks, shackles, and other gadgets, is remembered as the villain of the woods.

The Copper Canyon skidder, now powered by two 300-horsepower diesel engines, is working today because it is the logging machine best suited to the surrounding terrain, according to camp superintendent Ed McLean.

"The newer system is ideal where roads can be built," he said. "But right here the ground is steep, rough and rocky, and roads can't always be put where it would be most convenient. A skidder, though, will give you full production every hour of the day, no matter how rough the country."

LEGAL OPINION ON FLUORIDES

B.C. Government Lacks Authority

PORT ALBERNI (CP)—The provincial government has no power to confer on municipalities the right to fluoridate their water supplies, city solicitor E. A. Dinsmore said.

He expressed his legal opinion in a report read at the annual stewardship meeting of city council, which has authorized a referendum on fluoridation during Thursday's municipal election.

Referring to the Health Act of B.C., Mr. Dinsmore said: "It seems clear to me that treatment by chemical or other means can only be carried out as an operation for the purification of a water system or water supply."

Later in his lengthy report he questioned provincial authority to deal with the matter and stated: "I am of the opinion, after considering all aspects of the case, that the matter falls within the jurisdiction of national parliament as contained in the Food and Drug Act."

Before Mr. Dinsmore cited his opinion, meeting chairman Irving Wilson announced that there would be no debate on the pros and cons of fluoridation.

City works superintendent Len Crowshaw, reporting on the cost of installing fluoridation equipment, said the expense would be approximately $10,000 while materials would cost about $4,000 a year, or 30 to 40 cents per capita.

10,000 CHRISTMAS TREES CUT BUT 'QUITE A SHORTAGE' FELT

NANAIMO (CP)—A harvest of 10,000 Christmas trees—about half that of 1957—has been scaled through the B.C. Forest Service office here in the last few weeks.

"There is quite a shortage," a forester said Tuesday, although the department could find no reason.

Most of the harvest has been taken for export to the U.S. and the B.C. mainland, with cutting for the local market in progress now.

FINAL ANTIQUE AUCTION OF 1958 AT MAYNARD'S

An interesting collection of English and Chinese antiques and china, Italian oil paintings, grand piano, rugs and jewellery, including two diamond and emerald bracelets set in platinum, valued at $5,750 and $3,500, form the background for Thursday and Friday evenings.

The auction commences tonight at 7.30 with a good collection of Canadian and London-made modern furnishings, de luxe appliances, television sets, contemporary oil paintings, and a 1957 MGA sports car and 1958 Chevrolet station wagon, plus the close-out of an exclusive gift shop.

Seating will be provided for 250 in Maynard's well-heated salesrooms, and free parking for 80 cars.

Viewing continues today.

"Canned Food" Morning Matinee

The 700 Block Yates Street merchants have donated the Odeon Theatre this Saturday, Dec. 13, for the morning show of the Saturday Movie Club. Admission will be one or more cans of food, which will go into the Food Stall Christmas Hampers to help the needy.

Food will be distributed at Mrs. Harper's Food Stall next Saturday, Dec. 20, to persons showing Welfare Cards. Mrs. Harper has a list of 225 needy families, so make this matinee a well-attended event with lots of donations for the Food Stall Hampers.

A crowd of 1,400 children is expected to come to the Odeon Theatre Saturday at 10 a.m. The feature attraction will be "Forbidden Planet," an adventure in outer space, in Technicolor, plus a colored cartoon.

Trail Voters Honing Up For Bennett

By PETE LOUDON, Times Political Reporter

TRAIL — Premier Bennett's smile-and-ready-answer technique will be put to a severe test in his appearance here Saturday, over 800 voters indicated here Tuesday night.

They honed their blades on four of B.C.'s top political figures and were jabbing tirelessly at the party champions when the chairman ended a peppery meeting.

Even after the Queen was sung, the chairman had to call to groups of last-minute aisle-debaters to clear the hall.

Each side had its hecklers, but most of them threw questions at Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi—and they indicated they had more for the premier.

Liberal Leader Arthur Laing, CCF Leader Robert Strachan and Tory Leader Deane Finlayson got their share of the questioning, but the chairman had to call a halt to queries to the highways minister at one point, so the other speakers could take a turn at bat.

The premier likely will be asked if highways projects promised to Rossland-Trail will be carried out as promptly if the Socreds lose the Dec. 15 by-election because Mr. Gaglardi said only, "the highways plan laid before you is a continuing one, worked out with municipal authorities. It is going ahead as planned."

But the plan was broached so long ago that former MLA, convicted bribe-taker Robert Sommers, promised part of it would be completed in 1956.

Questioners asked twice more for a direct answer concerning the spring start on a new bridge, an underpass and a railway right-of-way removal:

"I've already answered," said Mr. Gaglardi each time.

Gaglardi Challenged on Threat

But Mr. Laing reminded the audience the highways minister last Friday asked what was the point in electing an opposition member who would attack the government on one hand and then go to his department to ask highway considerations?

If this was a threat, and many people felt it was, Mr. Gaglardi didn't clarify the point, despite a challenge to do so issued by Mr. Laing. That's one the premier will likely get.

They also asked Mr. Gaglardi why two contracts for road work vital to this area were announced just before the election.

"They are being let according to project planning," said the minister.

Premier Bennett probably will be asked whether this was election project or road project planning.

The people tackled the minister on hospital insurance, Columbia hydro development, school taxation, the high incidence of royal commissions and enquiries, Mrs. Bea Zucco's denial of right to sue the Workmen's Compensation Board, PGE finances, the position of Einar Gunderson within the B.C. government, labor, and federal intervention in B.C. projects.

But the question that set off the greatest explosion had to do with anti-government statements by ousted power commission general manager H. Lee Briggs.

"It has turned out Premier Bennett lied to us about Sommers. Couldn't he be doing the same thing about Mr. Briggs?" asked a man in the balcony.

Mr. Gaglardi produced the letter published earlier which was written by government financial adviser Dr. J. V. Fisher. Dr. Fisher said Mr. Briggs was wrong when he said the government planned

'PROPHET' DISCOVERED

Mystery Man Found On B.C. Mountain

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Province says it has discovered an 80-year-old man—the "prophet of Hollyburn Ridge"—who has lived for 20 years in a secluded mountain colony.

He was identified as Bill McFarlane, a bed-ridden but still handsome six-footer who believed he had been chosen to preach a radical religion to those who sought him out in his mountain retreat.

His existence had been known to some officials of communities on the north shore of Burrard Inlet, across from Vancouver, but had never been made public.

Province reporter Tom Hazlitt said he scrambled along miles of paths on nearby Hollyburn Mountain to get to a "fantastic, beautifully kept cabin where the prophet holds court."

The cabin, which commanded a sweeping view of Georgia Strait and Vancouver, was a "many-roomed, spotless house, well appointed but devoid of running water, telephone, electricity," the story said.

With McFarlane when the Province reporter arrived was an attractive 51-year-old woman who was introduced as the last of six "sisters" who had shared McFarlane's retreat for many years.

Told that he was described as an "old gentleman with many wives," McFarlane was quoted as saying: "That is not true in the sense that you mean it. They are my wives in spirit, but not in the physical sense."

Bomb Blast Kills Nine At Retreat

CHATSWORTH, Calif. (AP)—A bomb demolished the main building of a religious cult in a mountain canyon today. Nine persons were killed, including two children.

Among those killed was Krishna Venta, bearded, barefoot mystic and founder of the cult, known as the Fountain of the World.

Demolition experts said a bomb apparently had been exploded.

More than 30 persons were sleeping in the building at the time, 14 of them children. Two young girls were critically burned.

First report of the blast came from a woman living near the canyon retreat, which is tucked away in mountains at the head of the San Fernando Valley, about 30 miles from Los Angeles.

KNOCKED FROM BED

The woman, Mrs. Dorothy Hamm, said she was knocked from her bed by the force of the explosion. Running outside she saw flames leaping high in the sky and heard screams for help.

Fire touched off by the explosion spread quickly to the surrounding brush. Fire officials said a major brush fire may be in the making in the canyon.

Venta, onetime San Francisco shipyard worker named Francis Pencovic, proclaimed himself a messiah when he founded the cult about 10 years ago.

A cultist identified as Brother Martin said he was in

Referendums, Money Bylaws Major Issues

By JOHN MIKA

Mayor Percy Scurrah and Saanich Reeve George Chatterton today joined hands in strongly-worded appeals to residents to turn out for Thursday's civic elections in Greater Victoria.

Both said ratepayers of the two municipalities will be faced with historic decisions in the voting booths, overshadowing the selection of council representatives.

Both municipalities meet at the amalgamation cross roads during the 12 polling hours from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. when ratepayers cast ballots on the issue. The vote will determine whether or not the two communities take the fork leading towards a future merger.

In addition, ratepayers in both municipalities must make crucial policy decisions on whether large sums of money will be spent to improve services.

"The $1,000,000 money bylaw for the downtown improvement program with its off-street parking facilities faces ratepayers with a vital decision," said Mayor Scurrah.

"The question is whether our economy is to progress or fall behind," he said. "I strongly urge all ratepayers to get out and vote for progress by approving the parking bylaw. Our tax structure is at stake."

Reeve Chatterton said the decision on two money-bylaws for sewers in the Cadboro Bay-Gordon Head areas, totalling $1,700,000, will affect the economic expansion of Saanich.

'So We Can Get on With the Job'

"They must be passed if we are to develop our municipality economically and in pace with the tremendous expansion of the last few years," he said.

"I appeal to all ratepayers in those areas to register a solid approval of the bylaws so we can get on with the job of bringing needed services to these areas of intensive development.

"The installation of sewers is inevitable. The people might as well have them put in now while costs still are at present levels."

A total of 53,399 voters are eligible to cast ballots in the four municipalities.

No school trustee seats are at stake in Greater Victoria. All retiring trustees were elected by acclamation except Mrs. W. W. McGill, Saanich representative, who was appointed by Education Minister Leslie Peterson after she failed to file nomination papers.

Twenty-five candidates are running for 15 council seats and one reeveship in one of the quietest election campaigns on record in the area. Liveliest race is centred in Oak Bay, where voters will have a choice for reeve for the first time in more than a decade.

Full Results Known by 10 P.M.

In all municipalities, polls open at 8 a.m. and close at 8 p.m. Full results will be known by about 10 p.m.

Here's where you vote:

Victoria—20,273 persons are eligible to choose four aldermen from a field of seven candidates by marking ballots at the single polling station in the Public Market Building on Cormorant; ratepayers also will vote on the amalgamation referendum and the parking bylaw;

Saanich—21,865 persons are eligible to vote for five candidates running for three council seats by turning out at 13 polling stations; all ratepayers can vote on amalgamation and the 10 per cent living in the Cadboro Bay-Gordon Head areas can vote on the sewer bylaws;

Polling stations are at Douglas CCF Hall, Gordon Head Community Hall, Hampton Hall, Lake Hill Women's Institute Hall, Lansdowne Junior High School, McMorran's, Marigold Scout Hall, Mt. View High School, Prospect Lake School, Royal Oak Women's Institute Hall, St. George the Martyr Hall, St. Luke's Hall and St. Martin's-in-the-Fields Hall;

Oak Bay—7,647 persons are eligible to select a reeve from two candidates and five councillors from a field of seven hopefuls by casting ballots at the single polling station in the Municipal Hall;

Esquimalt — 3,614 persons are eligible to elect three councillors among the five candidates by voting at two polling stations, in the municipal hall and at 855 Craigflower.

Here Is Rundown on Candidates

Here are the candidates:

VICTORIA—

Ald. Arthur Dowell, acting mayor and finance committee chairman is running for re-election on his record during the past eight years;

Ald. Austin Curtis, completing his fourth year on council also is running on his record. He is chairman of the fire wardens and has served on the water board, library board and health board.

Ald. Hugh Ramsay, completing two years and a member of works committee, is a strong proponent of amalgamation and the off-street parking plan. He was chairman of the committee that revised the business tax last year.

Ald. Elmer McEwen, also a member of public works committee, is another in favor of amalgamation and the parking plan.

A. W. Toone, Victoria Labor Council official and only new-

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower said today he saw no reason to refute reports from Russia that the Soviet Union has an 8,700-mile ballistic missile.

But he sharply rejected as without evidence a recent report that Russia was test flying an atomic-powered plane.

Fishboat Search Ends

Search for a missing fishboat, last seen Saturday leaving Tofino, 125 miles north of Victoria, on the west coast of Vancouver Island, was to be called off at dusk today.

A spokesman for the Tofino lifeboat crew said the search would continue through the daylight hours, but no new wreckage had been sighted.

Some pieces of wreckage were found Monday. At that time it was established that three persons were aboard: MacPherson George, 55; his son Wilfrid, 31; and David Jacobsen.

Reward Boosted For Deer Slayer

Today Mayor Percy Scurrah authorized a $50 reward on behalf of the city of Victoria, and Mrs. J. S. Rigby, president of the Women's Auxiliary to the Victoria Branch, SPCA, added $75 on behalf of her group.

Said Mayor Scurrah: "It was a horrible act. We are all very upset. I hope the culprit is caught, and if he is, I hope the magistrate throws the book at him."

Mrs. Rigby said the women's auxiliary decided to contribute to the reward money because "it is terrible to think that tame animals are not safe in an enclosure in a public park.

"This has happened before, but it must not happen again," she said. "This innocent animal could be approached by anyone, it was so friendly. It's just terrible."

Reward money was offered previously by Capt. Burges Gadsden, ($25), and the Victoria Branch, SPCA ($100).

Parks administrator W. H. Warren today appealed to citizens to aid in tracking down the killer.

"I would like to hear from anyone who has seen or heard anything which might give us a clue," he said.

Mr. Warren referred to a report that a car with a deer carcass on the fender was seen near the park early Sunday morning.

"We would especially like to have further reports on this," he said.

Mr. Warren said the deer could have been killed either Friday or Saturday night.

BENNETT MAY APPEAR BEFORE POWER PROBE

VANCOUVER (CP)—Premier Bennett will be called to give evidence before the royal commission on public power, in his role as minister of finance, if other government financial experts cannot answer questions put to them.

Dr. Gordon Shrum, chairman of the commission, made the statement Tuesday.

The premier's aides who will testify are Dr. J. V. Fisher, his financial adviser, and deputy finance minister G. S. Bryson.

The commission will hold its first session here Thursday but will adjourn immediately until next Monday when T. H. Crosby, chairman of the B.C. Power Commission, will take the stand.

If y' refuse t' say yer say on pollin' day, y' should shut up fer th' rest o' th' year too.

to refinance power commission debt which would force up BCPC rates to meet new interest charges.

Mr. Strachan stepped forward to read a letter written by the premier mentioning a plan "for re-arrangement of the commission debt".

"There was nothing concrete," and proposals made by Dr. Fisher were merely "guides" said Mr. Gaglardi.

Mr. Laing jumped to his feet, rummaged in his brief case for another letter.

It wasn't clear in the hubub, who wrote it but it mentioned "pursuant to direction of the premier".

Mr. Finlayson didn't have a letter handy, so Mr. Gaglardi tried again with a letter the premier had written to power commission chairman T. H. Crosby, saying ". . . . any formula agreeable to you three, will be agreeable to me."

Mr. Laing called for a copy of the original directive by the premier on the matter, but the chairman pounded his gavel and called for the next question—and the Trail questioners are still wondering about Mr. Briggs.

The meeting in Trail Junior High School was the biggest by far of any yet held in this campaign. Despite the flurry of questions prodding the government, the applause was about equal for each speaker. Dr. J. H. Harrigan, one of four Trail doctors taking active an part in the campaign, was chairman.

Mr. Gaglardi was first speaker. He said his colleagues are human and not above making mistakes, and all across Canada, British Columbia has a high reputation.

Every part of British Columbia must be treated alike with regard to the three essential developments: railways, power and highways.

On power: "We've been trying for six years to get the federal government to take an earnest look at the Mica Creek (Columbia) proposal."

"It seems to me the federal government, under both the Liberals and the Conservatives, has been against the government in British Columbia."

This has resulted in costs jumping on the Deas Island tunnel where it was ordered by Ottawa the tunnel be 45 feet below the surface at low tide—more than ample, he said.

He provided copies of the memo of intent and memo of agreement with Wenner-Gren interests and defied ". . . anyone to show me where the province has been guilty of giving away one five-cent piece.

'NO FAST BUCK'

He listed gems in the government's crown — "highest old-age pensions in Canada, highest social assistance, finest health and welfare services, and best hospital scheme in Canada — or the free world." (There was laughter.)

"We pay the lowest school taxes in Canada," he ended.

Opposition Leader Strachan tied right into Mr. Gaglardi in his main address, as if he couldn't wait for the rebuttal period.

"I always remember the time in the legislature—and like you, we didn't believe him. He said, 'I never tell a lie, and if I do, it's only because I think I'm telling the truth, and that's no lie.'"

ALL BUILDING

Mr. Strachan was especially upset by Mr. Gaglardi's school tax assertions, wherein he had also mentioned a tax mill rate of 6.7 mills effective in B.C.

"I challenge him to show me any school mill rate of 6.7 mills (in B.C.). He can't do it because the Public Schools Act itself says cities must pay 12 mills and rural areas 9 mills."

Mr. Strachan reminded the audience that every province is now building new roads, not just B.C. Then he repeated the remarks made earlier by Gordon Dowding, CCF MLA for Burnaby on deterioration in the B.C. mental hospital service.

"Don't talk to me about roads when the people in B.C. are suffering needlessly," he told the highways minister.

Mr. Strachan flayed the Conservatives for tariff policies which he said would react against the men employed in Trail's lead and zinc production exports.

He quoted from the agreements already signed with Wenner-Gren interests, to contradict Mr. Gaglardi's statements that the firm held no privileges.

He noted the quotation, "The development shall be approved by the comptroller of water rights, within three months" and added, "Mr. Wenner-Gren has what he wants in the way of water power potential."

HECKLED

Mr. Strachan was heckled throughout, but ignored the voices. Not so Mr. Laing, who was next to speak.

"If your ears were as long as your tongue, you'd be exactly what I think you are," he replied to one tormentor.

Mr. Laing said the provincial government should have an independent highway commission ". . . to set out priorities on our highways." Had this been done, the Southern Trans-Provincial Highway would have been given priority over the Trans-Canada, he was sure, and a north-south highway would have been started.

Now the government has $125,000,000 in the Trans-Canada Highway which will be spectacular but won't serve to open B.C.

Deane Finlayson spoke on Canada's position in the world and how our way of life depends on "integrity and ownership of the wealth of our country."

NO MENTION

"I notice the previous speakers make no mention of integrity of government. Maybe enough has been said. We are all aware the election is being held because of a question of integrity in government."

This was almost all that was said all evening in connection with the Sommers case. But he twigged Mr. Gaglardi for saying B.C.'s government was the most honest "the world has ever known."

And he drew a laugh at expense of Attorney-General Robert Bonner, whom he quoted as saying he could not understand how Mr. Briggs could one day work for the government and the next day against it.

"He couldn't understand how Mr. Briggs got from point A to point B. Well, I can remember when Mr. Bonner was a member of the Conservatives."

'STAE OF REVOLT'

Mr. Finlayson said Mr. Briggs was not alone. "The civil service is almost in a state of revolt."

In his rebuttal period Mr. Finlayson said he had learned the B.C. government had made no attempt to participate in a federal offer mentioned in the 1957 Throne Speech, to share in Columbia River hydro financing.

Also in rebuttal:

Mr. Laing said to Mr. Gaglardi with respect to the Columbia power: "I'll tell you what you were trying to do. Four years ago you were going to give it to Kaiser. If it had not been for the Liberals in Ottawa, you would have."

He suggested the federal government might also intervene in the Wenner-Gren deal because 1,182 native Indians live in the area now under reserve for the northern development.

In his rebuttal period Mr. Strachan reviewed his party's policies. On labor, he said amendments would be asked in the act to provide "sensible, decent labor laws" but "this doesn't mean the CCF will go along with racketeers.

comer to city politics this year, is a member of several community committees who includes in his platform promotion of secondary industries, amalgamation if approved by voters, establishment of Victoria College as a university and expansion of senior citizens' housing.

Mrs. Sally Rogers, a housewife with four children, will press for federal and provincial underwriting of school costs, establishment of a Greater Victoria better business bureau, reducing assessments on new improvements and more polling stations.

Elgin Neish, a commercial fisherman, who has been a regular candidate for five years, stands for payment of school costs by senior governments, payment of the off-street parking facilities by business taxation, abolition of fixed assessments, amalgamation, a graduated business tax and trade with China.

SAANICH

All five candidates are running on anti-amalgamation tickets. They are:

Coun. George Austin, 19-year veteran on council, seeking re-election; Coun. Harold Todd, a postman elected to a one-year term last year, trying for a full term; Coun. Ainslie Worthington; Gregory C. Cook, manual arts teacher, who advocates hiring of a municipal manager, and Reginald A. Clarke, who says bus services should be improved, especially in the Gordon Head area.

OAK BAY

Veteran councillors Patrick Birley and George Murdoch are battling for a one-year session as reeve to fill the vacancy caused by resignation of Reeve Fred Norris. Both stand for continuing the current policies in Oak Bay.

Coun. Birley, an architect, and chairman of the capital region planning board, has served five years on the council. Coun. Murdoch, a radio and television technician, has served on the council for 13 years.

None of the candidates for three two-year terms and two one-year terms on council propose any changes in municipal policies.

Seeking the full terms are: Coun. Geoffrey Ellis, a business executive with six years' service on council; Coun. Fred Robinson, a contractor trying for his fourth term; Coun. Ralph Mathews, a retired resident who was first elected seven weeks ago in a by-election, and newcomer John A. de Bourcier, a company manager.

The newcomers to Oak Bay politics are bidding for election to one-year terms. They are Allan L. Cox, 31, a lawyer; John Douglas Watts, 37, an engineer, and Gordon B. Elworthy, 32, a company director.

ESQUIMALT

Two councillors seeking re-election and two "outside" candidates trying for their first terms are running for the three seats.

Coun. James Bryant, chairman of the joint committee supervising the Gorge Park project, said he would campaign for a breakwater at Lampson Park.

Coun. Vincent Rush's platform is "sound administration."

Edward Lawrence De Costa, a VMD employee, advocates more playgrounds for children and pledges full support for the Gorge Park development.

Mrs. F. A. Browne, housewife, has no specific platform because "Esquimalt is already pretty well run. I can't see how it can be improver very much."

Canada's newsprint industry has a production which is four times that of any other country.

Mistrial in Bombing

ATLANTA (UPI) — The trial of George Allen Bright, accused of the Oct. 12 bombing of Atlanta's Jewish Temple, ended in a mistrial today when the jury could not reach a verdict after 22 hours and 30 minutes of deliberation.

N.Y. Papers Struck

'MILK FOR HUNGRY CHILDREN'

$288 Donated in One Day

Gifts totalling $288 today sent the Victoria Times "Milk for Hungry Children Fund" to $2,310.46.

Some were small, like the $2 given by Margie, Davie, Cathie, and Jimmie, and some were anonymous, like the $2 given only "In His Name."

One group, the Treasury Staff Association of Canada, Esquimalt Branch, gave $10, but all gave with the wish of doing something for the children who will benefit from the fund.

These are the countless hungry youngsters of Korea, India, and Hong Kong who will drink milk made from powder provided by the Unitarian Service Committee, under whose auspices the Times fund is operating.

Two of today's donors expressed their feelings this way:

"Enclosed please find a very small donation to this worthy cause. God bless you and thanks for giving us the opportunity to help a little. Merry Christmas." Signed, Lottie and Cecil Wyatt.

. . . MYSTERY

The story added: "But the old gentleman said it was true that a child had been born there on the mountain to one of the sisters and had grown up without attending school.

"'We taught her ourselves,' he said.

"'But I want you to understand that in the physical sense I died when I was put here, and this was a virgin birth. I am her father—and there are documents in Victoria—but she is the daughter of God'."

McFarlane said the group at times consisted of 32 people, many of them young people.

He was quoted as saying he retired from business in Vancouver 20 years ago. After his wife died, he and the sisters had lived in a waterfront hotel, then in a park and were finally taken to the cabin by two surveyors.

Of the original six who followed McFarlane, only one was with him. Two died, two married and went elsewhere and they could not recall the other.

"They came, they took pity on me, and they became part of my house," he was quoted as saying. "I asked no one here."

Hazlitt said he would not presume to try to "evaluate the flow of mystic philosophy which poured in a well-modulated stream from the old man."

But he had forecast the end of the world, said there were several heavens and described his arrival at the cabin "in a strange mixture of biblical reference and prophecy."

WINNIPEG (CP)—Twenty-four members of the faculty of United College today called for an independent judicial inquiry into a controversy over the firing of history professor Harry S. Crowe.

ON SALT SPRING

Fire Service Report Ready Next Month

GANGES — A report on ways and means of improving fire protection on Salt Spring Island will be ready for taxpayers next month, it was learned at a regular meeting of the Salt Spring Island Chamber of Commerce.

A preliminary report on establishing a fire protection area was given the chamber by Henry McGill, services committee chairman.

He told members of visits made to several Vancouver Island fire departments to study equipment and arrangements.

Members of the volunteer fire department here, who accompanied Mr. McGill to the meeting, said the present situation is "desperate." Fire protection, they said, depends on a truck that is both unsafe on the road and difficult to start.

The chamber decided to ask the superintendent of motor-vehicles to make drivers' tests available on the island for two consecutive days each month.

The jig used in building the wings of a modern transport plane is so large workers using the same jig must communicate by telephone.

B.C. Government Lacks Authority

PORT ALBERNI (CP)—The provincial government has no power to confer on municipalities the right to fluoridate their water supplies, city solicitor E. A. Dinsmore said.

He expressed his legal opinion in a report read at the annual stewardship meeting of city council, which has authorized a referendum on fluoridation during Thursday's municipal election.

Referring to the Health Act of B.C., Mr. Dinsmore said: "It seems clear to me that treatment by chemical or other means can only be carried out as an operation for the purification of a water system or water supply."

Later in his lengthy report he questioned provincial authority to deal with the matter and stated: "I am of the opinion, after considering all aspects of the case, that the matter falls within the jurisdiction of national parliament as contained in the Food and Drug Act."

Before Mr. Dinsmore cited his opinion, meeting chairman Irving Wilson announced that there would be no debate on the pros and cons of fluoridation.

City works superintendent Len Crowshaw, reporting on the cost of installing fluoridation equipment, said the expense would be approximately $10,000 while materials would cost about $4,000 a year, or 30 to 40 cents per capita.

. . . BOMB

a dormitory with 11 boys when the blast blew out the walls and brought the roof crashing down. He led all 11 to safety.

The cult attracted a following of about 100 men, women and children whod practised communal living and promised a home to "all who want to live the 10 commandments, regardless of race or creed."

Venta and his followers, barefoot, bearded and robed, appeared at many brush fires, plane crashes and other disasters in the area as volunteer rescue workers and fire fighters.

10,000 CHRISTMAS TREES CUT BUT 'QUITE A SHORTAGE' FELT

NANAIMO (CP)—A harvest of 10,000 Christmas trees—about half that of 1957—has been scaled through the B.C. Forest Service office here in the last few weeks.

"There is quite a shortage," a forester said Tuesday, although the department could find no reason.

Most of the harvest has been taken for export to the U.S. and the B.C. mainland, with cutting for the local market in progress now.

FINAL ANTIQUE AUCTION OF 1958 AT MAYNARD'S

An interesting collection of English and Chinese antiques and china, Italian oil paintings, grand piano, rugs and jewellery, including two diamond and emerald bracelets set in platinum, valued at $5,750 and $3,500, form the background for Thursday and Friday evenings.

The auction commences tonight at 7.30 with a good collection of Canadian and London-made modern furnishings, de luxe appliances, television sets, contemporary oil paintings, and a 1957 MGA sports car and 1958 Chevrolet station wagon, plus the close-out of an exclusive gift shop.

Seating will be provided for 250 in Maynard's well-heated salesrooms, and free parking for 80 cars.

Viewing continues today.

Wake Up Tomorrow Morning* Without Arthritis-Rheumatism Pains...Or Pay Nothing!

CONSISTENT RESULTS PROVED IN THREE LEADING HOSPITALS

Three leading U.S. hospitals have just completed over a year of extensive clinical tests with a brilliant new discovery, developed by an eminent doctor—a professor of medicine at a leading medical college. The results have been way "beyond all expectations" for the vast majority of sufferers. Users, taking it at night for the very first time, reported they woke up in the morning without arthritic pain; that the pain of stiffness and swelling and pain in crippled joints soon started to be relieved and they could move around more freely once again within a week or two. The name of the discovery is Sustamin 2-12.

"Canned Food" Morning Matinee

The 700 Block Yates Street merchants have donated the Odeon Theatre this Saturday, Dec. 13, for the morning show of the Saturday Movie Club. Admission will be one or more cans of food, which will go into the Food Stall Christmas Hampers to help the needy.

Food will be distributed at Mrs. Harper's Food Stall next Saturday, Dec. 20, to persons showing Welfare Cards. Mrs. Harper has a list of 225 needy families, so make this matinee a well-attended event with lots of donations for the Food Stall Hampers.

A crowd of 1,400 children is expected to come to the Odeon Theatre Saturday at 10 a.m. The feature attraction will be "Forbidden Planet," an adventure in outer space, in Technicolor, plus a colored cartoon.
